Local Weather Report.

[illegible]

The highest and warmest atmospheric wave of the season has been passing over the country from westward since Friday afternoon last. It is higher and heavier than any other aerial volume that has overspread our section since March last. It has been gradually growing warmer under nearly cloudless skies. This is the fourth fair day, and that without rain. The winds continue light to fresh southwesterly.

Fair weather is probable to continue tomorrow, though the reservation has to be made that light local showers are barely possible in districts of Northern New York this P.M. or tonight.

The first half of JULY, closing yesterday, was a trifle below the average of the corresponding period in past years. The records of the same term in previous years (those of 1881 being not at hand, but known to be below those of 1880) were as follows: 1880, 71.15; 1879, 71.80; 1878, 75.00; 1877, 73.75; 1876, 73.33; 1875, 65.33; 1874, 66.90; 1873, 67.61. The rainfall has been 1.70 inches, which considerably exceeds the average and also last year's amount.

Rescued From Death.

In the following remarkable statement, William J. Coughlan, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a VIOLENT BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS followed by a severe cough. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars in doctors and medicines. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle to satisfy him, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better, and today feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

"I write this hoping that every one afflicted with diseased lungs will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken during my sickness." Sold by druggists.

A young man named Wallie Proudfoot, was found lying unconscious in the yard in rear of George Warner's residence, at Waterloo, Seneca county, on Friday evening. An examination resulted in the finding of a small seven barreled revolver lying beside him and a shot wound over his right eye and another in the abdomen. He will probably die. It seems that Proudfoot has been keeping company with Mr. Warner's daughter, and it is supposed that some misunderstanding led to the rash act noted above.

Some 2,500 people gathered to see the running races at Talman park, Saturday. The principal event was a ten-mile race between Miss Lizzie Pinneo and Miss Myrtle Peek. Both are professional riders for this class of sport. The conditions upon which they rode in Syracuse were that each should make eight changes of horses, without touching the ground. Miss Peek won, making ten miles in twenty minutes and thirty seconds. She made one change in two and a quarter seconds. The Pinneo used to be a very successful rider, but now weighs 155 pounds.

The Ithaca Journal says: J. & F. B. Garrett, dealers in printers' supplies at Syracuse, have had their safe and cash till burglarized two nights in succession, with a net gain to the burglars of $2, an average of one dollar per night. "Frank" feels terribly, not so much over the loss of capital perhaps as the exposure of the firm's resources. Knowing the character of his customers, however, the public will only wonder where the deuce that $2 came from. The firm has appealed to the police and militia of Salt City for protection to their property and are out in a letter to the public well calculated to throw dust over their chagrin at the exposure of their firm assets and the heavy loss of capital sustained. The burglars could prosecute for "false pretenses" only they should have known that Garretts' customers were all printers, and it was as foolhardy as it was wrong to do as they did with any idea of getting over five dollars.

Fashion Notes.

Low shoes are much worn.

Inflated skirts are gaining ground.

Feather fans are very fashionable.

Country toilet should be very simple.

Plaid zephyrs make jaunty tennis costumes.

The capote is the dress bonnet of the season.

Hussar blue is the newest shade of pale gray blue.

Velvet ribbon comes in again for a dress trimming.

Handkerchiefs embroidered in colors are in high favor.

Flowers are the extravagant trimming of the dressiest bonnets.

Raw silk and pongee redingotes are worn by many fashionable women.

Ivory white and ficelle gray is the favorite combination of color in laces.

Long-wristed mitts and mousquetaire gloves are worn almost exclusively.

The pelerine continues to be the favorite finish for summer toilets for the streets.

Nearly all shoulder capes have a thick ruche of lace or material around the neck.

A scarf arranged as a pelerine is a favorite summer drapery for the shoulders.

White straw pokes, trimmed with white lace only, are much worn by young girls.

Race and coaching toilets are made of the gayest, brightest and richest material.

None but home-made dresses, and very ugly ones at that, are inflated with crinoline.

