For County [illegible]
For Justice of Sessions [illegible]
For Coroner [illegible]

ASSEMBLY.
First District [illegible]
Second District [illegible]

The Hudson [illegible] vote for Samuel J. Tilden [illegible] county. [illegible] most likely [illegible] the possibility that he [illegible] the presidency.

This week we are to have three political conventions. To-day the Massachusetts Republicans in Worcester, [illegible] the New Jersey [illegible] in Camden. To-morrow, the Massachusetts Democrats [illegible] Worcester, the Connecticut Democrats at Hartford and the [illegible] Greenback in Jefferson City; on [illegible], the Delaware Democrats in [illegible].

[illegible] was expected Arkansas is reported to have gone heavily Democratic at the State election yesterday. The Republican party in [illegible], as in Alabama, has been divided into two factions by the restless ambition of individual aspirants. [illegible] was at the last moment patched up, but it came too late to [illegible] harmonious and vigorous action. On the contrary Vermont will to-day show what unity of purpose and zealous and [illegible] action will accomplish.

The United States Attorney General has issued full instructions to United States Marshals as to their duties in the coming general election, to the effect that all citizens must be [illegible] protected at the registration [illegible] and [illegible] voting, and also be protected from any violence which may be threatened for having voted as they deem proper. Special deputy marshals are to be appointed only in cities of twenty thousand inhabitants and upward. In the discharge of their duties marshals can call upon all citizens, civilians, military or in volunteer service they may be, and no State law or officers can impede them.

FRAUDULENT REFORMERS.

The times have developed all kinds of political inconsistency and depravity. The [illegible] are occasionally coming to light, and public attention drawn to them. Mr. James R. Doolittle, of Wisconsin, and once Senator from that State, will be remembered as one of those treacherous politicians who, obtaining Republican support by false pretenses, seek an early opportunity of deserting to the Democratic camp. This treachery is accomplished [illegible] the guise of "Conservative Republicanism," the acts of desertion are styled "Independent," and the "Independent Conservative" developed into a malignant Copperhead [illegible], becomes a [illegible] "reformer." [illegible] of this sort of politics, [illegible] of which this class is capable is found in the recent discovery of a spurious secret circular, purporting to emanate from the [illegible] office of the National Republican Executive Committee, and addressed to postmasters in Wisconsin, the object being to [illegible] "doubtful Republicans." This circular [illegible] been traced to the private office of ex-[illegible], ex-senator, and present Democratic manager, James R. Doolittle. As a specimen of political trickery, imposition, and forgery, the Doolittle circular is unique. [illegible], however, to show to what baseness [illegible] descends when he abandons hope and [illegible] a reformer.

THE SARATOGA FOLLY.

After the Democratic convention had in [illegible] Gov. Seymour by nominating him [illegible] in the face of repeated statements that he could not be a candidate, and J. Thomas Spriggs had sent a telegram to the committee which meant nothing more nor less that Gov. Seymour had been lying and that he would accept the nomination, and after prominent men had visited Gov. Seymour and failed to induce him to accept, several Democratic [illegible] of the State entered into collusion, probably as a result of much consultation with Democratic managers, and undertook the hard job of running him whether or no. They represented that he was the candidate [illegible], and would accept if he had not [illegible] done so. This added to the insults which the Governor had already received, [illegible] an insult also to the intelligence of the people of the State. Even so late as yesterday afternoon the Utica Observer, published [illegible] the house of Gov. Seymour, sent out the following words in an editorial:

"The Governor's disinclination to accept the nomination has been [illegible] a feeling of distrust of his physical ability to [illegible], in however slight a degree, in public affairs. [illegible] feeling of distrust has been, we are glad to know, almost entirely dispelled by the representations of persons prominent in the management of the canvass and by the [illegible] assurances of [illegible] The [illegible] is in the hands of the Democratic party of the State of New York for election, and it only remains for the party to go right along and elect him with a majority that shall [illegible] record as the grandest achievement of the Democracy in this State."

And these words were published notwithstanding the fact that a telegram had that day been sent to the Associated Press stating that Gov. Seymour had given his letter of declination to Mr. Magone and that a new convention would be called. Such partisan and [illegible] foolishness as has been brought out by this nomination have never been known in this State before. Now the New York World endeavors to cast all the blame upon the shoulders of poor J. Thomas Spriggs of Utica, the sender of the famous dispatch—"Go in and finish your ticket." Why was he any more to blame than the convention which nominated Gov. Seymour very soon after a telegram was read to them from him that he would accept no nomination? [illegible] has meant "We know you will not [illegible], but you will and you shall." How [illegible] of a failure it was is shown by the now published letter of declination and the calling [illegible] convention.

