Bishop Street.

—Everett Chick will be the teacher of the Bishop Street school for a few weeks.

—The house and two acres of land which formerly belonged to the Harvey Smith estate has been sold to its present occupant, Frank Allen.

—The writer lately saw an executor's deed which was made and executed in 1808, which has not as yet been placed on record at the county clerk's office. Comment is unnecessary.

—The entertainment which was given at the church several weeks gave such general satisfaction that a number have expressed a desire to have the same repeated. We are authorized to state it will not be.

—On Thursday evening last the ladies aid society of the Baptist church at Henderson held a social at the home of Mrs. O. S. Myrick, there being nearly fifty present. Pleasant company, a pleasant time and satisfactory receipts were the results.

—Religious meetings have been held at the church and at private houses nearly every evening for the past three weeks, being conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. Casler. The result has been a general spiritual quickening among the members of the church and the accession of several as probationers.

—Never neglect a constipated condition of the bowels, or serious results surely follow, such as piles, impure blood and many chronic complaints. Burdock Blood Bitters.

Smithville.

—Geo. Spenser lies in a very critical condition from a broken leg received Thursday, March 4, while drawing logs for Rollin Stanley. It is so badly swollen that the Dr. has not been able to set it at present writing.

—There was a farewell party at the hotel on Friday evening March 3. Mr. F. R. Babcock who has catered to the wants of the public in so pleasant and satisfactory manner for the last two years has disposed of his hotel to a Mr. Totman, of Watertown, who comes well recommended. Fred will occupy the Ed Lewis house lately vacated by D. B. York, where he may be found at all times ready to shoe horses, saw logs, or make cider.

—When the blood is loaded with impurities, and moves sluggishly in the veins, an alterative is needed. This condition of the vital fluid cannot last long without serious results. There is nothing better than Ayer's Sarsaparilla to purify the blood, and impart energy to the system.

Ellisburgh.

—W. J. Tafft and family are visiting R P. Davis and other friends in this vicinity.

—A light can be seen at night in the direction of Oswego, which is thought to be the reflection of the electric light on the clouds.

—Hon. A. D. Shaw will lecture in the Universalist church Tuesday evening, March 23d. Subject, "Rambles Abroad." Admission free.

—Our village school closed Friday, March 5th. There would have been one more week in this term, but the teachers of both departments were taken ill and obliged to close their labors for the present. The school was taught the past term by Miss Addie Pool as principal and Adele Richards assistant. These ladies are both first class teaches and skilled in the latest methods of teaching. Miss Pool had nearly completed her course in the Normal school at Oswego, and if her health permits will finish her course this spring at that place. Her present illness is the result of overtaxed nerves. She is an indefatigable worker and leaves nothing undone that is in her power to do for the welfare of her pupils. She will be missed by her faithful pupils and the community will miss her wholesome influence with the young. The Philomathic Society, of which she was the founder, will feel the want of her counsel. Miss Richards will, if her health permits, continue to be assistant in the primary department next term.

Henderson.