The corsages of some very handsome costumes are laced up in front instead of buttoning.

Summer pelerines are small, but come in a variety of simple as well as many fantastic forms.

Balbriggan stockings abound in various tints of red, old gold, amber and blue in all the new shades.

The latest summer mantles are of ficelle lace, over Canton crape, or thin silk of the same gray color.

Fantastic hats shading the face, with indented brims of large size, will be much in use at the seaside.

The belt or sash no longer defines the waist line, but is placed at the bottom of the long pointed corsage.

The long redingote is worn over a skirt trimmed with only one flounce or a heavy ruche at the bottom.

The kilt pleated flounces placed at the bottom of some pointed bodices are remarkably becoming to both slender and full figures.

White lawn, mull, organdie and dotted Swiss and mull dresses are brought out in all sorts of styles, simple and elaborate, for mid-summer wear.

The shirred or gauged heligoland, or Mother Hubbard garden hat of bright printed or pale tinted sateen, is worn by young girls of ten and upward.

The English lawn tennis hat is of feather felt in some æsthetic shades of color, while on it is painted or embroidered a huge poppy, peony, daisy or sunflower. It is turned up in a wide-awake style in front.

Among other fancies, is that of fastening the corsage with tiny, bullet-shaped buttons, set on less than an inch apart. The buttonholes are made by machinery. Sometimes there is a double row of buttons.

Coaching parasols are made gay with embroideries or paintings of hunting, shooting, equestrian, and pastoral scenes, flowers, birds, and immense gilt monograms of coat of arms of emblematic devices.

To the sateens printed with Kate Greenaway figures, are now added novelties showing rustic scenes, groups of Watteau figures, and the pictures frequently surrounded with a garland of flowers, making a shadow on the soft tinted ground.

The latest Paris novelty in ornaments, are bijoux de chasse, consisting of brooches made of the tip of a stag's horn, ornamented with light foliage of silver surrounding the head of a horse or stag, also in silver; from the brooch hangs a chain of pieces of horn linked with silver, to the end of which are suspended all sorts of sporting emblems in silver, in horn and silver.

THE BOOM

In Cheese—New Salesmen and Buyers Felt and Operated on the Board of Trade Saturday—The Best Market of the Season—Lively Competition, General Satisfaction and Salesmen Made Happy—Cheese Brings Eleven Cents—Ruling Price 10 3-4—Sales During the Week—Lewis County Salesmen and How They "Got Left"—Formal Meeting—The Dispute Settled—Butter Market—New York Dairy Markets.

The market at the board of trade Saturday was a strong one, and the very liveliest of the season thus far. The sudden and rather unexpected rise and the strength of the New York market were the basis of the very firm feeling on the part of salesmen. Even before the board's advices were received, buyers (who felt anxious to secure cheese) commenced talking the salesmen on toward selling what they had to offer. The latter, however, were prudent, and did not operate at all until advices were received and they knew perfectly well the exact condition of the market. The report was rather late in arriving, but this only gave salesmen more time to find out the feeling of the buyers, and to talk up the general tone of the market as received through reports other than official. The total offering was about three thousand cheese, this being the largest offering of the season. The sales made by factories in this vicinity during the week will aggregate probably two or three thousand boxes, and prices received for these ranged at 10@10½c. This will show that buyers partially succeeded in "stealing" a march on salesmen during the week. The need of a board of trade was never more clearly seen, and salesmen who held over from last week were delighted with the tone of the market here. The advices received were as follows:

July 15, 1882.		July 15, 1881.
Receipts	[illegible]	Receipts	[illegible]
Shipments	[illegible]	Shipments	[illegible]
Cable	[illegible]	Cable	[illegible]
Market	[illegible]	Market	barely steady

The shipments, as will be seen by the above table nearly equaled the receipts, and only 2,000 boxes are left over receipts of last week to supply home trade.

