A Footnote to Death

"Nothing can bring her back," said Doctor Yashin as a policeman tried to console him. Yashin's wife, Tatyana, was killed in an automobile crash a short time before this picture of grief was taken. Yashin's car plowed into another car, killing Tatyana and her friend, Glenda Kovalenko.

Bobby, Runaway Number 1, Wound Up in Class

What began as a simple project for Bobby McCoart, a 15-year-old Brooklyn boy, turned into a nightmare when he was caught trying to stow away on a ship bound for Europe.

Choir Singer

ROE EMERGED AS THE LEADER OF DEMOCRACY

Sheridan Tried Desperately to Retain His Hold on Party

The New York Daily News, which had predicted a Democratic victory in the election, was shocked to learn that the Republicans had actually won.

DONALD USED DAD'S GUN TO KILL HIS GIRL

Young Carroll was found dead in his father's room.

Hurricane Loss Put At $100,000,000

Is This Her Last Year on Earth?

Human Toll Still in Doubt

By revisiting Long Island from Montauk to Mattituck, it was discovered that there had been a double suicide in Sayville. The two victims, Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara, were found dead in their home.

Here They Were, Mr. Luckenbach!

The congressman died in his automobile in a sudden storm while he was on a trip to Washington.

Death Claimed Six in This Fourth of July Crash

Andrew Luckenbach, who was to be a groom at a wedding, was killed in the crash. The wedding was to have been held in Brooklyn.