DEATH OF MRS. LOIS FARMAN.—Mrs. Farman, wife of John Farman, Esq., died March 2d, 1886, aged 90 years. The subject of this sketch came from Vermont while she was yet a girl with her father David Whittier, who with a numerous family settled in the town of Henderson just before the breaking out of the war of 1812, consequently she was a witness of many of the trying scenes that transpired along the frontier during that stormy period of our country's history. Their home in a log house at that time was near the mouth of Big Stony Creek where the British were wont to invade for the purpose of plunder. These were trying times for the pioneers of the little settlement at the creek. On one occasion the British came up the creek, captured what men they could find and taking them on board their vessels forced them to act as pilots as they sailed into Sandy Creek at the time of the battle at that place. At this time as the men of the settlement and vicinity had nearly all gone to join the army, leaving their families to take care of themselves as best they could, the women and children, for fear of being surprised and maltreated in the night by the British, would hie themselves to the woods and there stay till morning. Thus did these sturdy pioneers pass their time at home through the day and at night in the woods for long weeks and months till peace was declared. After the close of the war Mrs. F. lived to see the country then a wilderness cleared up and stately houses take the place of the shanties and log houses. She lived to see the flint and tinder box supplanted by the friction match, the spinning wheel set aside for the stately factory; the sewing machine, the rail car, the telegraph and telephone are all inventions that had a birth in her day. She was married nearly seventy years ago to John Farman, better known in this vicinity as 'Squire Farman. She became the mother of six children, three boys and three girls. The boys, strange to say, all had spinal difficulty, commencing to affect them at about ten years of age, and they all died between the ages of 16 and 20. The girls were all healthy and are still living. Mrs. F. was an amiable companion, an affectionate mother, a good neighbor, a true friend and an esteemed citizen. She leaves a husband, three daughters, an adopted son, M. B. Scott, two grandchildren and one great-grandchild, and one sister, Miss Caroline Whittier, to mourn her loss. Her funeral was held on Tuesday, the 4th inst., and was largely attended by a large and sympathizing congregation. Her remains were interred in the Carpentar cemetery.

A WALKING SKELETON.—Mr. E. Springer, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., writes: "I was afflicted with lung fever and abscess on lungs and reduced to a walking skeleton. Got a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which did me so much good that I bought a dollar bottle. After using three bottles, found myself once more a man, completely restored to health, with a hearty appetite, and a gain in flesh of 48 lbs. Call at W. H. Withington's drug store and get a free trial bottle of this certain cure for all lung diseases. Large bottles $1 00. 3

DREAMS AND FULFILMENTS.

A French writer says that to dream well we must act well while we are awake, and to bring down beings of celestial origin to converse with us in our sleep we must struggle in the cause of virtue during the day. The dream of Cæsar's wife, when the Ides of March had come, as related by Plutarch, is full of interest. Cæsar was much disturbed by the groans she uttered in her sleep, and awoke her. She then told him that she had dreamed of holding him murdered in her arms. On the following day, so deeply impressed upon her mind, and so great the terror it inspired, that she implored him to remain at home that day and adjourn the meeting of the Senate. He was startled, and knowing her to be a woman of fearless mind and in nowise superstitious he offered sacrifices and consulted astrologers, by whom he was advised to adjourn the Senate. But he was persuaded to do otherwise by one of the conspirators against his life, who laughed at the dream and urged Cæsar not to offend the Senate just when they were about to crown his ambitious desires. Cæsar listened to the treacherous voice and went to meet his death.

Lord Bacon records a dream he had in which he saw his father's house in the country plastered over with black mortar, and he had no doubt on awakening that he would hear evil tidings. His father died on the very night on which he dreamed.

A gentleman relates the following: "One evening some two years since, my brother, an officer in the army, surprised me with a late visit, just as my family was retiring to rest.

"'Brother,' exclaimed he, in an excited manner, 'mother is dead!'

"'When and how did you hear it?' I replied, as she was living at some distance from the town where we were, and was, so far as we knew it, in perfect health.

"'I have seen her pass me twice this evening, in my room, while I was in bed, with her head bandaged up, and I could not rest until I saw you,' was his answer.

"In consequence of his entreaties and conviction, we determined to take the first train to the locality where our mother resided, and upon our arrival we found, to our great surprise, that she died the evening before, quite suddenly, at the exact hour my brother dreamed he saw the apparition."

The celebrated dream of Thomas Lord Lyttleton, in which he dreamed a bird flew into the room where he slept, and while he looked at it it changed into the form of a woman whom he had wronged, who told him to prepare for another world, as in three days he would die. He was well then, and laughingly said he did not look much like a man so near death, and that he intended to "bilk the ghost." Some hours after saying this he went with Mr. Fortescue and Capt. Wolsey to Pitt Place, Epsom, ate for supper an egg, went cheerfully to bed, and suddenly expired in a fit in the presence of his servant.

AN ARTISTIC BLOTTING-BOOK.

