the United States has a total of 17,679 banks, which includes state, public, private banks, and trust companies. These banks together contain 833,277 employees and $28,601,650 in bank notes, and $160,097,164 in gold and silver coin. The figures are interesting, and the book, "The Bankers of America" by George S. Hill, is a valuable study. The figures are further detailed in the book "The Bankers of America." The book contains a wealth of information and is highly recommended.
