Snaky Feeling

Severe Headaches. Miss Theresa M. Denning, 807 Nelson St., Knoxville, Tenn. (picture above) says: "I suffered quite a bit with weakness, and at times would have severe headaches and would have to go to bed. My limbs seemed to draw, and I felt so weak and shaky. This was just before I graduated, and I didn't want to lose any time in school. I was restless and tired all the time."

Cardinal was recommended. After the first bottle I felt better, but I wasn't willing to quit them. I took another and there was a great difference in my feeling. I do not suffer now with headaches-in fact, I feel fine.

Members of the Committee of Management of the Branch will serve as hostesses at the luncheon and night-sewing trio through the building which will follow the meeting.

St. Louis 10-Year Boy Barred From N. Y. Stage. Paul Whiteman, orchestra leader, appeared in West Side Court Tuesday in answer to a summons obtained against him by agents of the Children's Society, who charged that Whiteman was permitting a minor to perform on the stage. The child is Edwin Harris, ten-year old Negro dancer and banjo player of St. Louis.

Edmund G. Joseph and Harold R. Zeamons, 1834 Broadway, counsel for Whiteman, explained that their client was willing to pay the boy's and his parents' expenses back to St. Louis, and furthermore did not want his name to be in the papers, as he was violating the law. Louis Wasser, Assistant District Attorney, asked an adjournment until tomorrow, so that he might consult with Vincent Pisarra, superintendent of the society. The agents discovered the child at the Saturday night performance of a musical comedy in which Whiteman plays.

"Snowball," as the tiny Negro is known, stood by his portly patron and whimpered when he realized that his career on the New York stage, on which he has become a favorite, was ending. His father, Walter, also was present.

"What kind of work does the father do?" the court inquired. "I'm the guardian of my son," Harris replied.

"Snowball," has been earning $100 a week in the musical show.

Katy Ferguson Home To Have Sermon and Music. Next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock the inmates of the Katy Ferguson Home, 162 West 130th street, will have a special sermon and musical program given them under the auspices of the program committee of the St. James Presbyterian Church Forum of which Dr. Julia P. H. Coleman is president.

The program will include a sermon by Rev. W. R. Lawton; music by Mrs. S. E. Johnson's music pupils; select reading, Mesdames Martin, Stigaver, and Floyd.

Mrs. Maggie Jones One Of Many New Yorkers To Secure Good Homes Through N. T. Hegeman Co.

In 1910 the N. T. Hegeman Company started a campaign urging Negroes to leave the congested districts of Manhattan for the suburbs of New York. At that particular time the company opened a development at Westwood, N. J., within the Metropolitan area of New York, and as a result of this drive there are hundreds of former New Yorkers now living in Westwood.

One of this number is Mrs. Maggie Jones, who formerly lived in West 40th street, (the Hell's Kitchen district) in ading tenement house with no improvements at all. The rooms were so dark they had to be artificially lighted during the day. She secured a building site at Westwood and was so enthusiastic with the site as a future home, the Hegeman Company erected a house on her lots, and payments were made in small monthly installments. Mrs. Jones has since built, on her own accord, several more houses on lots she purchased from the Hegeman Co. at Westwood and now looks toward the first of the month, not as a time of worry and expense, but as a time of revenue.

There are many other similarly situated, who in addition to owning their own homes, have become prosperous contractors and landlords. Some work in New York City and commute, while others in this development work in nearby towns, etc.

Next week the Hegeman Company will tell of another of their developments and the benefits and independence derived by those who had the foresight to buy.

Clafin Association Gave Program At St. Mark Lyceum Sunday Afternoon. The New York Club of Clafin University, composed of graduates and ex-students of that institution, gave an interesting program at the St. Mark's Lyceum Sunday afternoon, April 3.

The principal speaker was T. A. Dixon, head of the New York office of the Northeastern Life Insurance Co., who told of the influence of Clafin and the work its graduates are doing. He gave special praise to the work of Dr. W. M. Danton, who served as president for 43 years and who is now president emeritus.

Another interesting address was by George W. Hodges, president of the Lyceum, who is a former student at Clafin.

The musical part of the program consisted of selections by Charles Williams, Miss Reba McClain, Miss Lulu Hunt, Jacob Williams, S. C. Thompson and Mr. DeYampert.

The exercised marked the beginning of a movement to bring Clafin up to the class A standard.

COL. COSTIGAN OF OLD 69th INFANTRY TO REVIEW 369th

Irish Troopers Were Wartime Camp Mates With Harlem Soldiers. Col. William J. Costigan, commanding officer of the old 69th regiment, now the 165th Infantry, N. Y. N. G., is to review the 369th Infantry, on Friday Evening, April 8th, 1927, at the Armory at 8:40 promptly.

This review will be the second review of the year for the 369th Infantry, and will bring together the Fighting Irish of the old 69th regiment and the Hell Fighters of the old 15th regiment.

Were Wartime Buddies. The review in honor of Col. Costigan will have exceptional significance in view of the traditions which have made the 165th Infantry and 369th Infantry most loyal friends. In the early days of the war, when the old 15th regiment under the command of the famous Col. "Bill" Hayward, was stationed at Camp Mills, just prior to embarkation for France, the old 69th was a loyal friend. The 369th Infantry, as part of the French Army, again met the old 69th around Maffreccourt, France, during the latter days of the war, and there again showed their loyalty to the boys from home.

During the present days of the 369th Infantry, New York National Guard, under the leadership of Col. William A. Taylor, the 165th Infantry has given its hearty cooperation in rehabilitating the regiment and in making it a strong fighting unit.

Had Joint Brigade Review. Last spring, under the leadership of Col. John J. Phelan, the entire 69th Regiment accepted the invitation of Col. Taylor, to participate in a brigade review. This event in the form of a review of the officers and the men of the regiment, will never be forgotten. After a parade through the streets of Harlem, both regiments assembled in the new Armory of the 369th Infantry, and participated in a review in honor of Col. Phelan and the officers and the men of the regiment.

With the appointment of Col. Phelan as brigadier general in the New York National Guard to command the 93rd Infantry, N. Y. N. G. Col. William J. Costigan was appointed to assume command of the 165th Infantry, N. Y. N. G.

Special Features and A Dance. Special features of the review will be an exhibition drill by the non-commissioned officers School, which has made such an enviable record under command of Major Kenney O'Connor, and now under command of Lieutenant Williams of Company I.

The Regimental athletic officer, Captain Atkins, has announced an attractive athletic program, and there is a possibility, that one of the regiments and now under command of Lieutenant Williams of Company I.

After the review the regimental band will play dance music and every one is invited to dance.

Mrs. Anna Lowenberg To Lecture on Africa At St. Luke's Hall. Members of the Gleaner's Club, of which Ernest E. Mair is president and Miss Ina M. Bailey secretary, are looking forward to an interesting lecture by Mrs. Anna B. Lowenberg, traveller and antique collector, who has just returned from a trip to Africa. She will illustrate her talk with lantern slides and has promised to bring some of her African curios.

The lecture will be given at St. Luke's Hall on West 130th street, Friday evening, April 29, at 8:30. The public is invited to be present.
