IDENTIFYING THE DEAD.

Precautions Taken by British Soldiers Before Going Into Battle.

The names of the British killed and wounded after a battle are ascertained by means of the identification cards which all our soldiers carry sewed up in the left hand corner of their khaki tunics.

On the card are written the soldier's name, rank, regimental number, together with the name and address of the next of kin. The latter are added so that the authorities may know where to forward the effects of any soldier who gets killed.

After an engagement the roll is called as soon as the regiments get back to their camp. Every man who does not answer is "ticked off" as missing, and search is made for him in the field. As the search parties come across the dead and wounded men they rip open the tunic at the left hand corner, and take out the identification card.

The cards thus collected are carried back to camp and handed over to the clerks of the general in command, who immediately compile the casualty lists. After all the cards have been collected the roll is checked again, and a note made of those men of whom no trace has been discovered. These are usual ly presumed to have been taken prisoners, but it does not always follow that the assumption is correct.

In the meantime the tunic opposite the identification card every soldier carries a small pad of bandages, etc., for dressing a wound. This "field dressing," as it is called, is added to "Tommy's" equipment in order that he may be his own surgeon until medical assistance arrives or may have the wherewithal on hide to bind up the wounds of a chum.

Men will probably be surprised to learn that one of the last things "Tommy" does is to collect the pipe he is to make his will, although every regiment contains a percentage of happy go lucky fellows who do not worry themselves about what will become of their property when they no longer require it.—London Mail.

Now the Golf Cart.

If one would be thoroughly up to date when he drives to the golf links, he must now go there in his golfing cart, for that is the newest thing that the carriage makers have turned out. The cart is a four wheeled affair and looks like a dogcart or a game cart. The body line sweeps downwardly to a high, boxlike bodice, with a concave curve at the back, the whole made of solid wood instead of being perforated with holes, as is done with the gaps carts, originally intended to take gamecocks to the pits and through which perforations air was admitted to the fowls, or slatted, as are the dogcarts, the object in this instance being to admit light and air to the dogs.

A fellow's bundle of golf clubs needs neither light nor air, so they are carried in a basket strapped diagonally across the rear of the cart, much as the horn basket is strapped to a mail coach. One of these boys was shown at the recent horse show, and it occasioned some comment among people who were pretty well up on carriages, but the puzzle was soon solved, as the trap was one that was sent out of the ring early in the game. A number of these carts have lately been made for shipment to the fashionable country places.—New York Times.

Amateur Sign Painters.

Why will some amateur sign writers practice their badly learned art upon a public that only passes by to snore?

On a church up Woodward avenue is this sign in gold on the bulletin board: "Devine Service at 10 30 Sunday Mornings."

The other day this was read across in a drug store window: "Hell Janes Breath Purfume Positively the Best."

But here is one you may see any day well out on Lafayette avenue:

"Hlank's Shoes Are the Most Comfortable Made"

Almost as bad as this in the advertisement of a certain tailor here in town: "Clothes Cuffed For any heller."—Detroit Free Press.

Will Be Reimbursed.

Losing the charleston in Philippine waters will involve a claim against the government by the men and officers of the ship for personal losses sustained by the vessel's sinking. Each man is entitled to be reimbursed for everything that he lost, it being required that each article, however, shall be enumerated and its probable value given. When the American ships were lost at Apia in the great hurricane of March, 1889, congress reimbursed all the men and officers. Some of the claims of officers were as high as $2,500 and few were under $1,500.

Right in Style.

"Marse Milton, cut yo' gimme a few mile meat sacks yo' doun' want?"

"What do you want with them, Aunt Hannah?"

"Ah wants to make dem boys sum coats. Dey hyard sum oh dem folks at de minstrils say dat sack coats wud be worn dis winter."—Chicago News.

Freak Advertising.

A recent ordinance in Chicago prohibits freak advertising in the streets. To one man arrested, dressed as an Irish knight of olden times and bearing a tin shield with an advertisement upon it, a police captain said, "Why, that rig would make an automobile balk. It shall not be permitted."

Elk, Deer and Lion Going.

In ten years the elk will be but a memory in Colorado, so far as hunting is concerned. In 20 years the deer will be unknown in this state as a game animal. Mountain lion hunting will soon do away with those animals also.—Denver Republican.

"Self Preservation

Is the first law of nature," for this reason everyone who is ill desires to become well. Those who have impure or impoverished blood turn to Hood's Sarsaparilla, because they know it will purify their blood and give them good health. To take this medicine on the first appearance of impure blood is an important step toward self preservation

Hood's Pills cure sick headache, biliousness.