The above advices made the feeling even stronger than it had been previous to their arrival. There was some excitement and lively interest manifested from this time forward till quite late in the afternoon. Buyers did not hesitate, but commenced business immediately and the first purchases made and reported were those of one of the Carthage buyers, who because of the train leaving for that place so early was obliged to "rush" considerably to secure what he wanted. In fact, no buyer was present but what had business to do and did it promptly. The competition was lively, and all agents seemed to have orders. Those salesmen, of whom there were quite a number, who held over one week ago, were of course, the most satisfied, though those buyers who purchased large amounts on that saleday also felt in very good spirits. At an earlier hour than usual all offerings were disposed of and the transactions reported are as follows:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price.
1	50	10
1	118	10¼
1	50	10½
6	415	10½
8	750	10¾
12	1020	10¾
1	65	10¾
3	455	11
1	300	11¼
31	3,043

Eight hundred boxes of cheese were shipped from Adams Centre and Pierrepont Manor on Saturday, the average cost of which was ten cents, these having been purchased during the week.

Lewis county, it is reported on good authority, is entirely cleared of cheese, about six or seven thousand boxes having been purchased in that county the past week at 10@10½c. The salesmen in that county were badly "left," and will see more than ever the need of attending a board of trade. Suppose these salesmen come down and join the Watertown board. They will be warmly welcomed, and our buyers are active enough to purchase two or three thousand more cheese every week. They would, in the end, be greatly benefited by the use of such information as they could secure in this city every Saturday. Prices here are always good and would more than pay for the extra expense which would be incurred. Let the salesmen in that county seriously consider the matter. They are cordially invited to visit the Watertown board.

One year ago on the market here, 1288 cheese were reported sold at from 9 to 10½c., the former price being paid for "skims." The attendance was not large, and altogether, it was considered an "off" day on this cheese market. Two years ago the final boom of the season set in.

One salesman was heard to remark (and we have reason to believe that the opinion is held by many,) that it was his opinion that the scarcity of cheese in New York will not grow less with the arrival of goods from interior points this week; that the production will be growing smaller from this time forward, and that the demand for the article will continue good because of the high price of other articles of food, and that he consequently expects to see prices somewhat advanced from those of Saturday.

THE FORMAL MEETING

advertised for Saturday was called to order by President Reed, and the report of committee was read. The dispute was settled in favor of the salesman and satisfactorily to every one. This dispute is the first one the board has had occasion to entertain this season, but the decision was received with good grace and the matter was dropped as soon as the committee handed in the report, which was adopted unanimously. Altogether the affair was very pleasantly ended.

THE WATERTOWN BUTTER TRADE

has shown little or no change. We might note the purchase of about one hundred tubs of dairy from one dealer by another, for 22c. These were shipped to New York. Aside from this one purchase, there was not much doing in the article, except for retail trade. The extreme is now 22 cents. Creamery has been dealt in to the extent of ninety tubs, which brought 25 cents. These were also shipped to New York. No other creamery sales were reported. The market in New York of the corresponding week of this and last year compare as follows:

July 8, 1882.		July 16, 1881.
Receipts	[illegible]	Receipts	[illegible]
Shipments	[illegible]	Shipments	[illegible]
Creamery best	[illegible]	Creamery best	[illegible]
Welsh best	[illegible]	Welsh best	[illegible]
Market	[illegible]	Market	[illegible]

One year ago, the bulk of the offering of Welsh tubs brought 18 cents. Two years ago 17@20c. was the quotation, the largest portion at the latter figure.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

BUTTER—Butter opened fairly active, but there was a gradual diminution of demand, with receipts keeping up pretty full and the surplus of supply over outlet becoming more decided. Naturally there was an effort to sustain values, and due prominence accordingly given all the small sales of pet creameries and special selections of state dairy, but on full lines and invoices there was really nothing better to be obtained than last week, and toward the close the slightly better terms offered failed to attract attention. Advices from primary points continue strong; but this fails to stimulate here, and we find daily additions to the number of holders who think that something beyond a merely local and country jobbing trade should be shown to neutralize the supply in sight and expected, and many openly express the conviction that cost must go down to a low enough limit to start the export demand before relief can be obtained. In addition to this, also, some nervousness is felt over the advance made, and a growing desire to realize is a natural sequence which may result in bringing some stock on the market unexpectedly.

