GOT THE BACKACHE?

If You Have, Here's the Way to Rid Yourself of the Weariness and Pain Attending It.

Some people suffer with headaches, many people are worn out and weary all the time, many more people have lame back and backache. Few people understand the real cause of their aches, and more yet know how easily they can find a cure. Just a word of explanation before we prove that what we say is true. Backache is the key note of the kidneys. Backache, that's a sign that the kidneys do not working properly; it is some; another sign the kidneys are out of order. The kidneys, you know, are the filters of the blood, but filters sometimes get clogged up. This means in their case that the blood courses through the entire system impregnated with poisonous uric acid, bringing on many a disorder which if neglected means disease, perhaps incurable, and now about the cure:—Don't take our word for it, read what one of your own citizens says. She may be a neighbor of yours, at any rate she makes this statement. She says: My suffering has been coming on for years; for five years; it was not so severe at first but has been slowly getting worse those are the words of Mrs. H. Reeter, who resides at No. 90 State street, and continuing with a description of the case she said: "The pains I suffered were in the small of the back and constant ache there and a sharp pain in the region of the bladder. I was always much worse if forced to bend over or stand on my feet for any length of time. During the passage of urine I experienced a sharp, smarting sensation extremely difficult to bear. The long duration of the disease seemed to weaken me all over and bring me to a "run down" condition. My husband procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills for me. I began taking them and the good effect from their use seemed almost immediate. They drove away all pain completely and did me more good than anything I have ever used. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and think it a wonderful remedy."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. S. Fult & Co. agents for Watertown.

AS GRAY GABLES APPEARS NOW.

One of the Most Unpretentious Homes on Buzzard's Bay.

Gray Gables is one of the most unpretentious homes among the fashionable localities of the Massachusetts coast, says the Washington Post. The house is comparatively small, as the cottages of to-day go, and from the driveways in the vicinity all that is visible of the place are the gray gables, thickly surrounded by the tree tops near the house.

The entire place has been done over to a considerable extent the past year and is greatly improved. The alterations in the interior of the house were according to Mrs. Cleveland's suggestions as to convenience and economy of space. There have been two more guest chambers added by dividing one large room on the second floor, and the children will hereafter occupy rooms in the third story. Near their sleeping apartments is a large and airy playroom, where, during the damp, unpleasant days, the little girls can have tea parties.

Without, Gray Gables is spic and span. All of the scrub oak and pitch pine underbrush has been entirely removed, and the President has spent quite an amount in landscape gardening. Several pretty flower beds, filled with bright blossoms of all sorts, have been constructed near the house for Mrs. Cleveland, who is so devoted to flowers that she hardly has a favorite. The driveways have been enlarged and greatly improved, and a new entrance has been constructed. An ice-house has also been added to the place, which fact, however, has no political significance.

Above all, Gray Gables now boasts of a fine landing, and so large as to indicate that a finer and larger boat than ever before will land there. The President is devoted to all pleasures connected with the salt water, and is especially fond of deep sea fishing.

This Snake Ate Sixty-five Ducks.

For some time past Thomas Mhoon, a truck farmer living near Baltimore, has been missing each day a number of young ducks. They disappeared so mysteriously that their loss could not be accounted for in any manner. All theories as to how they were taken were smashed to pieces when it was known that no one had been near the place during the day where the ducks were wont to pass away the time. No feathers or other vestige could be found, which would undoubtedly have been the case if the fowls had been made away with by hawk or some "varmint."

When 65 of the fluffy youngsters had disappeared Mhoon determined to watch the ducks for a day. He followed them down in the field to the little branch where they slipped into the water. No sooner had they arrived there then—shades of St. Patrick—from a neighboring clump of bushes appeared such a snake as Mhoon had never seen before outside of a show. He is not a drinking man and is not accustomed to see such things in broad daylight, but he had to pinch himself to make certain that he was in his right senses. While his eyes stuck out of his head in terror the monster snake glided up to the ducks, when they all set up a terrific quacking, as if they knew the end of the world was coming for some of them.

By this time the man had recovered himself, and, hastily running to the house, he secured his shotgun and returned to where he had seen the snake.

When he reached there he found the snake, which seemed 15 feet long and one foot thick, making off with a duck in its mouth. Mhoon pulled the trigger of the gun. When the smoke cleared away the reptile was stretched out, lashing its tail in fury. Mhoon kept away until its struggles had ceased, and approached it. He found out it was a moccasin, and when measured it was as long as a fence rail, about 9 feet 4 inches. E. G. Miller, a cigarmaker, of No. 550 Wilson street, helped Mhoon measure the snake, and will vouch for the reliability of the measurements.—Baltimore Herald.

American Energy.

Every disaster or calamity that comes upon communities in this country serves to illustrate the marvelous energy and perseverance of the American people, and the story of the rebuilding of the little city of Phillips, in Wisconsin, is only one of the many cases in point.

