'TOUGH GUY!'

Yes, in Wrestling Ring, but He Goes Home to Mother Every Day

Ed Don George, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion, travels around a lot but still manages to keep a date almost every day with his mother, who lives in the little town of North Java, in northern New York State.

Whether he is in Miami, Fla., Seattle, Wash., or any place in between, he calls his mother by telephone. Each morning at eleven o'clock she waits for his "visit," for that is the time agreed upon for his daily "homecoming."

"Tough guy" though he may be in the wrestling ring, to his mother in North Java he is just her boy Eddie, who comes back home every day for a chat—by telephone.

"About a year ago," says Ed, "mother was very ill. We were always the best of friends and I didn't want to be far from home. But mother insisted that I go wherever my wrestling interests took me. We compromised by my deciding to call her up every day. We've kept it up ever since."

If you could shout loud enough to be heard around the world, it would take more than thirty hours for your voice to circle the globe. By telephone—and such a test has actually been set up and used for two-way talk—speech travels the same route in about one-quarter of a second.

Commercial telephone service between Great Britain and Ceylon was recently inaugurated. Radio telephone, land lines and under water cable carry the voice signals over the long route.