CHEESE—Cheese has developed better tone than expected by a great majority of the trade. A number of operators had marked 10½c for a top rate on the week's shipments, and during Monday appearances were quite favorable for this result. By Tuesday, however, signs of a steadier tone were noticeable, and this feeling gradually grew until the position became very strong, with a pretty close sale of stock upon arrival, the high and low grades moving quickest, but intermediate quality keeping well in line. Many lots arrived out of condition, but buyers appeared somewhat blind to ordinary faults, and the "terrible effects of the heat" were referred to with much less frequency than might have been anticipated. In view of the continued reports of unfavorable markets abroad and calculations upon heavy arrivals of stock, the firmness of the position appears a surprise to many, but we find some who think the ruling cost low enough to retain the good consumptive demand prevailing abroad, especially when compared with rates on meats, and there is also a tendency to take exceptions to any estimates of large amounts held back in the interior.

ST. LAWRENCE CO. BOARD OF TRADE.

Canton, July 15.

Forty-four factories have registered 4,419 boxes of cheese, and ten creameries 332 tubs of butter. New York confronts Montreal at the threshold today and they bid the same prices:

Forty factories have sold 4,397 boxes of cheese at the following prices:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price.
1	130	10½c
4	415	10½c
9	1,095	10 85-100
7	651	10 7-10c

Suspicions Not Well Founded.

The Ogdensburg Journal of Saturday says: Horace C. Howard, the young man who shot himself at the residence of James Beatty, Sunday night, remains in about the same condition as when last reported. He still retains his senses, and his physician has hopes that he will finally recover. The events of Monday will probably decide the case. If he survives that day, it is believed he will recover. Thursday suspicion was aroused in Mr. Beatty's family that the lady who came on the receipt of a telegram sent by Dr. Benton, was not his mother, and that the young clergyman from Montreal was not what he represented himself to be. Some of the family came here and consulted with parties, communicating their suspicions. Sheriff Matheson, Wm. Earl and E. W. Thomas went up to Mr. Beatty's in the evening to satisfy themselves as to facts. The result of the visit convinced them and also Mr. Beatty's family that Mrs. Howard was a lady of culture, wealth and refinement, and the mother of the wounded man, and the young clergyman was just what he represented himself. One of the gentlemen felt that an apology was due to Mrs. Howard, for his presence there on that business, and made one like a gentleman.

The Turf.

Of the meeting of the stewards of the grand trotting circuit at Rochester, the Spirit says concerning the arrangements made for the disposition of the $4,000 reserved by each track except (Utica, where the amount is $3,000) for special attractions:

It was decided to make this purse open to all, though conditioned upon the entering and starting of St Julien and Trinket; to require $200 entrance fee, being 10 per cent, of $2,000, which is the purse proper, and will be paid $1,300 to first horse, $600 to second horse, in case 2:15 or better is made in the race; to give $500 extra to the winner of the fastest heat in 2:14 or better; $500 more to the winner of the fastest heat in 2:13 or better, and $1,000 more to the winner of the fastest heat in 2:10½ or better. This cumulative system of premiums for speed is admirable in every way, while the horse that wins the fastest heat, if he also wins the race, nets $4,000; he can, if he beats the record, net $3,000, and the inducement is so great that the public will feel assured that the almost efforts will be made. And it is by no means certain, in view of the conditions of this event, that St. Julien and Trinket will compose the field.

Escaped from Auburn Prison.

Saturday evening upon calling the roll of prisoners at locking-up time at Auburn prison, two convicts named George Lake, alias Lent, of New York city, and Edward Andrews, of Syracuse, both of whom were serving twenty years' sentences, failed to respond to the call. They were missing from the line, and immediately the officers of the institution were thrown into excitement. They were doing duty during the day, and no person seemed to know how they escaped.

