NURSES MINUS TONGUES AND BOTH HANDS CUT OFF

Rutland Naval Officer Said He Saw Two Helpless Women Just Back From Europe on Way Back to Canada in the Station.

Ogdensburg, April 9.—From time to time during the past few weeks rumors have circulated through this city that three Red Cross nurses, with their tongues cut from their mouths and their hands off at the wrists, which horrible atrocities had been committed by the Germans, had been brought to Ogdensburg and were being cared for at one of the local hospitals. Most people set the story down as a weird yarn without any basis of fact, as no one could be found who might shed any light on the origin of the gruesome tale. At the hospitals it was said that nothing whatever was known of the matter. A prominent physician however, said he first heard the story three weeks ago. He said he was at a loss to account for any such story gaining circulation.

Yesterday a variation of the report reached here by the way of Rutland, Vt., stating that a navy recruiting officer stationed there had seen the mutilated nurses in question last Friday in a "well known hotel in Ogdensburg," and that they were accompanied by a woman attendant who performed for them such services as they were no longer able to do for themselves because of the loss of their hands. The story added that the unfortunate nurses were being escorted to their homes in Canada, whence they had left to serve humanity.

The Rutland story, taken from a paper published March 26, is as follows:

"A sight to make strong men weep and reach out for vengeance was witnessed last Friday in a well known hotel in Ogdensburg, N. Y., by Chief Gunner's Mate J. C. White, who has established an enviable reputation as a naval recruiting officer since he was stationed at the local office many months ago. Atrocity stories have become very familiar through second hand channels—some one who has seen some one else, newspapers and magazines—but what Chief White saw was a living, breathing story telling itself in words of horror to all who saw, though the characters could neither speak nor write.

"In the hotel mentioned was a party of three women. Two were mute. Their tongues had been cut from their mouths. Both hands on both women had been cut off at the wrists. And they had been Red Cross nurses at or near the front. The third woman was an attendant. From time to time she carefully wiped from the suffering faces of her young, multilated companions, the saliva that they were powerless to prevent from escaping from their mouths, and performed for them the services which they could no longer do for themselves because of their helpless stumps of arms. The caretaker was accompanying them to their home in Canada, whence they had gone to serve humanity."

We have it from a reliable source that the three women mentioned above were passengers on a Black River train on their way north; further that Mrs. V. F. Iroll, formerly of Lowville, was a passenger in the same coach en-route to her home in Watertown from this village, and that the Rutland story is correct as to details and conditions.

An Imitation

Is never as good as the article it imitates. And so it is with Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil. Hundreds of imitations have been offered to the public in place of the genuine but none of them have quite answered the purpose. Renne's does the work expected of it, both internally for cramp colic and cholera morbus, and externally for rheumatism, sprains and for sore muscles. The public know it well and use it regularly. Price 35 cents. Sold by all dealers.—adv.

SOAK THE PUBLIC FOR MILK

Claim Made that Vendors Are Making as Much as Producers—Farmers Say Dealers Blame Overproduction.

The Watertown Standard says: The high cost of a quart of milk in Watertown is depicted as a sword with two edges. It cuts the producer on the one side and the consumer on the other, and both at the same time, it is pointed out.

The cost to the consumer of a quart of milk has not decreased in a ratio with the price paid the farmer and it is claimed the figures given indicate that the distributor is making wider margins of profit as the months advance. The farmer is not satisfied and the milk consumers are clamoring for lower prices.

The figures show that the vendor gets as much per quart for distributing the milk as the farmer gets for producing it. The April price to the farmer is 33.64 per hundred, or five and a half cents a quart. The vendor charges 11 cents a quart, which is five and a half cents a quart more than he pays for it.

Then, the situation is also viewed from another angle. In February, milk cost the vendor seven and a quarter cents a quart and he received 12 cents a quart from the consumer. In March the vendor paid the farmer 6.95 cents a quart and got 12 cents. In April he pays five and nine-half cents a quart and receives 11 cents. In February the vendor got four and three-quarters cents a quart for handling milk, in March he got almost five cents, and in April he gets a margin of five and one half cents a quart. The farmer gets a cent less and the dealer three-quarters of a cent more margin than in February.

Some of the farmers who have been delivering milk to local vendors claim that the dealers are rejecting some dairies, claiming that there is an overproduction. They are forced to seek cheese factories where a contract is demanded to deliver until September 1. It is said that the Hygienic Milk Company has refused to take more milk before August 1.

The producers scent a move on the part of the dealers for still more advantageous prices. They claim that there may be conceived a psychological effect in the present situation that portends a still further reduction in offerings for May milk, and that the farmer will agree to the lower price for fear that he may not be able to get a market for his product.

While the vendors are making larger profits, the public is not being benefitted accordingly. No steps are suggested by the city fathers that will relieve the public in this case.

Kewpies Tender Announcement Cards.

The Long Beach, Cal., Press of April 1st says: "At a pretty party given Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Henry, of Rose avenue, announcement was made of the engagement of their daughter, Mary Edith, to William Ernest Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Butler, of this city.

The rooms were dainty in their decorations of gold and white, marigolds and lillies being used. Music and conversation was the pleasant pastime of the evening. The dining room table was centered with golden blossoms. Favors were tiny kewpies, wearing sashes of gauze ribbon tied with huge butterfly bows, proffering cards bearing the names of Miss Henry and Mr. Butler. Delicious ices and cakes and bonbons were served.

Places were marked for Mrs. Snure, of Los Angeles, Mrs. Ledge and the Misses Sturgis, Chappell, Fish and Henry.

