

KIDNEY DISEASES CURED

Many persons have suffered for years with kidney disease and tried every remedy they have heard of with little or no relief, and have almost given up hope. To these sufferers, we say, DO NOT DESPAIR—we offer you a grand opportunity to become well.

DR. JENNER'S KIDNEY PILLS

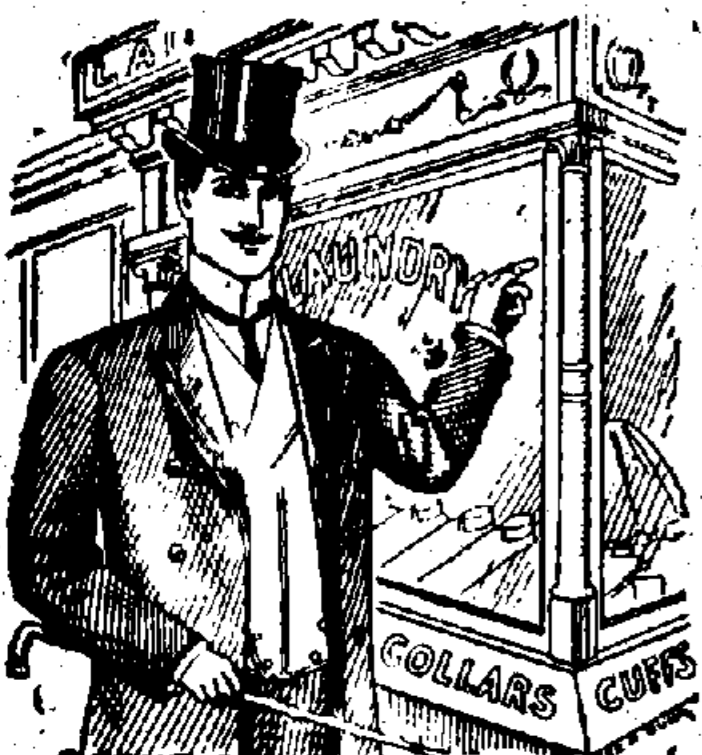

The only vegetable preparation made for kidney troubles. Dr. Jenner's Kidney Pills act directly on the weakened tissues and blood vessels of the kidneys and urinary organs, cleanse them of impurities, and rebuild and strengthen them, giving a feeling of renewed life and vitality that has been long mourned as lost.

DR. JENNER'S CURES

scalding urine, backache, inflammation of kidneys, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of flesh, sediment in urine, renal calculi of stones passed in urine, diabetes and all kidney troubles including BRIGHT'S DISEASE. Dr. Jenner's Kidney Pills are purely a vegetable compound, and do not act on the bowels in any way.

10, 25, 50 cents

Sold and recommended by W. H. ROSE

With the Correct Dresser

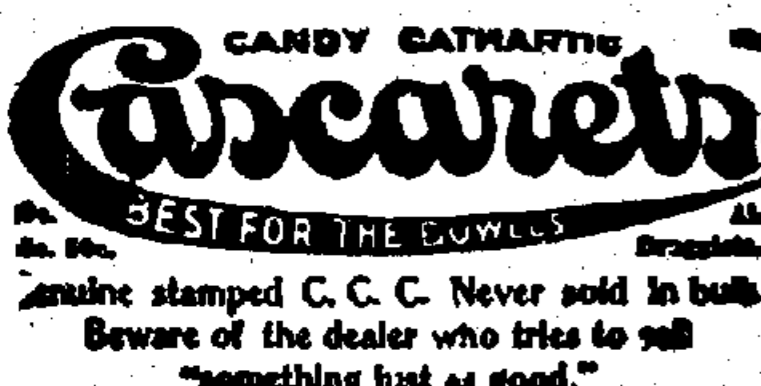

the laundryman is as important as the tailor. That is why the best dressed all send their linen to the Ogdensburg Steam Laundry. They have found by experience that the work is good—good in style good finish—perfect in every way. We make it and deliver. No charge for that.

Ogdensburg Steam Laundry.
A. M. BISHOP, Prop.

A SURE FOUNDATION

For a good meal or for good health, there is no surer foundation than good bread. It's just as cheap to have our best as to buy the ordinary quality. It makes you feel thankful every day.

B. P. HANDLEY

DIVINING ROD INDORSED

London Scientist Tells of Results of Recent Investigations.

CLAIMS THAT IT IS RELIABLE.

Sir Thomas L. Brunton is confident it determines presence of water beneath surface of the earth—interesting suggestion made concerning telepathy and wireless telegraphy.