On July 27, 1894, Phillips was completely wrecked by fire, the people were hungry and without shelter and were largely dependent upon the gifts of outside communities for food and clothing. There was not an industrial building left standing, and although there were logs to be had in the surrounding country there were no sawmills left to transform them into building lumber. The forest fires had devastated the fields as well as the city, and the farmers in the neighborhood were without seed for the next crop. But everybody went heart and soul into the work of reconstruction. Adversity did not dismay them, and they were encouraged by the generosity of the outside world.

On Saturday, July 27, just one year from the day on which their homes were smouldering in ruins, the people celebrated the complete restoration of their city. Churches, schoolhouses, stores, homes, sawmills, tanneries and barns have been rebuilt, and what was before a collection of inflammable frame buildings is now one of brick and stone.

The spirt of the pioneers who blazed out a path for progress still lives, and it would be hard to measure the future of such a country and such a people.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Taking Castor Oil.

A trained nurse says: "Give castor oil in lemon juice, and the unpleasant taste of the medicine is destroyed. Squeeze the juice into a wineglass, add the oil and drink quickly." The same authority sings the virtues of the spice plaster in relieving pain in dysenteric troubles: "Take a teaspoonful each of ground cloves, cinnamon, ginger, allspice, mustard, and mix dry in a bowl with a teaspoonful of flour. Pour on a little boiling water to make a smooth paste, and smear on a piece of cheesecloth, putting a second piece over as a covering. Apply as hot as can be borne."

An Urgent Landlady.

An aged lady complained to a London magistrate that because she was a little behind with her rent her landlady followed her to church and asked for it there. The landlady came into the pew alongside her, and when she was joining in the responses was constantly whispering to her about the rent. When it came to the response, "Incline our hearts," the landlady would add, "To pay our rent." The magistrate said that it was very annoying, but there was nothing illegal in it.

A MAN OF COURAGE.

A Desperate Encounter With Brigands in Mexico.

"Speaking of acts of courageous self-sacrifice for the public good," remarked a gentleman, who had lived several years in Mexico, to a Star writer, "I knew a man in Mexico who could give pointers to some of those old Romans we read about. At the time of my acquaintance with him he was 75 years old, and was living with his second wife, by whom he had three or four children. When he was 40 years of age he lived on a ranch with his wife and one child, a boy of 10, and their home was in a neighborhood infested with brigands, or what passed for brigands, who made frequent incursions into the valleys from their mountain resorts, robbing and cattle killing and murdering, pretty much as it pleased them, to which was added the further diversion of picking up travelers and others, who were worth the money, and holding them for ransom.

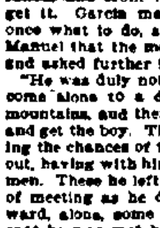
"So notorious had their depredations become and so helpless were the authorities in the matter that the entire section bade fair to become a howling waste, for travelers stopped coming and the inhabitants were getting out as fast as they could. Up to this time Garcia, for that was my old friend's name, had been in better luck than most of his neighbors, due largely to the fact that he was a brave man, and had in his employ on his ranch men who were as quick to fight as any brigand in the mountains. One day, however, the blow struck Garcia, and when he came home in the evening he found his wife crazy with grief and the boy carried off.

"He knew it was for ransom, and waited until the robbers should come to the surface for their booty, believing that the boy would be well cared for as long as there was hope of getting money for him. In a day or two Garcia received a note to the effect that the boy was safe in the hands of Capt. Manuel, the leader of the gang, and the very soul and spirit of it, and that for the sum of $5,000 paid to him, Manuel, the boy would be restored. The reply to the note was to be left in a certain place a dozen miles to the north of Garcia's ranch, and from there Manuel would get it. Garcia made up his mind at once what to do, and he sent word to Manuel that the money would be paid, and asked further instructions.

"He was duly notified that he was to come alone to a distant point in the mountains, and there deliver the money and get the boy. That was all, and taking the chances of treachery, he started out, having with him a dozen of his best men. These he left as near to the place of meeting as he dared and went forward, alone, some miles. In a remote spot he was met by Manuel, whom he knew, accompanied by five men. Garcia was heavily armed and wore under his clothes a coat of chain mail, for his was a desperate purpose. Manuel at once demanded that Garcia lay down his arms as a sign of good faith and hand over the money and they would take him to the boy. If he did not they would kill him and the boy also.

"In an instant Garcia replied with a shot that went through Manuel's brain, and then before the others could recover their senses he had killed two of them, next in command. Then as others came in response to the firing, he started on a wild run down the gorge of the mountain with the bullets raining round him like hail and some of them hitting him. By the miracle that follows men in just such predicaments, he got away with his life, thanks to his chain mail, but he was badly wounded, and when he reached his own men he fell in a dead faint, and didn't know anything for two weeks.