It was once suspected that they had stowed themselves away upon the premises. A guard was dispatched to search the prison yards and shop, and sentinels will patrol the walls during the night. Extra guards have been employed and every effort will be made to discover the whereabouts of the two desperate prisoners. Lake is a member of the famous sewer gang, who were caught on July 3, 1880, in the act of tunneling out a sewer from the prison to the street. He afterwards made a second attempt to escape, by disguising himself and appearing in the corridor in broad daylight. The suspicions of the keepers at the time were not directed to him, until he was observed spreading the iron bars of the window by means of a jack. He is in a Sing Sing transfer, and is considered a desperate character.

Explosion of a Kerosene Lamp.

About ten o'clock Sunday night a sad and terrible accident happened to Mrs. J. H. Jewell at her residence in Syracuse. It appears that at the hour mentioned, Mrs. Jewell, after the remaining members of the family had retired, took a glass kerosene lamp, and went to the pantry to procure some cold tea. The Courier says: It is supposed that while drinking the tea, from the vessel, the lid fell off, striking the lamp and crushing it to pieces. The oil spilled over the dress of Mrs. Jewell, and ignited. In a moment the terrible screams of the unfortunate lady aroused the household, who hurried to her assistance. She was completely enveloped in flames, and her shrieks were agonizing. A sister-in-law, Miss Lulu Jewell, procured a quilt and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Mrs. Jewell became insensible, and Drs. Coe, Ellis, Kinney and Lawton were immediately summoned. An examination disclosed the fact that her injuries are severe, and will probably prove fatal. The entire body from head to foot was burned, the more serious injuries being discovered on the abdomen and breast. The injured lady is about twenty-one years of age, and has been married only eight months. Her husband, Mr. J. H. Jewell, is a traveling salesman for the Central City ruffling and lace goods company. The attending physicians gave no hope for recovery, and thought that death would result within ten hours.

The West Shore Railroad.

It is said that there are now upwards of 33,000 laborers and 800 engineers along the line of the West Shore railroad. All the contractors have received orders to rush things with all possible dispatch. Between Mohawk and Syracuse the road is nearly graded its entire length. At Canastota the ties and rails are rapidly being laid, both east and west, and platform cars drawn by horses are in use. Nearly seven miles of ties and rails have been laid east of Canastota, and the work still goes on. An immense supply of ties and rails are in store in Utica and the work of laying them must begin ere long. Carver, Remington & Co. expect to be able to complete their contract by September 1, without any difficulty, and the rails can then be laid at once. The West Shore managers desire them to lay the ties and rails, but they have not yet decided to do the work. Remington & Co. will shortly be at work in Ilion with their whole force of Italians. The contractors have nearly 800 men on the pay roll, and but for delays caused by [illegible] they would have their work much nearer completion than it is.

Bishop Huntington and Emerson.

To the Editor of the Boston Herald.

Some one has sent me this slip from your paper of the 3d inst.:

"The old school orthodox ministers used to locate people in the next world, but Bishops Huntington and Coxe in the episcopal church, and such men as President Porter, of Yale, are too eminent in their several spheres to indulge in such 'religious comedies' as they have recently exhibited. Even if Mr. Emerson were being 'roasted' in the pit of the nether world at this moment, it is none of their business."

What is your authority for the shocking imputation it contains? According to my recollection, I have never undertaken to write or speak publicly one word touching the whereabouts or condition of Mr. Emerson's soul after death, or any other man's soul. In two articles on Mr. Emerson's genius and character, both highly eulogistic, and both of which I am ready to send you in proof of what I say, I have discussed the question whether or not his religious and philosophical opinions were of the distinctively Christian type—inclining to the conclusion that they were not, and that in none of his published writings did he claim or imply that they were, although in many of their moral elements and spiritual aspects they coincided with Christianity. I had the same right and the same reason to make that criticism that you had for what you say of public men and their measures every day. And I have also a right to be indignant, as I am, at so gross a misrepresentation. It is a specimen of the intolerant charity and illiberal liberality now prevalent. Mr. Emerson was a personal friend, a guest in my house, revered and loved by me, as he was by hundreds whose esteem I value. For his family I have the deepest respect. It never occurred to me to think of him as in disreputable company in any world, and I should no more presume to assign his spirit to the "nether world" than yours to that one or the other.