Aristocratic "nerve finders" have conclusively established the genuineness of the divining rod, according to Sir Thomas Lauder Brunton, M. D., F. R. S., physician to St. Bartholomew's hospital in London, says the Chicago Record-Herald. In the course of his report of recent investigations, read before the Medico-Psychological association the other afternoon, Sir Thomas said:

"Two exquisitely sensitive ladies of the English aristocracy recently conducted experiments which demonstrate that the divining rod may be a perfectly reliable instrument for determining the presence of water beneath the surface of the earth. These experiments illustrate only simple natural phenomena and indicate the residence of marvelous qualities neither in the person using the witch hazel plant nor in the plant itself.

"When the divining rod dips toward the earth above a vein of water, it merely amplifies and renders visible the involuntary muscular action produced in the experimenter by the influence of water. Very many delicately organized persons feel the approach of a thunderstorm long before it arrives. Meteorological changes might easily be foretold by the movements of an instrument constructed and adjusted to record the muscular agitation resulting from the imminence of such changes. This would be a thoroughly scientific application of the principle of the divining rod.

"The camel of the desert unerringly detects the presence of water miles distant. Why may not the human organism involuntarily detect its presence a few feet away and impress the fact on the divining rod? The effect of the proximity of water on the sensory nerve fibers of a human being is no stranger than the cracking of chairs and tables under the influence of moisture."

Sir Thomas Brunton is not yet ready to commit himself on the subject, but he suggests that telepathy may yet be discovered in the form of intellectual wireless telegraphy. He thinks all the problem needs is a metaphysical Tesla or Marconi.

"Thought transference," said the lecturer, "is too common to go unstudied. An English mother, the wife of a respected physician, dreamed that her son, then serving in the Crimea, had been shot in the foot. Some weeks later an officer returned home and informed the mother that her boy had been shot in the right foot. 'You mistake,' said she; 'it was the left foot.' It developed that the woman was right and the officer wrong, although the knowledge of the mother came absolutely from a dream.

"History and experience are full of similar incidents which cannot all be put down to chance. It is not impossible that two minds are sometimes so mutually attuned that one acts as a sender and the other as a receiver, thus realizing the phenomenon of the telephone."

NEW TYPE OF SHELL.

How the Enemy's View of a Battle-Field Can Be Obscured.

A remarkable shell of a new type that has just been introduced into the German army is stated to be receiving the close attention of the British war office, says the London Mail. By the introduction of a cartridge composed of amorphous phosphorus into the ordinary charge of smokeless powder a thick white smoke is emitted when the shell bursts, thus showing the gunners even at the greatest distance how close the projectile has gone to the enemy's position.

By increasing the proportion of this chemical, an operation which does not lessen the bursting effect, it is held to be possible to deposit in front of the enemy's position a thick wall of white smoke which for many seconds will altogether obliterate his view of the field. The experiments in the German army have proved highly satisfactory, and it is said that the invention is almost sure to be adopted in England.

New York City's Big Election Bill.
The recent election in Greater New York cost the city $370,000, or $1.08 for every voter who was registered. The total vote cast was approximately 500,100, which, compared with a total registration of 616,000, shows a loss of 9 per cent.

The money appropriated by New York state in connection with the registration and election was $120,000, of which about $80,000 was spent by State Superintendent of Elections John McCullagh in the payment of 400 deputies employed for forty days at $5 a day.

A New Cotillon Figure.
A picturesque party for children was given the other evening. The cotillon lasted two hours and ended in a quaint figure that recalled the pastimes of ancient Rome. It was a farandole. All the dancers carried gold or silver lanterns in their hands, which had a most fairylike effect. Each girl had a bouquet of flowers to match the color of her dress, and the boys were crowned with roses.

AN OPEN LETTER

Addressed to Women by the Treasurer of the W.O.T.U. of Kansas City, Mrs. E. C. Smith.

"MY DEAR SISTERS:—I believe in advocating and upholding everything that will lift up and help women, and but little use appears all knowledge and learning if you have not the health to enjoy it.

"Having found by personal experience that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine of rare virtue, and having seen dozens of cures where my suffering sisters have been dragged back to life and usefulness from an untimely grave simply by the use of a few bottles of that Compound, I must proclaim its virtues, or I should not be doing my duty to suffering mothers and dragged-out housekeepers.

"Dear Sister, is your health poor, do you feel worn out and used up, especially do you have any of the troubles which beset our sex, take my advice; let the doctors alone, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it is better than any and all doctors, for it cures and they do not."—Mrs. E. C. SMITH, 1219 Oak St., Treasurer W. C. T. U., Kansas City, Mo.

MRS. E. C. SMITH.