"When he recovered his senses it was to find that his wife had died in a hysterical fit and that the boy had been killed by the brigands, or that portion of them left after Garcia's force had finished with them and drove them back into the mountains. That ended the brigand business in that vicinity for good and all, but Garcia himself went about for a long time so sad and broken hearted that all that his grateful fellow-citizens and the country at large could do for him seemed to have but little effect. After ten years the shadow had been dispelled somewhat, and he married again, and though he had a fine wife and good children, he could not forget the others, and for 45 years no man had ever seen him smile, although he was always gentle and kind and good."



The Beauty of Health

Features don't matter so much. Most any features will do if the complexion is clear, the eyes bright and the lips rosy. Hearty, healthy wholesomeness is better than mere beauty of features. A face full of the glow of good health—full of the kindliness and good humor that health brings, is bound to be an attractive face—a face that will make friends. The face tells the story of the whole body. "Murder will out"—and so will "female weakness" and nervousness and other disorders peculiar to women.

If there is a drain on the system and strength, the record of it will show in the face. If there is nerve nagging "bearing-down" pains, dragging and pulling at the most sensitive organs in a woman's body, the face will show it. Abused nerves draw lines of care and worry on the face. Nervous prostration writes its warning on the face long before it comes. Sleeplessness, nervousness and debilitating drains make more wrinkles than age.

Nine-tenths of the sickness of women comes from some derangement of organs distinctly feminine. Nine-tenths of this sickness can be cured and avoided by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is nothing miraculous about the "Favorite Prescription"—nothing supernatural.

It is the result of rational thought and study applied to medicine.

It has been prescribed by Dr. Pierce for over 30 years. It has made thousands of women healthy and happy, and has brought joy to thousands of homes.

In "female weakness" it acts directly and strongly in healing and strengthening the parts that are most severely tried. It clears out impurities and promotes regularity at all times.

The Sahara.

It is the general opinion that the Sahara is a barren, uninhabited and uninhabitable sandy desert, sometimes traversed by caravans which are threatened with the deadly and awful simoons. This is a very erroneous idea, says an exchange. A French botanist, who has just returned from an extensive exploring trip through the entire territory of the French or Algerian Sahara, states that the whole stretch (with very few exceptions) is solid and fertile soil, and inhabited by a great many people and animals. In 1894 the official records show that 9,000,000 sheep, which pay over $300,000 revenue to the Government, were living in the Sahara proper. Taking the value of these sheep at $4 a piece, this represents a property of $36,000,000. Besides there are 3,000,000 goats and 100,000 camels. There are a number of oases where fruit, pepper, onions and many other vegetables are grown. Many natives who still cling to nomadic life prefer to spend the winter in the Sahara to remaining near the shores of the Mediterranean in the rainy, winter season.

Ireland Needs a New Potato.

There is a notable opportunity for a deed of non-partisan service to Ireland just now, which would cost very little and would be of more use than all the huge sums contributed since Parnell died put together. The famous Champion potato, after being for nearly 20 years the mainstay of the island, has run down in quality till its abandonment has become a necessity. It lasted much longer than any previous variety, but finally lost fecundity, as well as the power to resist disease, and as Scotland also is giving it up, fresh seed supplies from that source are shut off. If some rich Irish-American would institute experiments with new varieties and find the one best adapted to the soil and climate of Ireland, it would be a philanthropic work of the first magnitude, which would also pay its own expenses immediately.—Harold Frederic.

Two Girls Were Enough for Him.

A baseful young man while attending a revival meeting was approached by an earnest lady, who said to him: "My dear young friend, it would do my heart good to lead you to the altar." The young fellow hesitatingly replied "that he appreciated the honor, but he was already engaged to two girls and he could not accommodate her."—Vermilion Freeman.

Boiled Peas Excellent.

An ancient story tells of two unfortunates who were condemned to make a long pilgrimage with peas in their shoes. The feet of one of them, at the end of the journey, were terrible sore and swollen. His companion's were not not hurt in the least. Being asked the reason, he replied, "I boiled my peas." Wise man. Why should men and women and children make the pilgrimage of life with pains and aches troubling them, not only in their feet, but all over, when a simple remedy will effect a cure. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is potent to cure dyspepsia, "liver complaint," skin disease, and kindred troubles arising from the same source.

QUANTITY QUALITY

Which have you an eye to, quantity or quality, when you buy something to make washing easy? If it's quality, you want Pearline. In effectiveness, in economy, and above all in its absolute harmlessness, no matter how or where you use it, there's nothing to compare with this, the first and only washing-compound.

What difference does the quantity make, after all? If you spend five cents or ten cents or a dollar for an aid to washing, don't you want the thing that will give you the most work, the best work, and the most certain safety for that amount of money? That thing is Pearline.

Send it Back — Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 288 JAMES PYLE, New York.
