ANSWER OF DENISON, BELDEN & CO.

On Monday, Messrs Denison, Belden and Gale, defendants in the suit brought by the people for the recovery of $494,584.05, alleged to have been fraudulently obtained through the Port Schuyler and lower Mohawk aqueducts contract, served their answer on Attorney General Pratt, through their attorneys, Messrs. Ruger and Hiscock of Syracuse. Defendants deny each and every allegation in the complaint. They declare the work and materials were justly and reasonably worth the sum of $494,584.05. They specifically deny each and every allegation which imputes to them any fraud, or the use of any improper or undue influence of any corrupt combination or collusion with the officers of the State, or the use of any false pretenses or vouchers for obtaining any credit, money or estimates, all lavits or certificates from any of the officers or agents of the State. They aver that all moneys were paid to them and all estimates were made by duly authorized and accredited officers of the State.

FAILURE OF LEE, SHEPARD & CO.

The liabilities of the Boston house are placed at $350,000, of which probably fifty per cent. will be paid. The New York house's liabilities are $150,000, which will probably be paid in full.

A Rival of Tom Thumb.

The London Standard of August 10 says: "Thanks to the vigilance and energy of Mr. William Holland, a sensation, to give a fillip to the close of the season, has been secured for the North Woolwich Gardens. Physically speaking, the sensation is not a large one—measuring exactly six inches less in stocking vamps than Gen. Tom Thumb, and weighing about six and twenty pounds. The name he answers to (for he is alive and a male) is Jean Hannema, but he has been nicknamed 'Admiral Tom Trump,' and is attached temporarily to the toy navy of the Serpentine. Jean was born at Franeker, Friesland, Holland, April 23, 1839. He is very intelligent, and speaks five languages fluently, viz., English, French, Dutch, German and Italian. He has not been exhibited in England since 1849, he then being ten years old, and he has not grown since that time. On that occasion he had the honor of a royal command, and appeared at Buckingham Palace before the Queen and Prince Albert. We cannot say we hold much sympathy with the curiosity that is excited by the view of lusus naturæ, but Mr. Holland knows his constituents. He is a showman, and, as Artemus Ward said in his interview with President Lincoln, 'Showmen is devoid of politics—they know how to cater for the public.' In any case the Admiral will be seen with interest by his visitors, for he is vivacious and intelligent as well as lilliputian. He exposes his linguistic abilities with commendable modesty, and talks of the scenes he has visited in his continental ramblings with as much zest as a traveler whose growth would be more in consonance with the feeling of enjoyment.
