Mrs. James Galloway, one of the best known and most highly esteemed ladies of Watertown, died about 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home in that village, after a long and painful illness.

The news of Mrs. Galloway's death will sadden the hearts of many people throughout the county, for her sterling qualities had won for her many warm friends. Her death was preceded by a long illness, which for many months her friends have known could have but one termination. She suffered greatly and bore her suffering with patience, fortitude and Christian peace. Her sister, Miss Anna Holland, of Carthage, was with her through her illness and up to the time of her death. Mrs. Galloway was a beautiful character, and she was in every way worthy of the respect and esteem in which she was held by all who knew her. Her bereaved family has general sympathy to their affliction.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Galloway is survived by two daughters, Misses Maria and Beulah Galloway, of Bakers Harbor, two sisters, Mrs. Kate Watkins and Miss Anna Hilland, and a brother, Walter Holland, all of Carthage.

NEW CASES AND SUSPECTS

ANOTHER OF THE DRAWN CHILDREN ILL WITH CHALMID
Several Pieces Quarantined for Investigation—Sixteen Are Ill from the Disease at Glen Park.

Time of three new cases of smallpox and all reported, were reported today in this city. The case of Herbert Kelly, was diagnosed as smallpox and quarantined.

This morning Dr. O. O. Stowell examined the cases at 73 and 75 Academy street, the houses of Fred J. McQuinn and Mrs. A. H. Hill, which had been quarantined because of exposure to smallpox. He found no evidence of smallpox and the houses were relieved of quarantine.

Representatives of the H. H. Hancock Co., the United Carriage & Coach Co., the Waterbury Carriage Co. and the Excelsior Carriage Co. met this forenoon at the health officer's office and arranged for the vaccination of all their employees.

At Glen Park 17 persons are now under quarantine, and 14 of these cases have been conclusively diagnosed as smallpox. They are Fred Simon, Van Allen Seiber, Mr. and Mrs. Washington St. Mrs. Benjamin Deane, Ernest Carlton, Mrs. Jefferson Brown and a son of Fred, John, James and Jill; three children of Edwin Jones, one convalescent and the others just at the beginning of the illness; four children of Jefferson Brown, whose illness is just commencing, and Miss Nellie Hubbard, who is quite ill. Miss Margaret Cahill is also quarantined at her home, but Dr. Calkins is inclined to believe that her ailment is nothing more serious than measles.

Later this afternoon a case of suspected smallpox was reported. The patient is an Italian laborer at 17 1/2 High street, a boarding house, and has an eruptive disease that closely resembles and probably is smallpox.

Dr. D. C. Rodenhurst was in the city today, and says there are no new cases at present. He states that most of the smallpox patients there are dangerously ill.

THE CONVOCATION.
Woman's Auxiliary and Junior Auxiliary Sessions.

During the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary at Trinity church yesterday afternoon a letter was read from Mrs. Kunkel, clerk, the district president of the auxiliary, urging the members of the local branch to renewed earnestness and activity in the auxiliary's field of effort, in which she said the organization has labored well and faithfully.

After the Women's Auxiliary session had closed, the Junior branch, of which Miss Margaret A. Sherman is president, held its session. Its reports submitted from various places in the district were indicative of strength and progress in the organization's work.

The convocation proper opened last night. It had been expected that the High Rev. Lexington Coleman, D. D., Bishop of Delaware, would be present, but at the last he was unable to come. Dr. Reed by prompt action, however, procured excellent substitutes in the person of Archbishop Appleby, of Minnesota, and Rev. A. D. Gring, a missionary who for years has been stationed at Kyoto, Japan.

Evening prayer was read at 7:30 last night, there being a good attendance. Besides the visitors mentioned the following clergymen were present: Rev. J. Sanders Reed, D. D., rector of Trinity; Rev. C. H. Mockridge, D. D., rector of St. Paul's; Rev. A. J. E. McKay, of Fivepoint Manor, dean of the district; Rev. E. A. Mason, of Duluth; Rev. E. E. Do Little, of Lowell; Rev. Daniel Deley, of Lacrosse; Rev. Gilbert Shaw, rector of the Church of the Redeemer; Rev. B. F. Adams, of Grace church, Carthage, and Rev. D. D. Waugh, assistant minister of Trinity.

Rev. S. F. Adams delivered an address on the state of mission work in North Carolina, among the poor classes of that state. He gave much information regarding the subject, which showed that some missions need as much help as foreign ones.

Rev. A. D. Gring spoke of mission work among the Japanese. These people he said, are of high intellect, and to win them to Christianity you must appeal directly to their reason. If your mode of life is not what the people of the Christian religion demand, they will respect your religion because of yourself and refuse to embrace it. Once won to Christianity they are among the most consistent workers for the Master, for they give to Him their full affection and consecrate their lives to the faith which He teaches.

The people, said Mr. Gring, have many fine traits of character and are sturdy. One cannot hoodwink them. Only sincerity and earnestness in missionary efforts can win them.

Rev. L. T. Evans, of Cape Vincent, is present today.

Holy Communion was celebrated at 10:30 this morning by Dean Brockway, assisted by Dr. Crocker. The sermon was preached by Rev. M. Adams, of Carthage, his subject being the parable of the sower and the seed. The attending clergy were entertained at luncheon at Trinity rectory after a short business session, at which Secretary Crocker read an account of the work of the Adams convocation to Carthage.

This afternoon's business session began at 2, Dean Brockway presiding. The report of the treasurer, J. M. Tidwell, showed an satisfactory financial condition. Reports from the clergymen of the several parishes in the district are being read.

There is some discussion regarding the liability of the missions at Glen Park and Great Bend, attended by Trinity church, to assessment.

State Street Revival.
Rev. Mr. Steel, the evangelist, is in the city and will be at the State street church meeting tonight. The speaker last night's service was the several urgent requests that their friends be saved.

The pastor spoke on the subject: "A Father's Dream of His People." The fact of the responsibility of all the people was also brought out. The anxiety of parents and friends for their unrepentant friends was the main point of interest. The pastor said: "If nothing prevents other than is known to us, it seems certain that the revival interest will increase. We look for a fast snow tonight. Mrs. Lewis will lead a special choir to accompany the prayer and singing. Mr. Steel is also a singer."

During the meetings we have the promise of sales and duets by our young people, this is always attractive. Everything that can be done to make these meetings of real benefit to all who come will be done.