Grain-O! Grain-O!

Remember that name when you want a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it. Grain-O is made of pure grain, it aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and the children as well as the adults can drink it with great benefit. Costs about ¼ as much as coffee. 15 and 25c. per package. Ask your grocer for Grain-O.

Salt Water Baths.

For a hand bath (a bath given to the body by use of the hands only or by sponge or cloth placed in a handful of salt in a basin as ordinarily filled for washing) the water is quite sufficiently salty to resist the action by stirring it with the hand. The water should be as cold as you have vitality to withstand. Use no soap. Refine the entire body. Do not neglect the face and neck in the free use of the salt water.

This bath has an exhilarating influence, tones the entire system and gives to the skin a healthful condition that amply repays for the time and trouble involved. If used in the winter, it will be an excellent preventive of colds, besides being a substitute for face cosmetics. No chapping, no roughness of the skin and no clogging of the pores will trouble the person who systematically and regularly takes a bath of this sort.

Ordinary table salt or rock salt will do, but will not do so well. The sea salt contains medicinal properties not found in the others. Whether one exercises or not the body should receive a daily hand bath of cold or cool water, especially in the summer, either upon rising or before retiring.—Edward B. Warman in Ladies' Home Journal.

Thackeray and the Cabman.

Thackeray loved to relate jokes on himself and none the especially enjoyed was about a Reading hackman. The author was unacquainted with the town, and the moment he emerged from the railway station he told a hackney coachman to drive him to the nearest hotel. The driver closed the door circumspectly, mounted his box and they started in half a minute the cab was at a standstill and Thackeray saw the cabman at the door, bowing to him to come out. He did so without a word, and found that he was at the portico of the station hotel, which he had failed to see was not a dozen yards off.

But he handed the man a shilling and was entering the hotel, rather pleased with his own sang froid, when he was amazed to see the cabman taking off his coat as if preparing to fight him for the other sixpence." It appears that on that day a resolution of the Reading town council had come into operation empowering hackney coachmen to charge eightpence for any distance within the township. This was its first fruits! It is unnecessary to add that the cabman got his money and Thackeray a good story to tell at the clubs.

Interrupted the Programme.

"Did that thar sharp what give a show in the opry house last night fetch bullets in his teeth as he said he would when his pistols?" asked Pecunpine Pete.

"He fetched a few," said Lariat Lem, "but not exactly as he allowed he was going to do."

"Nother one of them tenderfoot swindles, I spose."

"Mebbe, I dunno. He didn't git far enough to wave his bullets or wuss a swindle or not. You see, he begin his performance by askin fer some gentlemanly member of the audience to hold his hat."

"Wot happened then?"

"Well, Dog Faced Lick handed his hat up, and the professor started off by breakin a passel of eggs into it. The latter part of the programme happened right thar. The coroner's waitin to hear from his friends in the east, if he has any."—Chicago Times-Herald.

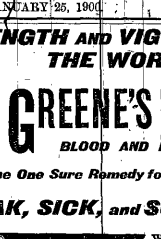
STRENGTH AND VIGOR THE WORLD'S NEED.

DR. GREENE'S NERVURA

BLOOD AND NERVE REMEDY

The One Sure Remedy for the World's

WEAK, SICK, and SUFFERING.



What is it all the world hungers for? Strength, energy, the electricity, the vigor and power of youth.

What makes these things? Why, fiery blood and snapping nerves, iron strength, superb health.

And whence comes superb health? By the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy (nature's own medicine), we may build on weakness into strength, our exhaustion into vigor, our prostration into renewed life and energy.

Dr. Greene's Nervura is the remedy of remedies—the one sure and perfect cure for disease—the medicine which makes people well. It is the renewer of life, the true tonic and restorative, which gives appetite and enjoyment for all life's pleasures. Every body should take it.—If well to keep so; if ill to make yourself well.

Take it—and be strong

MR F. F. DEARB, Woodsville, N. H., says:—"I was taken sick and was ailing for a long time and they started in half a minute up work enough for about a year. I employed a doctor for a year, which did me no good to all my sons. I was worried and thought exercise wearied me. I heard of Dr Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and of its wonderful results on other people, and I resolved to try it, and from the results I can say it has done me good for it, I feel my health as well in years as I ever did since taking Dr Greene's Nervura, and I cheerfully recommend it to all."

Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He has remedies for all forms of disease, and offers to give free consultation and advice, personally or by letter. You can tell or write your troubles to Dr Greene, for all communications are confidential, and letters are answered in plain sealed envelopes.