[illegible] deceitful and disgraceful [illegible] of Democrats to make their most [illegible] run for Governor in spite of [illegible] the result, more than anything [illegible] great fear—the fear that the exposure [illegible] Tilden's career and his diminishing [illegible] would lose him the State unless he [illegible] bolstered up and helped along. With [illegible] of the effort goes the last possible [illegible] success in New York.

[illegible] Personal. [illegible]

Gov. Seymour's Last Letter.

The Governor's closing paragraph in his [illegible] addressed [illegible] Democratic State Convention [illegible] the [illegible] matter of his name as for declining the nomination for governor, and is as follows:

Terrible Explosion in Minnesota.

The Chicago Tribune's La Crosse special gives details of a terrible explosion of the boiler of a steam thresher working at the farm of [illegible] J. Jones, near Chatfield, Minn. The machine was in full operation when the explosion occurred. The engineer, Mr. Lawton, was blown 100 feet, his body breaking off a tree top twenty feet from the ground, and was instantly killed. Charles Arnold, band cutter, was literally torn to pieces, and portions of his body scattered all around the separator. William Burnett, the measurer, had the top of his head taken off by a piece of the boiler. Everett Jones, the feeder, had a leg and an arm badly broken. The boiler was blown a distance of 300 feet, and the explosion was heard for miles.

General.

The yellow fever interments at Savannah, Georgia, on Monday, 4th, were ten.

At Buffalo, Monday, Peralto undertook to ride 160 miles in eight hours, riding thirty mustangs, and accomplished the feat with eleven minutes to spare.

About one-third of the business portion of the town of Seaforth, Ont., was destroyed by fire Monday morning. Total loss estimated at $75,000.

The fourth annual convention of the National Association of Fire Engineers, began at Philadelphia Monday. Wm. H. Johnson, of Philadelphia, was elected President.

The scaffold of the new grain elevator, Sixtieth street and North river, New York, gave way Monday, precipitating four men into the river, one of whom was instantly killed. The others were severely injured.

One man was killed, six injured, and the machine shops very much wrecked, Monday, in Jeffersonville, Ind., by the explosion of a boiler in the yards of the Louisville & Indianapolis railroad.

While Mathew and John B. Brenan were at work excavating a clay bank in Oates avenue, Brooklyn, on Monday, the earth suddenly caved in, burying both men and a horse and cart employed in removing the clay. Mathew Brenan was taken out alive, but John, when reached, was dead.

The firm of Randolph, Bickley & Co., bankers of New York and Philadelphia, suspended Monday. Their business was mainly done with out of town customers. The liabilities are unknown. The failure of Wm. B. Clark, an old member of the board, was also announced at the New York Stock Exchange.

The suit of Moulton vs Beecher, for $50,000 damages for malicious prosecution, was up in the Brooklyn court, Monday, on a motion of the counsel for the defendant for a change of venue, as it is thought it would be easier to procure a jury in some other county than New York or Kings county. Counsel submitted a number of affidavits from Mr. Beecher and others to that effect. The plaintiff's counsel objected, and moved to dismiss the case, as he thought the court had no jurisdiction in regard to it. Judge Dykeman decided to consider the plaintiff's motion first, leaving the defendant's motion to stand over for three weeks.

Since the beginning of the year 1,220 miles of railroad have been constructed in the United States. This is more than twice the mileage reported in 1875, and a third more than in the corresponding portion of 1874.

The National Soldiers' Reunion commenced on Monday at Caldwell, Ohio, and the indications are that a very large number of soldiers will participate in the exercises during the week.

Two ladies, named Rutherford, who occupy a cottage at Cape May, and reside in Philadelphia, Pa., while out riding Sunday afternoon had their dresses set on fire by a spark from a cigar one of them was smoking, and were terribly burned before the fire could be extinguished.

On Horace Hall's farm, in Royal Oak, Mich., while Messrs Smith and Pomeroy were putting down a well they struck a sort of soft stone about twelve inches thick, and after they had drilled through it an explosion occurred like the report of a cannon, throwing the tools fully thirty feet into the air. It then began throwing out stones, sand, &c. Some large stones were thrown out, one of which weighed twelve pounds. It then began to spout forth white sand and smoke, which lasted for about nine hours.

Criminal.

The trial of C. F. Smith, charged with arson, the same person who was acquitted of the murder of Yost, began Monday at Johnstown. The day was occupied in getting a jury. The court-house was filled, but there was not the excitement and interest which attended his trial for murder.

