

Jardinieres

That Are Gems of Art Beautiful shapes and decorative effects in Jardinieres of all sizes and qualities, at prices ranging from a few cents to many dollars.

L.R. Murray & Son

Semi-Annual Sale

SHOES

We will sell all goods that are slightly out of style for less than cost. We have had a few pairs of ladies' Oxfords, new toe and extension sole, which we sold for $8 but will now sell for $2.25.

J. M. Paterson

Pianos at Cost

Having on hand several makes of pianos that I am going to discount. I will show them at cost if sold by Feb. 1. These are all first class pianos and some old reliable makes and you can secure a bargain that you will not often find.

R. D. Gardner

White & Sullivan. The following is a list of names and addresses related to the business.

AFTER THE SMOKE OF BATTLE

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT'S VIEW OF OLEO BILL'S CHANCES. Friends of Measure Confident of Favorable Decision in Senate if Bill Can Be Brought to a Vote—Com. Adams' Strong Argument.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, writing under date of Jan 10 says: The practical close of a day of the public hearings on the oleomargarine bill has given its friends and opponents a breathing space for looking over the situation. The friends of the bill have not found so smooth a road as the more sanguine of them expected in the senate committee on agriculture. They intended by sending the bill to that committee rather than the committee on finance, because they believed that they had a safe majority there. Some of the questions which have been put by Senator Aldrich, the conservative opponent, have been disconnected with the bill, because these questions have indicated a strong probability that the senator would join the four southern democrats on the committee in opposition to the measure. This would create a brittle majority. The friends of the measure declare that they do not think there will be a disposition to delay action unduly in the committee, and the fact is appreciated that an adverse report there would not be taken into consideration until after the election. The friends of the bill are confident that they can control a majority vote in the senate. They are confident that this is very far from implying that they can bring the measure to a vote. They are only hoping that the opposition will not undertake to consume time, unduly, and that other important measures can be gotten out of the way sufficiently early to give a day or two to the oleomargarine bill. The constitutional right of congress to tax an industry to extinction will naturally be an important factor in the bill's debate. It was when the original oleomargarine bill was proposed 15 years ago, with its arbitrary tax of 5 cents per pound. The obvious injustice of such a tax and the stubborn fight made by the oleomargarine interests finally forced a reduction of the tax to 2 cents, at which it has since remained. Secretary Wilson, of the department of agriculture, is in the decision of the pending bill with its tax of 10 cents per pound on oleomargarine when colored. H. C. Adams, dairy and food commissioner of Wisconsin, who was one of the leading witnesses today, endeavored to show that there was a large business in uncolored oleomargarine at the present time, and that the reduction of the tax to 5 cents per pound would not injure this branch of the industry. Mr. Adams has been endeavoring to convince some of the manufacturers in private conversation that he would be better off by availing himself of uncolored oleomargarine and introducing it into general use. Mr. Adams declared that there was a place for the product on the market, and that the chief business of the dairy interests is to prevent its fraudulent sale as butter. He says that the manufacturers do not make the profit of its fraudulent sale, but sell at proper oleomargarine price to retailers, who in some cases steal or evade the state law. Mr. Adams has a list of 25 states in which the coloring of oleomargarine is illegal. He believes that if the federal law should conform in some degree to these conditions in the state oleomargarine would obtain its legitimate footing as an artificial food preparation. Some of the manufacturers admit that there is some force in this view, but believe that the sudden enforcement of the law would cripple and damage the dairy industry. The probability of a vote on the measure will find time to consider the oleomargarine bill at the present session. The project of representative Tamm, one of the strongest champions of the dairy interests, to attach the bill as an amendment to the revenue reduction bill, is likely to encounter the same degree of opposition as the attempt to pass oleomargarine bill independently. There is slipping a war without any regard to the revenue reduction bill and Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, who practically controls the situation in regard to that measure, is a strong opponent of the oleomargarine bill. It may come before for a few days and there will not be a vote on it. There is some hope that a connection between the two bills will not last in the senate and the opposition to the oleomargarine bill. Some of the advocates of the oleomargarine bill are not probably very confident of putting it on the statute books at this session. If they keep a purely original position, however, and sweep the dairy interests in a mass against colored oleomargarine they will be in a good position to push the measure through the house to the east congress. Gen. Grant, of Vermont, who introduced the bill, is not a member of the next house, but the bill will have an active champion in Mr. Tamm, of Massachusetts, and in other members of the committee on agriculture, will continue in the senate and will do what he can for the project there. The bill was used by a go-d while in the house committee at the last session of congress, but its friends will probably take care to introduce it promptly to bear on the committee early in the long session of the next congress.