Respectfully, F. D. HUNTINGTON, Bishop of central New York.

Hadley, Mass., July 7, 1882.

Cure of Diphtheria.

A gentleman sends the following as a cure for diphtheria: "A few years ago, when this dread disease was raging in England, a very simple and rapid remedy for it was, it is said, discovered by the celebrated Dr. Field. He put a teaspoonful of flour of brimstone into a wine-glass of water, and stirred it with his finger instead of a spoon, as the sulphur does not readily amalgamate with water. When the sulphur was well mixed, he gave it as a gargle, and in ten minutes the patient was out of danger. Brimstone kills every species of fungus in man, beast and plant in a few minutes. Instead of spitting out the gargle, he recommended the swallowing of it. In extreme cases, in which he had been called just in the nick of time, when the fungus was too nearly closing to allow the gargling, he blew the sulphur through a quill into the throat, and after the fungus had shrunk enough to allow of it, then the gargling. He never lost a patient from diphtheria. In cases where good medical aid is not at hand, this simple remedy should certainly be tried.

Sudden Death at Alexandria Bay.

Mortimer Porter, of New York, died very suddenly of heart disease at the Thousand Island house, at 5 yesterday afternoon. In company with his daughter he arrived there June 29, from New York. The Utica Herald says:

He was born at Skaneateles in 1810, the son of the eminent Dr. Samuel Porter, a distinguished physician of his time. He was a graduate of Williams college and in former years was an eminent lawyer of New York. For several years past he has been substantially relieved from his profession, but was engaged more or less in settling estate and property questions of various kinds. Through a long life he has always maintained a high character for integrity, intelligence and devotion to the best interests of those who intrusted their affairs to his keeping. He married a Miss Woodruff, who has long since been dead. He leaves a son and two daughters, one of whom lives in London. He leaves a large fortune. This is the first death that has occurred at the Thousand Island House.

Chaumont.

Bass begin to take the spoon.

Picnics by "our set" are raging.

Mrs. J. Ryder has moved to Watertown.

Miss Emma Crumb will visit the Cape this week.

Grant Crumb has completed his cottage on the river.

L. J. Whitney started for Martha's Vineyard Friday.

B. James went to Oswego county last week to visit his brother.

Frank Phelps will have his new schooner ready for business this week.

E. B. Johnson is doing business for the Mechanics' Fire Ins. Co. of N. Y.

John McMahon, after a lingering illness, died Monday morning, July 17th.

Mrs. L. Clay, of Gardiner, Maine, is visiting her daughter Mrs. M. H. Sternburg.

The schooner Pinafore was towed to Oswego yesterday. She was loaded with lumber.

Alvah Warner with his yacht took a three days' trip down the river with a Watertown party last week.

Three Mile Bay replenished her treasury a short time since by fining some Chaumont boys for driving through the village faster than a walk. The girls say they wanted the money to buy more gum with.

Mrs. Maggie Klock, who has long been a patient sufferer from consumption, died at the residence of H. Copley Sunday, July 9th. The funeral services were held on the following Monday at 5 p. m. and were largely attended by sympathizing friends and relatives. Mrs. Klock possessed many virtues which made her a general favorite, and her company in the social circle will be greatly missed. The floral tribute was beautiful and abundant, giving her last resting place the appearance of a bed of roses. She died with a Christian's faith and bright hopes of meeting her Master. She leaves a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. T. Barrons, and husband, who have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Redwood.

Michael McCue has gone to Dakota.

Mrs. Rand has gone to Keenes station.

Dr. Stevens has gone to Dakota to practice.

Mosquitos went to the front Sunday evening.

