Owing to a scarcity of wool the Oswego Falls manufacturing company are unable to run on full time.

It is said that 20,000 unburned bricks have been spoiled by the late rains in W. D. Edgerton's brick yard.

Fred Spencer and N. N. Stranahan have returned home from New York, where they have been attending the Columbia law school.

A very interesting and impartial discussion of both sides of the Mormon question may be found in our letter from "J. T. S." in another column.

The social given by the ladies of the M. E. church last Friday evening was well attended and a pleasant time enjoyed by all present. Receipts about thirty dollars.

The S. S. Teachers' Meeting of the M. E. church will be held for the present at the close of the prayer meeting, Thursday evenings. Prof. Boothby has charge of the class and explains the lesson in a very instructive and interesting manner.

The Presbyterian church was filled to its utmost capacity by an appreciative audience to listen to the memoriam sermon rendered by Rev. J. S. Riggs. The G. A. R. attended in a body. There were many who tried to obtain admittance but were unable to do so.

Miles W. Cheney of Granby Centre was married to Miss Lida E. Eastman on the 14th inst. in Buffalo by the Rev. E. E. Clevers. Mr. Cheney is well known in Fulton and has a host of friends. THE TIMES wishes them a prolonged life of happiness.

The pupils of Mrs. F. D. VanWagenen are preparing for a musical entertainment to be given at the close of the commencement of Falley Seminary next month. Mrs. VanWagenen is an instructor of much ability, and there is no doubt the event will be very interesting.

E. F. Johnson, of Elgin, Ill., was in town Saturday viewing the water privileges. He says the water power is the best in the State, and if he could receive sufficient encouragement, he would build an agricultural implement factory. Rome has offered him a building site. Where are our capitalists now who wish to improve the town?

The wheat in W. S. Nelson & Co's. mill has been purchased by W. G. Gage & Co. It is said that the mill will be closed, and if it be a fact, it will be regretted by every Fultonian. The site is one of the best for manufacturing purposes, and affords as good water power as there is in the State. Mr. Nelson will probably go to Chicago.

Rev. W. F. Markham was called to Oswego last Sabbath to attend the funeral of the mother of Supt. VanHorne of the R. W. & O. RR. He will occupy his pulpit as usual next Sunday. Dr. C. W. Bennett of Syracuse University supplied the pulpit in the morning and preached a very able and scholarly sermon. The Dr. is a very effective pulpit orator.

Prof. F. K. Jones and some of his lady students broke the monotony of the daily routine of studies and recitations at Dist. No. 9 last Thursday afternoon by giving a complimentary musicale to the faculty and students of the school in the chapel of the building. The different parts of the program were rendered in a manner creditable to both teacher and pupils. The entertainment closed with a grand concert march by F. K. Jones entitled "Union School, No. 9," and dedicated to Prof. Boothby.

THE PEOPLE ASTONISHED.

[illegible]

Joseph Francis [illegible] editor of THE FULTON [illegible] tember 15th, 1882, [illegible] connection with THE TIMES [illegible] May. During his stay with us he has made an excellent editor, and worked faithfully in that capacity. The discharge of Mr. Francis from THE TIMES created considerable excitement [illegible] the reason that Mr. Francis [illegible] story that we were paid $500 by Willard Johnson to discharge him. That statement is false, as we have never received one cent from Mr. Johnson and will not. Mr. Francis also says that Mr. Johnson will dictate THE TIMES as to its politics, and we wish to say to the public that we run our own business and will not be dictated by any living person. THE TIMES will still continue to be a brief chronicler of the happenings of the day.

"The world moves on" (in the language of Francis) and so does THE TIMES notwithstanding Francis is no longer connected with the paper.

THE CIRCUMSTANCES

under which Francis was discharged are as follows:—

A trustee asked us why the proceedings of the Board was not published as furnished, and who changed them. We informed him that Mr. Francis changed them. The next day (Wednesday) Mr. Frances asked Mr. Wheeler if he told the trustee so and so; he replied that he did, at that moment Francis got angry and indulged in profane and indecent epithets, calling Mr. Wheeler names, and especially a name that reflects upon the character of his mother. The indecent language used by Francis was in the presence of the employees in the office, and Mr. Wheeler's sister, which was more than Miss Wheeler could bear.

These are positively the facts under which Francis was discharged.

It has also been the rumor on the streets that hundreds of persons were stopping THE TIMES. There have only twelve persons discontinued the paper, and we have received nine new subscribers.

Now we have stated the facts in the case, and would like to ask the public if we are compelled to stand such abuse?

Organ Concert.