There are several colors of blotting paper from which to select the shade desired, or several colors may be combined, but the cream or buff is prettiest for decorating. Place together four or six of the leaves or pages for one book. Before tying them together, however, mark, half an inch from the top, two places for slits, which must be cut with a sharp knife. The distance between the slits should be about two inches, and each slit should be at an equal distance from each side of the leaf. After one has been accurately marked and cut, the others must be done the same way. Run through them a ribbon, the color of which should harmonize well with the design to be painted on the cover, and tie in a bow with ends. The ribbon must be run through the slits from the back. The cover should then be decorated with a design of any kind which may be pleasing. One, for instance, is a broken pen, from which several little pigs are making their escape with great rapidity, and in the upper right-hand corner are the following words in gilt and brown letters: "Excuse haste and a bad pen." The whole design may be outlined in monotint with water-colored paint, or if desired, can be more elaborately painted.

Latude, in the Bastile, made companions of six-and-twenty rats who inhabited his cell. He gave each of them a name, and they learned to come to him at his call. He fed them, played with them, and them they nearly relieve

Spring Medicine

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

ROBUST HEALTH

Is not always enjoyed by those who seem to possess it. The taint of corrupted blood may be secretly undermining the constitution. In time, the poison will certainly show its effects, and with all the more virulence the longer it has been allowed to permeate the system. Each pimple, sty, boil, skin disorder and sense of unnatural lassitude, or languor, is one of Nature's warnings of the consequences of neglect.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only remedy that can be relied upon, in all cases, to eradicate the taint of hereditary disease and the special corruptions of the blood. It is the only alterative that is sufficiently powerful to thoroughly cleanse the system of Scrofulous and Mercurial impurities and the pollution of Contagious Diseases. It also neutralizes the poisons left by Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever, and enables rapid recuperation from the enfeeblement and debility caused by these diseases.

Myriads of Cures

Effected by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, in the last forty years, are attested, and there is no blood disease, at all possible of cure, that will not yield to it. Whatever the ailments of this class, and wherever found, from the scurvy of the Arctic circle to the "chair-sores" of South Africa, this remedy has afforded health to the sufferers by whom it was employed. Druggists everywhere can cite numerous cases, within their personal knowledge, of remarkable cures wrought by it, where all other treatment had been unavailing. People will do well to

Trust Nothing Else

than AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Numerous crude mixtures are offered to the public as "blood purifiers," which only allure the patient with the pretense of many cheap doses, and with which it is folly to experiment while disease is steadily becoming more deep-seated and difficult of cure. Some of these mixtures do much lasting harm. Bear in mind that the only medicine that can radically purify the vitiated blood is About Advertising.

If you can arouse curiosity by an advertisement, it is a great point gained. The fair sex don't hold all the curiosity in the world.

A thing worth doing is worth doing well. A thing worth advertising is worth advertising well. A newspaper worth advertisihg in is one worth making a contract with.

By far the best advertising medium in southern Jefferson County is THE JOURNAL.

A large advertisement once, and then discontinued, creates the impression that the man has fizzled.

Large type is not necessary in advertising—blind folks don't read newspapers.

Don't be afraid to invest in printer's ink lest your sands of life be nearly run out.

A constant dropping will wear a rock. Keep dropping your advertisements on the public through THE JOURNAL, and they will soon melt under it like ice under rock-salt.

It is a mistaken notion that a fine store in an eligible location, surrounded by attractive signs is a superior advertisement; for the experience of the most enterprising merchants is that it pays better to spend less in rent and more on advertising.

Enterprising people are beginning to learn the value of advertising the year round. The persistency of those who are not intimidated by the cry of "dull times," but keep their names ever before the public, will surely place them on the right side in the end.

Advertising is the pole that knocks the persimmons.

To make a man realize an idea as you realize it, is what is necessary to make him understand his needs. Advertisements should aim to place a matter so clearly before the public that they see it as clearly as the advertiser does.

Don't expect an advertisement to bear fruit in one night.

You can't eat enough in a week to last you a year, and you can't advertise on that plan either.

Hang out your sign in THE JOURNAL.