N. R. Cook has built an extensive addition to his dwelling.

John Kable has returned from his late sparking expedition in fine spirits.

Rev. G. G. Perrine dropped his appointment here to officiate in Adams last Sunday.

Dr. Gandett will look into the mouths of his patients at his office until the 24th instant.

Rev. J. B. Finn and wife of Evans Mills delighted their friends here with a visit last week.

A cow and her calf took a voluntary bath in Mud lake. The cow remained in for several hours.

Helmer & Rabscher are buying and sending to Albany everything that chews its cud and divides the hoof.

H. S. White has greatly improved his grist mill for the production of a better quality and larger yield of flour.

A number of lady teachers, from Utica, are taking their vacation here. They have rooms at Mrs. Whitney's private boarding house.

H. H. Warner's palace steamer has arrived at the Bay with his family on board in charge of Capt. John Davis, Chas. Davis, first engineer.

O. R. Fulling, wife and daughter of Watertown, pleased their many friends here with a visit and did some delightful boating on Grand lake.

Mrs. S. M. Clinh has returned from Montreal. Surgeons of the national hospital believe her case will prove fatal if the knife be employed.

Insects recently destroyed an acre of thrifty onions cultivated by Peter Northup on Summerfield farm. Other growers are fearing their ravages.

A few weeks since, Alonzo Smith had two cancers removed from his neck by Dr. Kingsley, of Rome. Now another has appeared which he proposes to have treated in the same manner.

The Holmes, Harders, Gandetts and others went to [illegible] farm on Indian river last week for a picnic; they were joined by friends from Philadelphia and Chicago and a high old time was enjoyed.

It is a settled fact, established by several of the best practical farmers in this locality, that Canada thistles cut green possess more fat and milk-giving properties when fed to cows, than the best timothy hay. They are also better food for sheep and horses than the best hay.

On Tuesday night last, some person entered the pasture of Richard Allen and stabbed five of his dairy cows near the milk vein, causing a profuse flow of blood and checking the flow of milk. Three of them were so severely injured that doubts were entertained as to recovery. Mr. Allen believes that he has a clue that with the aid of a good detective would lead to conviction.

I. C. Cooper, of Theresa, has lost his Holstein calf, three months old, for which he had been offered $300. The calf was professionally attended by veterinary surgeon Pool, of Theresa. Its malady is supposed to have been heart disease. Dr. Sturtevant was to assist Dr. Pool in a post-mortem examination, but a conclusion had not been reached when our informant left.

Thousand Island Park.

Despite the cold and rainy weather of last week, the Park again presents its usual lively appearance.

A large number of cottages are already occupied, others are opening every day, and tents are fast going up.

A large excursion from Kingston landed here Friday, and, as usual, left a number who had come to stay.

Every steamer brings a large load of people desiring to be in time for the evangelical meeting, which commences Saturday under the direction of Rev. Dr. Hibbard and wife, of Clifton Springs, N. Y., assisted by Rev. Dr. Jones, of Rochester, N. Y.

Nine new cottages are in process of erection—one for Mr. Brown of Springfield, Mass.; also for Mr. Sears of Fulton, Davenport of Malone, and Hale of Clayton, N. Y. These cottages are all fine ones, much above the average. A builder in Oswego has the contract for three others to be completed by the first of August. Other improvements are also noticeable.

The order of the postoffice department, giving us three mails each way daily, took effect today. We are now connected by cable with the main land, and the telegraph office will be opened in a few days.

Lowville.

Mrs. W. D. V. Rulison returns to Watertown today.

Hiram Mills has sold his brick residence on Dayan street, to Hon. C. P. Scovil. Consideration $5,000.

Carroll H. Bateman and John G. Marvin, two of Lowville's enterprising merchants, are seeking repose in the cooling breezes of the ever beautiful St. Lawrence. I'll take a muscalonge for mine!

Hilliard's great Pacific equescurriculum has come and gone, and as far as we know no one was defrauded or three-card-monied out of a cent. The street parade and music were good, and those who attended the circus pronounce it a fair show.