The organ concert given last Wednesday evening, at the Presbyterian church under the direction of Prof. Flagler, proved to be one of the finest musical entertainments ever given in Fulton. The evening was unfavorable, but, notwithstanding the rain a fair sized audience gathered to listen for the first time to the new organ, one of the best make of Steer & Turner, Massachusetts. The wide reputation, as an organist, which preceded Professor Flagler was fully sustained in the fine execution he gave on this occasion. Twice he was compelled to respond to the hearty applause of an appreciative audience and under his hands the organ gave forth its richest harmonies.

Miss Kopp and Mr. Baldwin were warmly welcomed and at each appearance enthusiastically encored. "Hear ye, Israel," from Elijah, by Miss Kopp, was received with delight by her listeners and seemed to be the favorite selection which she sang. "Come unto me," a solo by Mr. Baldwin, elicited another hearty encore. The programme was a fine one and so finished in its presentation that it is impossible to make any special mention of the selections. It is to be regretted that more were not present. Miss Kopp is a great favorite wherever she appears and it is to be hoped she will soon favor Fulton with another visit. "Music and Drama" announce her appearance in concert at an early date in Utica under the direction of Prof. Lombard.

Ingratitude.

"Had I but serv'd my God with half the zeal I serv'd my King, he would not in my age have left me naked to my enemies."
Henry VIII.

The history of ingratitude is as ancient as the world itself. It was one of the Devil's emisaries to conquer a place in the human heart, and will doubtless be one of the last of the brood to be dislodged. A man possessed of this evil trait, has a conveniently treacherous memory, or a very hateful disposition; he is regardful neither of the ties of friendship or of blood; he is pitiless, cruel, cowardly, faithless—altogether despicable. The ingrate is found everywhere; in walks of life, among all conditions of men; in politics and in trade. Everywhere he is known—every where despised. The virtue of gratitude becomes by contrast with this vice a doubly bright jewel. [illegible]

Gilbert who went together brought in 41.

The following rhyme was received yesterday on a postal card by a Fultonian, as a receipe for a bad cold:—

Rock and rye
You must try
For a cold,
Or you will die,
But if this should surely fail,
And your face begin to pale,
Take yourself into your bed,
Put cold water on your head,
Wrap yourself up very warm
So that you'll receive no harm,
Mustard plaster upon your chest,
"Manson's" mustard is the best.
Eating everything you like,
Quail on toast, roasted pike.
For the addage says, of old,
Starve a fever, stuff a cold.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE OPENED.

The Trustees Resign Control and Turn It Over to the Cities—Completion of a Work Begun Fourteen Years Ago.

The great Brooklyn bridge has been building for the past fourteen years was opened last Thursday. The day was perfect and great crowds were attracted to both cities from all over the state. Crowds of men and boys began gathering in City Hall Park in New York and about the entrance to the bridge as early as nine o'clock.

The occasion was made a universal holiday in Brooklyn; business was given up and all the principal buildings and many houses were elaborately decorated. In New York there was less enthusiasm but still a good deal of the holiday spirit prevailed. Large numbers of people flocked around the termini of the bridge all the afternoon. The President, Governor Cleveland and other guests were escorted by the 7th Regiment to the bridge, on which they were met by the Brooklyn city officials and the 23d regiment. Salutes were fired while was crossing the river. The formal exercises were held in the Brooklyn terminal station. Vice-President Kingsley of the bridge trustees, presented the structure, and it was received by the mayors of Brooklyn and New York. Orations were delivered by Congressman Abram S. Hewitt and the Rev. Dr. Richard S. Storrs. A fine display of fireworks was given on the bridge in the evening. The President and Governor after dining with Mayor Low, held a reception at the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

Dinah John Dead.

A large number of the residents of this village will remember an aged squaw, named "Aunt Dinah," who made periodical trips to this village from the Onondaga reservation. She sold beads and other fancy articles and had many friends in this and neighboring villages. She died in Syracuse on Saturday and was supposed to be about 109 years of age. Her funeral took place Sunday. She never learned to speak English very fluently, but always succeeded in getting along. She was of pure Onondaga blood and as straight as a rod and very active, always making her trips on foot. For the last few years she has not been out much and for two years past has been blind. Every Indian of the Reservation loved her and at her funeral many of the men shed tears.

Presented With a Purse.

The Rev. Mr. Moyses who has been chaplain of the Fulton Fire Department for the past four years was invited to call at the engine house last Thursday evening. About half past eight the members assembled, and were called to order, after which Mr. S B Mead arose, made a few remarks, and presented Mr. Moyses with a purse of $25 in behalf of the members as a token of love and friendship. The reverend gentleman immediately responded with tears in his eyes, saying he was completely surprised, and spoke of the many pleasant happenings which had occurred during the time he had been connected with the department and of the ties which bound him to Fulton. He then bade them good-bye and wished them prosperity in the future. Mr. Moyses left for Adams Friday morning. We congratulate the people of Adams on having such an accession to their midst, while at the same time we regret to lose him.