The thirteen distillers and rectifiers and others known as the first batch indicted a year ago last May and who gave their evidence to the government, were brought up in the United States court at Chicago on Monday, and after a brief presentation of facts by the counsel to their behalf, were discharged.

Hearing in the case of Weeden and others, concerned in the prize fight which resulted in the death of Walker, on Thursday last, took place at Philadelphia on Monday, and the prisoners were remanded for a further hearing. A coroner's inquest was also had and Weeden, Sam Collyer and Fiddler Neary were committed as principals and the other prisoners as accessories.

THE CAMPAIGN.

THE REDUCTION OF TAXES.

How It was Done. The Exact Facts of the Case.

The story of the reduction of taxation in this State is as plain and straightforward that any honest and intelligent man who will candidly examine the facts for a moment can possibly mistake it.

In the first place what is the amount of the reduction? Clearly the difference between last year's tax and this year's tax. That is self evident. And here is the difference:

Total State tax for 1875	$14,[illegible]
Total State tax for 1876	[illegible],186,573 19
Reduction of State tax	$6,018,107 12

This is the total reduction of State taxation this year, every cent of it. And the amount of reduction thus determined, the only remaining question is how was it brought about? What is the cause of it?

A tax is raised for two purposes: first, to meet the current running expenses of the government; and second, to pay off the debts of the government. When the debts are paid off, it is no longer necessary to raise a tax for that purpose, and the tax can be reduced by just so much.

Now that is precisely the case in this State. Last year the State raised a tax of $6,337,-567 to pay off debts. That amount almost paid off what remained to be paid, so that it was only necessary this year to raise $789,-260 for this purpose. Nor is this all. The valuation of last year was increased after the tax had been determined, so that more tax was raised than had been collected. That excess of $456,789 relieved us of just so much this year. It belongs to the tax of 1875, and makes the amount of tax raised in 1875 to pay off debts $6,794,357 as against $789,-260 in 1876. The difference or reduction of tax for debt purposes is $6,005,097, and this amount, as will be seen, is almost identical with the total reduction of taxes.

This statement proves beyond all possibility of question that the reduction of taxes is due to the fact that the debt has been paid off, and not to any reduction of expenses. It is an absolute mathematical demonstration. The tax for the current running expenses of the State government is precisely the same for 1876 as for 1875. The expenses have not been reduced a cent. Gov. Tilden and his partisans do not pretend that he has paid off the debt. What they claim is that the reduction of taxes comes because he has reduced expenses. But we prove absolutely and incontrovertibly that the expenses are not reduced; that they are precisely the same as they were last year; that it is the debt which has been reduced and paid off; and that the reduction of taxes comes in this way.

Now, who paid off the debt? The answer is equally explicit. In 1867 the bounty debt of the State was over $25,000,000. The law established a sinking fund for the payment of this debt, and provided that a tax of two mills should be annually levied and sacredly set apart for this sinking fund. From January 1st, 1868, to January 1st, 1872, the Democrats had control of the Legislature, and of the financial administration of the State. What was the result? They levied the tax, but instead of faithfully applying it to its purpose according to law, they robbed the sinking fund in order to meet extravagant appropriations, and consequently in the four years only paid five millions and a half of the debt. During the next four years, the Republicans had control of the financial administration, and paid off nineteen millions and a half. That left only $700,000 to be paid, for which a tax of one third of a mill, producing $789,260, is levied this year. Hence the reduction of taxation.

We challenge dispute upon a single one of these facts. We challenge any of Gov. Tilden's partisans to answer them. Not one of them will attempt it. All of the statements are verified by the official records, they prove that Gov. Tilden's claim that he reduced the taxes is a brazen and impudent falsehood.—Albany Eve. Journal.

That Income Tax.

The New York Public, independent, inclines to the belief that "Tilden and Reform" will not win. It says "there is too much Tilden and not enough Reform about it. If a man who makes false returns to evade the income-tax is to be trusted as a reformer, the fewer reformers elected the better. The fact that other men evaded taxes does not excuse Gov. Tilden." The Public continues:

"Is it in any respect more honest to keep public money by refusing to make the truthful return of income which the law required, than to keep public money by making false returns as a distiller, or by neglecting duty as an official, or by defalcation? An honest construction of the law required every citizen to make return of his actual receipts in excess of those expenditures which the law allowed to be deducted. If Mr. Tilden did not do this, and if, either by placing a false construction upon the law, or by making no return, he kept back money which the law required him to pay, he defrauded the government. Tweed defrauded New York by false returns and by neglecting his duty as an official. If his former associate, Mr. Tilden, defrauded the United States in ways involving neither more nor less of moral wrong, it would be absurd to elect Mr. Tilden President and leave Tweed a fugitive in foreign lands."