HOME DEFENSE COMMITTEE

Government to Send Expert Agriculturist to Lewis County, With Headquarters in Lowville—Voluntary Enlistments and Draft Quota—War Chest for Lewis County.

At Monday's meeting of the Home Defense Committee, Mr. Fear, a prominent agriculturist from Oneida county, now connected with the State council of farms and markets, in charge of Herkimer, Oneida and Lewis counties, was present. Mr. Fear came here to familiarize himself with agricultural conditions in Lewis county and to outline to the committee the programme of the State and nation with respect to the agricultural interests. He pointed out that both the national and State governments were offering many inducements to encourage production and to help the farmers perform their work which is vital to the prosecution of the war.

Mr. Fear on behalf of the government offered to send a man here whose salary to the extent of $1,200 shall be paid by the government. He will be an emergency man, whose especial duty will be to assist the farmers in their problems which arise from war conditions. He will conduct a labor bureau, will assist farmers to procure seed; in fact, will lend a hand wherever possible. His office will be in the Bowen block, in the room occupied by the Lewis County Agricultural Society, the same being offered free of charge by said society. There will be certain expenses, such as transportation, 'phone calls, postage, etc., which will be paid by the Home Defense Committee. The committee voted to purchase a Ford car for this purpose and for other necessary work of the committee which requires a car, the need of a car having been felt for some time.

The work of the county man will depend largely upon the support he receives from the farmers. It is hoped he will be in Lowville and ready for business within ten days at the outside. Those who need his help and advise are urged to get in touch with him at the outset. Until his arrival, all communications may be addressed to the chairman or secretary of the Home Defense Committee.

Voluntary Enlistments; Draft Quota.

A meeting of the Lewis County Home Defense Committee was held Monday afternoon of this week. Several matters of importance were considered and acted upon. Dr. Spencer, of Croghan, reported for the committee consisting of himself and Mr. Cornwall, who attended the recent meetings of Home Defense Committees called by the Adjutant-General in Albany. This meeting was addressed by Adjutant-General Sherrill, the Governor Whitman and other State officials. Later dinner was served at the Hotel Ten Eyck by the Albany Chamber of Commerce.

One of the most important matters which was taken up was the credit to be given the various counties of the State on account of voluntary enlistments as against their draft quotas. It was brought out in the meeting that naval enlistments are not considered, the draft being applied only to the army. A. Karl Arthur, county historian, will forward the names and addresses to Albany, as best he can from the records available. This emphasizes the necessity of furnishing complete reports to Mr Arthur from every section of the county. His records are the only source from which this information can be obtained, and wherein his records are incomplete, for lack of names and addresses, Lewis county loses just so much of the credit to which it is entitled, and will necessarily be obliged to furnish a correspondingly larger number of draft or national army men. Let everyone bear this in mind, and let no one fail to register with Mr. Arthur immediately on enlistment, and, if the man himself fails to register, let his parents and friends look after the matter for him. Otherwise, men in the service will be lost to the organizations at home which are trying to do things for them to supply them with articles which they need.

Registration with the Home Defense will automatically transfer the names of men in service to the list of the local Red Cross, the National League for Women's Service and other war organizations. It will also be the means of furnishing to friends and relatives on application the information they desire concerning their own boys.

If this notice is heeded, there will be no excuse for complaints to the effect that some of the boys in service have received consideration which others have not received. It is the intention of the Home Defense Committee and all other patriotic organizations in Lewis county to treat all the men in service, both army and navy, exactly alike.

War Chest for Lewis County.

With the approach of the National Red Cross drive, which is scheduled to take place some time in May, there is considerable discussion concerning the advisability of putting on a war chest campaign in Lewis county, similar to those which have been put on in our neighboring counties. It is felt that little more effort would be required to raise a large fund of, say $50,000 or $75,000, than to raise the county's quota for the Red Cross which might be $10,000 to $15,000. The Red Cross drive in question is part of the campaign of the national organization to raise $100,000,000 for work in the military and civil populations of Europe, and has nothing to do with the local campaigns, such as was staged in Lewis county last December for local purposes. However, each locality will of course have to contribue in proportion to its population, etc. With a war chest once filled, all of the smaller demands would be taken care of automatically and one campaign would suffice for a long period of time, thereby saving much time and effort on the part of the workers in every community.

To this end, the Home Defense Committee voted to call a meeting of county representatives, including the members of the Board of Supervisors, all county officials, members of the Home Defense Committee and all interested citizens for some date early in May, i. e., after the Liberty Loan is out of the way. Meantime, it is hoped that the matter will be freely discussed and considered in various parts of the county, that those present at the meeting will be able to represent their localities and discuss the matter intelligently. In all likelihood, there will be present one or more speakers from counties where the war chest idea has been adopted. The Home Defense Committee invites suggestions and correspondence on the subject.

CARDINAL GIBBONS APPROVES.

Writes Taft in Indorsement of "Win the War" Convention.

Cardinal Gibbons, writing to ex-President Taft in regard to the convention on "Win the War for Permanent Peace," to be held in Philadelphia, May 16 to 18, expressed lively interest in the project.

"I do not hesitate to recommend to the clergy of the Catholic church active participation not only in the convention but in the work of the League to Enforce Peace, which under your leadership has developed such a sane programme accompanied by such high aims," he wrote. "Personally I feel that the inauguration of such a league as you plan is essential at this stage in the world's history. Otherwise we are likely to see retrogression instead of further progress in human affairs."