Learned a Lesson.

A gentleman stepped into Amdursky's new clothing house Saturday and looked around at the mammoth stock. Mr. Amdursky approached him and asked if he wished to buy a suit of clothes.

"No, sir," he replied, "I buy my clothes in Syracuse. There I find them cheaper I think."

Mr Amdursky asked him to take a seat and proved conclusively to him that he was in error; that suits he was selling for $15 were being sold in Syracuse for $22 and so on, and gave his reasons as follows:

FIRST—Rents in Syracuse are fabulous; some stores paying as high as six thousand dollars per annum.

SECOND—Clerk hire and advertising is another enormous drainage.

THIRD—Living in the city costs twice what it does in Fulton.

"Now, my friend," said Mr Amdursky "where does the profits come from? Country people pay the expenses. They are attracted thither by blow and bluster only to be fleeced." I will sell you a fine fitting, all wool, stylish and wel made suit for $15. I buy at the same market Syracuse dealers do and have in many respects a much better stock. My rents are reasonable, clerk hire reason able and goods first class."

I believe you," said the stranger, "and from henceforth will buy my clothing at home."

A new time table will go into effect on the N. Y. O. & W. next Monday, which will be more accommodating to the people of this community.

Father Kierney was summoned to Cortland this morning by telegraph consequently the high mass to which the G. A. R. was invited was postponed.

The Van Doren hose of Phœnix gives a grand hop at Howard Opera House in that village this evening. The companies from this place have been invited to attend.

A new trial has been ordered by the general term for Sam Williams the murderer of Hall at Sodus Point. The trial will take place at Lyons, commencing next Monday.

The post office will be open to-day from 4 to 5:30 p. m. The banks and many places of business are closed, and with the usual display of flags our streets have a holiday appeauance.

Lyman H. Patterson, clerk of the village board of this village appeared before the board of trustees with counsel last evening to show cause why he should not be removed for misconduct. Mr. Howe, his attorney made a few remarks upholding Mr. Patterson in what he had done, but it seemed to be determined on the part of three trustees and the president to remove Mr. Patterson. Mr. Howe presented each of the men who were opposed to Patterson with an injunction signed by the county judge to prohibit them from taking action in regard to it. Notwithstanding the injunction Patterson was removed just the same. If we are informed correctly, these members are liable to be arrested, and a heavy fine imposed for contempt of court.

[illegible] an object of special attention to those who feel interested in the correction of abuses in our social system. That the error into which the ardent faith of the Mormon people have led them is a grievous one will probably be conceded by all; however as to the best means necessary to wipe this foul blot from the otherwise fair land of Utah before her admission into the sisterhood of states there are many conflicting opinions. As the question has been made one of special legislation, and clergymen and politicians both high and low have delivered themselves exhaustively thereon, it might not be out of order if some of the little fishes and the small fry should have their say. I have been thrown among this people not a little, traveled in their company, conversed with them upon Mormonism in all its phases, attended their meetings and listened to an exposition of their doctrines, and have arrived at certain conclusions. No other sect accepts scripture as literally as they do; none other are willing to stand so unequivocally upon every sentence of holy writ as they are; but few if any others are willing to attest their devotion to their church to the extent of yielding up cheerfully and smilingly the one-tenth of their earnings every year as they do. It will probably be acknowledged by most of those who have considered the question carefully that if there is one sect that has more bibles upon which to base their faith than any or every other, it is unquestionably the Latter Day Saints. But as to whether the book refered to may be accepted as an infallable standard of appeal upon all questions of a religious or moral character, is one that does not fall within the province of this article. Does the organic law of this country authorize Congress, as long as Utah remains a territory to set aside all of the privileges inseperably belonging to territorial government, to appoint a commission to pass upon the eligibility of voters, the manner of conducting elections, and in short to usurp every one of the reserved and guaranteed rights of a people to local self government? If such a right exists with regard to Utah it certainly does with every other territory. I think any fair minded person upon careful consideration will recognize legislation of this kind as tending to establish a very dangerous precedent. It will be a sad day for the government when it disfranchises whole sects because some of the members indulge in criminal practices. The founders of the Republic made religious liberty one of the chief corner stones of the American Union; they prohibited all religious tests and placed every creed on the broad platform of universal tolerance. To disfranchise a Mormon to-day because he is a Mormon means that to-morrow you disfranchise a Catholic because he is one, and a Methodist the next day because he refuses to become a Presbyterian and so on to the end of the chapter. But should Congress devise no means to disabuse Utah of the disgrace that tends to give the whole nation a bad smell. Necessarily it becomes its duty to afford some relief. Suppose it should disorganize Utah altogether, take away all territorial questions, legalize all marriages up to a certain date for it will be readily seen that the complication likely to arise would render it unwise to annul those already contracted, and punish all plural ones after that time by the most severe penalties that follow the crime of bigamy anywhere. I believe that such a law would be secretly welcomed with pleasure by ninetenths of the Mormon people themselves including many in authority. It has been preached there for nearly forty years, it has concerned the whole people directly or indirectly, and the leaders think they cannot abandon the position now without stulification. But they could all submit to the inevitable; and I am well satisfied that nearly the whole of them would be secretly delighted by the enactment of a law that it would be impossible to resist. In fact I have heard many of them say as much. Ask any intelligent Mormon if he thinks polygamy will survive fifty years and he will answer, No. It stands to reason men can bear almost anything better than that their children should be dishonored and in future years look back upon them as the cause and with good and sufficient reason. It is this feeling that causes so many boys and girls in Utah to wonder why they have been born to be pitied and their mothers scorned.