Campaign Notes.

Deceiving people will never win their votes.

The Central City Register says that the late Colorado Republican Convention nominated the strongest ticket that could have been selected.

The Democrats of the Seventh District of Iowa have nominated Samuel J. Gilpin for Congress. This Gilpin's race will not amount to much.

The Democratic paper in Baltimore prints what it calls "political rifle-shots." They consist of four refusals to speak at a Democratic meeting.

The Memphis Ledger refuses to put up the name of Gov. Porter for re-election, because of his recent action in ordering the payment of the State coupons.

One of the curiosities of the campaign is that the rebel Democracy should complain so vehemently because it cost so much to whip them.

The press everywhere is beginning to see how ridiculous the candidacy of Tilden is becoming. The Elizabeth Journal says: "Unless the Democracy want not only to be beaten, but ignominiously routed, they had better take off Mr. Tilden at once."

Political.

A Little Rock (Ark.) dispatch of Monday says the election was one of the most orderly ever held in that city. No disturbances were reported from the outside. The State is conceded to the Democrats by an overwhelming majority.

Mr. Charles Francis Adams in a letter to a Maryland Democrat, expresses much anxiety that old issues may be ignored. Having abandoned principles which were supposed to be as dear to him as to other friends of the Union, it is quite natural that Mr. Adams should become forgetful of loyal remembrances. But should he be made the candidate of the Democracy for Governor of Massachusetts, he will find a large majority of its electors unprepared to turn their backs upon those issues which he deemed vital in 1861, and to whose support his father devoted a long life, and the responsibilities of which were transmitted in a solemn letter from his grandfather.

Three children were drowned in the river at St. Hyacinthe, province of Quebec, during the progress of the fire on Sunday. The sufferers by the fire are being supplied with bread, provisions, and other necessaries from Montreal.

The steam barge City of Port Huron from Marquette to Buffalo, with a cargo of iron ore, sank Monday afternoon in Lake Huron, near Lockport, in fifty feet of water. The vessel was valued at $[illegible] and owned in Buffalo. No lives lost.

SITTING BULL DEAD, AFTER ALL.

New York, Sept. 5.

A Herald special from Gen. Terry's headquarters on the north bank of the Yellowstone, dated Aug. 27, says: "It is confidently asserted that Sitting Bull fell in the battle of the Big Horn. His brother, it appears, came into Fort Berthold and gave a full account of his death. From the description of the man who killed him, Col. Reno says it is certain that he fell by the hand of Capt. Keogh, under whom the last desperate fight was made, as shown by the disposition of his battalion, which lay dead on the slope of a hill drawn up in the shape of a V, as if in the act of resisting an effort to surround them."

FATALLY BURIED IN A WELL.

Providence, Sept. 5.

Edward Harniers, a Frenchman who was engaged alone in digging a well in Warwick, R. I., was caught yesterday afternoon by the caving in of sand and gravel and gradually crushed to death. A priest made a perilous attempt to rescue the man by means of a ladder. The body was not extricated until one o'clock this morning, after twelve hours of continuous labor.

MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Worcester, Sept 5.

The Republican State convention met here this noon. A. H. Beard was temporary chairman. A resolution was introduced and referred, that women be allowed to take part and vote hereafter in Republican primary meetings. Senator Boutwell was made permanent chairman and made a long address in which he said: "If the Republicans have erred, to whom is our apology due? Of whom are we to ask forgiveness? Perhaps of the negro, who is the victim of the confidence in us misplaced and to his great harm. Perhaps of the soldier of the Union, who sees the fruit of his toil wrested from those who first of all should have participated in its enjoyment. But surely no apology can be tendered to those, nor forgiveness can be asked of those whose crimes have contributed to the partial failure of the scheme of reconstruction; and if these errors are to be corrected, shall the work of reconstruction be committed to its friends or to its enemies? The success of the Democratic party will command peace in the South, but it will be a peace secured by the forcible suppression of every political opinion except its own. It will create a solitude in political affairs, and call it peace. The negroes will be kept from the polls and the white Republicans will be murdered, driven out of the country, or intimidated into silence, and we shall then be told that everywhere there is order in the South. These are not dreams nor prophecies, but a plain narrative of existing facts in several States, and to be made universal in the South and permanent in the policy of the government of the country in case the present political campaign ends in a Democratic success.

"Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia have been taken by fraud and force, and by fraud and force they are now held. If men differ as to the extent of the wrongs, if there are questions of responsibility of motive which we cannot now answer, the fact remains that great outrages have been perpetrated, that Republicans have been the sufferers, and the only sufferers."

Mr. Boutwell closed as follows: "The chief danger to which the country is exposed is that the government may be taken, under the forms of law, but in violation of the constitutional rights of citizens disfranchised by force, and in violation as well of the constitutional rights of us all. These are serious dangers, but they should not give rise to despondency on our part. Rather should they inspire us with courage and confidence. We never yet appealed in vain to the people. The great State of New York is intelligent and patriotic. The destiny of the country is in its hands. The Republican party is there led by able and honest men, men worthy of a generous support. Gov. Hayes and Mr. Wheeler are without reproach. The principles of the Republican party have been tested. They saved the country in time of war. They will preserve it in time of peace. No other political organization has or has ever had so glorious a record, and if there are spots upon it, we may with pride say that it can bear some spots and yet fear no rival."

Newark, Sept. 5.

THE Colossal Bronze Statue of Victory which stands in the Park, at Lowell, before the tomb of the first soldiers who fell in the revolution, is a lasting and beautiful memorial. It is one of the first objects sought by strangers visiting our sister city, which indeed many visit purposely to see this elegant tribute of art. Obtained from the King of Bavaria by Dr. J. C. CHEESE—American choice is unchanged at [illegible] per cwt.

WATERTOWN, Sept. 5

CHEESE.—Last Saturday there was quite a large attendance at the Dairymen's Board of Trade rooms. There were about 11,000 boxes of cheese offered for sale. There was a decided improvement in the cheese market in New York and which is being felt here. Prices ranged from 9 to 9½ cents. From all points announcement is made that the improved state of trade is maintained; and that prices as now quoted are firm. The tabular statement of transactions at New York for last week and the corresponding week last year is as follows:

	Recpts.	Expts.	Gold.	Cable.	Price
Sept. 4 '75.	61,[illegible]	[illegible]	1.14¾	51s	11c
Sept. 4 '76.	66,461	64,871	1.10	47s	10¾c

Neither in New York nor in the interior is the storage of cheese large; copious sales and corresponding exports and supply of the home demand have prevented accumulation at either end of the route; cheese is now sold down on an average to August 1st. [illegible] still tend upward.

Upon the Utica market on Monday there was a good deal of activity; and the attendance was not below the average. A large quantity of cheese was held for higher prices. The [illegible] were as follows:

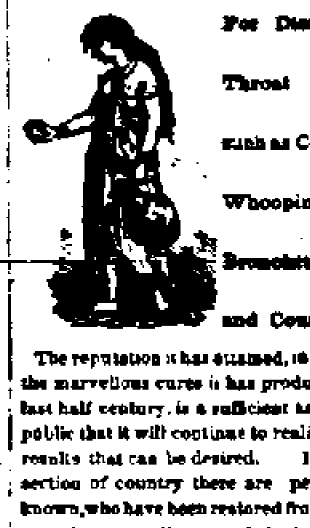
WILSON—MOORE—In Dexter, Sept'r 3, by Rev. H. M. Dodd, Mr Edwin I. Wilson of Pillar Point, and Miss Rosa D. Moore of Lorraine.

AMUSEMENTS.

Prof. Henri Appy, of Rochester, without doubt the best violinist in America, will give a grand concert at the Universalist Church, at Henderson on Friday evening Sept. 8th, 1876. The concert will be varied with select readings by Mrs. Henri Appy, who ranks among the first as a reader in America. Miss Allie Dodge, of Henderson, will accompany the Prof. on the Piano. Admission 25 cents.

Ayer's

Cherry Pectoral



For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

The reputation it has attained, in consequence of the marvellous cures it has produced during the last half century, is a sufficient assurance to the public that it will continue to realize the happiest results that can be desired. In almost every section of country there are persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use. All who have tried it acknowledge its superiority; and where its virtues are known, no one hesitates as to what medicine to employ to relieve the distress and suffering peculiar to pulmonary affections. CHERRY PECTORAL always affords instant relief, and performs rapid cures of the milder varieties of bronchial disorder, as well as the more formidable diseases of the lungs.

As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of Childhood, it is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued and restored to health.

This medicine gains friends at every trial, as the cures it is constantly producing are too remarkable to be forgotten. No family should be without it, and those who have once used it never will.

Eminent Physicians throughout the country prescribe it, and Clergymen often recommend it from their knowledge of its effects.