Rev. N. Somerville Rulison, D. D., of Cleveland, Ohio, occupied the pulpit of Trinity church, in this village, morning and evening. His sermons were based respectively upon the following texts: For he had respect unto the recompense of the reward; Hebrews XI, 26; and: Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest; Matthew, XI, 28. The church was densely crowded on both occasions, and Dr. Rulison's discourses were eloquent, forcible and highly instructive. His argument and illustrations were clear beautiful and most convincing. Many of his friends and former townsmen observed a marked improvement in the young rector's oratory and depth of thought since his last appearance in Lowville, and all are pleased to learn of his success and prosperity in his western field of labor. Mr. Rulison leaves here today, and after visiting Carthage and Watertown, will go to Cape May to pass the rest of his vacation.

Exciting Runaway.

Bruce Moffett drove up from Limerick this morning to bring some friends who were going to take the morning train. As he was not going to stay but a short time, he hitched his horses under the Kirby house shed and went to the depot. They had not remained there long, when one of the team, a four-year-old colt, became frightened at something, broke the rope into that is was hitched by. The other horse pulled out the ring in its halter, and both were out on the street before they could be stopped. They ran across the road and up on the sidewalk in front of the Seibert block, and at one time it was thought they would go through the plate-glass windows, but they turned down the street. They were stopped just after crossing the lower covered bridge. The wagon was quite badly damaged as well as the harness but the horses were not hurt, with the exception of a few scratches.

NEW BOOKS.

SCIENCE LESSONS, series of Readers in Natural History. By D'Anvers. G. P. Putnam's Sons New York city.

This enterprising publishing firm is issuing an admirable series under this title for the young of both sexes, at fifty cents per number. The first of these treats of Forms of Land and Water, and is intended as an illustrated geographical reader. The third treats of Vegetable Life. All of them are written by N. D'Anvers in a style suited to the comprehension of young people, and contain pictures to make them more easily comprehensible. By the use of such books as these it may be discovered whether a child has a taste in any special direction; and they may become of lasting influence and value in securing a right bent to young minds. The study of the series is to be earnestly commended to the young. It exercises a happy, refining and constant effect, and is one of the best of counteracting agencies against lapsing into evil pursuits. The earlier one youth become interested in the mysteries of nature, the more likely they are to be panoplied against amusements of dangerous character. This "Ladder" series will afford means of both awakening and gratifying tastes in the right direction.

George McComber will receive cherries daily this week. The crop is short, and people wishing cherries to can will do well to leave their orders early this week.

The Chord Index.

A Wonderful Combination of Musical and Mechanical Skill.

BY ITS USE:

1st—You can learn the signature of every Major Key.

2d—You can learn the signature of every Minor Key.

3d—You can learn what keys on your instrument will form when played together, the Tonic Chord of every Major Key.

4th—Likewise you can learn the Dominant Chord, of every Major Key.

5th—You can learn what keys form the Sub-Dominant Chord of every Major Key.

6th—You can become acquainted with the beautiful chord of the Dominant Seventh, and resolution in all Major Keys.

7th—You can learn what tones form the Tonic Chord in all Minor Keys.

8th—You can learn what constitutes the Dominant Chord of every Minor Key.

9th—You can learn the Sub-Dominant Chord in every Minor Key.

10th—You can learn the Chord of the Dominant Seventh in all the Minor Keys.

11th—You can learn the relationship of the chords of a Major Key with those of its relative Minor Key more thoroughly than by any other means.

12th—You can not only learn to play all of these chords easily, but with your ability to play them you will acquire a knowledge of them that will enlarge your understanding of music in general.

13th—Having acquired this knowledge you are now able to improvise accompaniments to any song, or to the Violin, Flute, Clarionette or other instruments at your pleasure, and this is an attainment not enjoyed by one in fifty of ordinary performers.

You need no previous knowledge of music to reap all these advantages. Whether old or young, beginner or advanced player, you will find that otherwise difficult things are made plain and curious things made easy.