There are certain instincts of the human heart that cannot be uprooted. Not only are the births of the sexes equal but in every true womans soul, the feeling that is stronger than every other is to have the undivided affection of the man she loves best. No sophistry and no vice can uproot this desire. It is seen manifesting itself every day even among those who have abandoned all hope of ever again being considered reputable. This state of things exists notwithstanding the brutal teachings of the priests who rule them and from whose influence it is so difficult to break away. By all means let something be done to redeem the people of Utah, as brave and generous a class as ever lived. But in the attempt we should not in obedience to fanatical religionists or designing demagogues, many of whom might apply with credit to themselves the advice given to the heathen Saints pursue a course in violence to constitutional law or that does discredit to our own understanding. THE CHEESE MARKET.

AT SYRACUSE.

There was a very large attendance at the second meeting of the Syracuse Dairymen's Board of Trade Monday afternoon. Twenty-nine cheese factories were registered, offering 1,288 boxes of cheese. Sales were light, ruling price about 11½ cents.

AT UTICA.

It seemed to be the expectation among salesmen that the market would be somewhat better Monday than it was a week ago. But buyers argued that the New York quotations was the same with a posibility that it would go lower during the week, and they were not disposed to take much risk. Dispatches received from New York during the afternoon claimed that the ruling price ought not to go above 11¼ cents, the cable being off one shilling and the prospect being for a lower price the last of the week. Such advices did not tend to stimulate the market much, and at the close quite a number of salesmen were disappointed, who calculated on ⅝ being the ruling price.

Transactions were as follows: "Thirteen lots, 690 boxes, at 11¼ cents; 87 lots 4,810 boxes, 11½; 7 lots, 542 boxes, at 11⅝ cents; 3 lots small cheese, 305 boxes, at 11¾ cents; 7 lots, also small, 155 boxes, at 11⅞ cents; and 2 lots 202 boxes, at private terms. Sales 6,704 boxes; commissions, 1,106 boxes; Total, 7,810 boxes.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

Salesmen come to market Monday with the expectations of securing an advance over last week's prices, knowing that cheese went out in New York so nicely last week, and the morning's market here of farm dairy and a few home trade factories strengthened their belief. But buyers received the telegrams during the middle of the day which chilled the hopes of elated salesmen and prices finally settled to about the same rates paid last week. The market is, however, stronger at these figures. Quality of stock is improving, the most of the skims being gone. The sales in the list were, we believe white cheese, the leading price for colored stock being 11¾ cents. Following were the transactions:

"A BLESSING IN DISGUISE,"

484 Adelphi St, BROOKLYN, N.Y., MARCH 29, 1881.

No family should be without Allcock's porous plasters; their healing powers are wonderful and their efficiency far reaching and lasting. For years past I have seen and know them to cure and relieve the most obstinate and distressing cases of rheumatism, kidney complaint, bronchitis, neuralgia, lumbago, inflammation of the lungs and throat, paralysis, asthma, spinal weakness, and coughs and colds. In my own case they have afforded me almost instant and permanent relief. My friends consider them an invaluable and speedy remedy for all kinds of aches and pains. They are a blessing in disguise; and no wife or mother should be without them if she values her peace and comfort and freedom from nervous exhaustion and other ailments. As a strengthening plaster, also for backaches and weaknesses, they have no equal. I have never yet found a plaster so efficacious and stimulating, or to give so much general satisfaction. Used in connection with Brandreth universal life-giving and life-healing Pills, no one need despair of a speedy restoration to good sound health. MRS E. TOMPKINS
