VICTORY FOR THE DRYS

Columbus, Ohio—"In the excitement over the results of the Maine election, the fact has been overlooked generally that it has been fully as important a victory for the drys as it was for the Republican party," said Wayne B. Wheeler, former superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, now stationed at Washington as general counsel of the national organization. "With the elimination of Senator Johnson, one of the recognized wet leaders of the United States senate is removed," continued Wheeler. "Maine has been put through the wringer and come out dryer than she has been for many years. The four men elected to the House of Representatives are known drys and the governor is also dry."

How Napoleon Got Officers.

Napoleon had a novel way of obtaining officers to meet the needs of the ever growing army which the adoption of conscription brought about. Following the example of Frederick the Great, he created a new military caste. He organized the great military college of St. Cyr and founded a cavalry school where, in the words of his own order, "if well born the candidates should be examined with indulgence as regards knowledge of arithmetic and geometry."

Youths of good family were in many cases compelled against their will to go to St. Cyr. Strange as it may seem, some of the youths thus "commandeered" and obliged to adopt a military vocation turned out brilliantly.—London Chronicle.

Tongues of the Felines.

All members of the cat family possess tongues that are more or less rough, due to points of tough cartilage which cover them. In ordinary house cats this roughness is very slight, but in the larger feline species the points are sometimes fully an eighth of an inch long. Ordinarily the tongue is soft and smooth, but when the animal becomes enraged the points become rigid, making it a very dangerous weapon.

Keeping Cool.

"Mrs. Peck—Henry, what would you do if burglars should break into our house some night? Mr. Peck (villainously)—Humph! I should keep perfectly cool, my dear. And when, a few nights later, burglars did break in, Henry kept his promise—he hid in the icebox."

Liverpool.

Liverpool holds an unrivaled position as a distributing center. Within a short distance are situated the large manufacturing industries of Lancashire and Yorkshire. It is a center for the midlands and also for Ireland and part of Wales.

In and Out.

"I'm thinking of going into the poultry business."
"Then I am the very man you want to meet. I can supply all your needs. I am thinking of going out of the poultry business."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