WATERTOWN MARKETS

Table with multiple columns listing market prices for various commodities such as butter, eggs, and produce. Includes sub-sections for 'FARMERS' PRICES TO DEALERS' and 'RETAILERS' PRICES'.

ROBBERS' PRICES TO DEALERS

Table listing prices for various goods, including different grades of flour and other commodities.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

New York Money Market. The following quotations are for the New York money market, as furnished by the New York Stock Exchange.

Table showing financial data, including interest rates and market conditions for various financial instruments.

Closing New York Stock Market

Table listing closing stock prices for various companies and sectors, including railroads and manufacturing firms.

Chicago Grain and Produce Market

Table listing grain and produce market prices, including wheat, corn, and other agricultural products.

BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDINGS

A Number of Parties Adjudged Bankrupt—George W. Erlich, One of the Number.

Utica, Jan 12.—Daniel Conroy, of Utica, whose hotel was destroyed by fire on Tuesday last, has filed a petition for a bankruptcy in the United States district court. His debts amount to $1,440. Mr. Conroy's assets include fire insurance policies amounting to $1,700, which are now in process of adjustment.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

Transactions in Cows, Veal, Sheep and Hogs at New York. New York, Jan 12.—Receipts of live stock were steady, nothing doing in the market for the day.

Cheese Trade Items

The Dear River cheese box factory is making boxes for G. H. Easton & Co. of New York. The proprietor of the New Columbia cheese factory, in Lewis county, Charles Henry, held the annual cheese meeting on Jan. 2. S. D. Bush was elected chairman and Alden Weller secretary.

ON A VAIN QUEST

Major Butler has received from the New York State Board of Prison Commissioners a copy of the report of the board on the condition of the State Prison at Auburn, N. Y.

DEPUTY SHERIFF BELLINGER RETURNS FROM THE AURUNDACKS

Deputy Sheriff Ezra D. Bellinger returned last night after an unsuccessful quest for Fred Ward alias Arthur Brown. When the authorities were advised that they were in communication with the mysterious man of Auburn, N. Y., Westcott, 63 South 40th, Westcott, 63 South 40th, Canada, Jan 10, 1901.

WAS LOOKING FOR FRED WARD

The Fugitive Was Traced to Harrisville and the Orleans Had Hop of Finding Him in a Lumber Camp, Where He Had Hid Before.

CHESS CONTESTS

The third of the series of a chess contest at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium was held at the gymnasium last evening and was well attended. There are 33 men competing in these contests and the first three men in each event are given points. The first and second prizes were won by Walter Smith, 5 1/2 seconds; second, Charles Castello, 4 seconds; third, William Rollinson, 4 1/2 seconds.

MEASLES AND VACCINATION

Advice Against Having Them in Combination. There are several cases of measles scattered about, and the winter wind since delay in vaccination has caused a number of children to contract the disease. It is time that vaccination was resorted to by both old and young.

OVERHEAD CROSSING PLAN

The Railroad Company's Drawings Submitted for the Arsenal Street Improvement.

THERESA

Theresa, Jan 11.—Superior Court, at 11 o'clock, spent yesterday in the morning.

ATHLETIC CONTESTS

Records Made in the Gymnasium Series Last Evening. The third of the series of a chess contest at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium was held at the gymnasium last evening and was well attended.

IN THE CLUTCHES OF GRIP

Albany, Jan 12.—Several of the leaders in legislative circles are down with grip. Gov. Woodruff is confined to his bed at the Ten Eyck and others have not been in the usual place the opening day.

GOVERNOR

Governor, Jan 10.—Marie City Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star installed the following officers at their meeting held in Temple hall Thursday evening: Mrs. Mary Lovell, warden; Mrs. B. A. Henderson, secretary; Mrs. Anna E. Rogers, treasurer; Mrs. Anna E. Wolfe, treasurer; Mrs. Emma G. Geddis, conductor; Mrs. Lena Leggett, associate conductor; Mrs. Ida N. Lovell, warden; N. B. Thayer, secretary; Mrs. Ella Hancock, organist; Mrs. Ella Hancock, organist; Mrs. Ella Hancock, organist.

NEW YORK PRODUCE MARKET REVIEW

Table listing various market prices for produce, including different grades of flour, sugar, and other food items.