What is left for the women of America after reading such a letter as the above, but to believe. Don't some of you who are sick and miserable feel how wicked you are to remain so, making life a burden for yourself and your friends when a cure is easily and inexpensively obtained? Don't you think it would pay to drop some of your old prejudices as Mrs. Smith says, and "Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is better than all the doctors for cures?" Surely, the experience of hundreds of thousands of women whom the Compound has cured should convince all women of the wisdom of taking the advice that Mrs. Smith offers in her letter above published.

Read What Mrs. Burnham says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Words fail to express how thankful I am to you for your advice, and I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick for three years with female weakness; I had dizzy spells, headache, backache, feet and hands were cold all the time, would get tired and faint very easy. I also had dropsy and was troubled with leucorrhoea. I suffered for two weeks before each menstrual period and my ovaries would swell very badly. I took lots of medicines from doctors, but received no benefit. To please my husband I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am now a well woman, and your Compound alone did it."—MRS. H. W. BURNHAM, Russell, Mich. (Jan. 31, 1901).

Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that these thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the great Woman's Remedy for Women's Ills.

Those women who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred thousand times, for they get what they want—a cure. Moral—Stick to the medicine that you know is Best. Write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, Mass., which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letters are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

A Gilt Edged Investment

The Dabney Oil Company of San Francisco, Cal.

25000 Shares

FOR SALE

At 60c Per Share

Reader, here is a bargain—one you should grasp before the price is advanced. Write for a prospectus at once. It will pay you.

Address

H. S. DAY, Special Agent,
Chateaugay, N. Y.

Denby Oil Co.,

49 Broadway, New York.

BRACING THE CABINET.

Brand New Suspenders Sent to Each Member.

A LONG FELT WANT SUPPLIED.

Entire Administration Council Presented With Second Pair of Braces by an Enterprising Outfitter. Formal Letters of Acceptance Received From Secretaries Hitchcock, Wilson, Long and Others.

How the cabinet members of the administration were completely equipped and "fitted out" each with brand new suspenders is a story worth the telling. That all classes and conditions of men might a tale unfold of unfulfilled ambitions that years and years slumbered secretly in their bosoms may pass as an assertion that challenges contradiction. The poor have their dreams of something better in life, and it seems the rich have theirs of unrealized aims and ungratified comforts. Yet it may, after all, rise to the position of a real downright revelation to be told that comparatively few men, no matter how exalted their station—if indeed any men, great or humble—go through life with more than one set of suspenders. This is the startling substance of the disclosure recently made in high official circles which led an enterprising maker of suspenders to send to the president and each cabinet officer specimens of his product for the purpose of relieving a strain obviously of more significance than a mere problem of expense. According to The Men's Outfitter, the whole episode had its origin in a story which appeared in several newspapers, as follows:

One evening after a cabinet dinner some time ago the conversation chanced to turn upon the youthful ambitions of the members. Each related his early plans for the future, and when Secretary Wilson's turn came the genial Iowa said: "My ambition has not yet been realized. I wanted to be worth a million dollars and have two good pairs of suspenders at the same time. As yet I have neither." The cabinet unofficially laughed at this frank confession, and Secretary Gage, after a minute, confessed that he had never simultaneously possessed two pairs of dependable suspenders. Secretary Long remarked that when he graduated from Harvard he had two pairs of new trousers, each with good new "galluses," but that the experience had never responded to an encore, while the now Justice McKenna said that, although he came from the Pacific slope, two pairs of "holdups" were unknown to him all in the same day or night. Others made similar confessions, and finally Secretary Bliss, the wealthiest man present, said, with a laugh: "This seems to be a strange coincidence. Last Saturday evening Mrs. Bliss came into my study and said, 'Papa, are you going out this evening?' I replied that I did not so intend and asked the reason of her question. 'Oh, nothing,' she replied, 'only if you are not Ed our son wants to use your only good suspenders!'"

This story drifted under the eyes of a firm of well known suspender manufacturers, who, inspired by patriotism and public spirit, promptly and generously relieved the situation by sending to President Roosevelt and each member of his cabinet two pairs of suspenders. That their act was appreciated is proved, the above mentioned paper says, by the receipt of the following acknowledgments:

Department of State,
Washington, Oct. 25, 1901.
Gentlemen—I have received your kind letter of the 22d of October, together with the newspaper article which accompanied it, and have read them both with much edification. Thanking you for the material as well as the moral support you have given me, I am, very truly yours,
JOHN HAY.

Navy Department,
Washington, Oct. 24, 1901.
My Dear Sirs—I thank you very much for your courtesy in putting me under the only suspense that is at once a comfort and a support. The suspender story "is so good that it reminds me of Josh Billings' tribute to the boundless knowledge of men who "know so many things that ain't so." With cordial regards, truly yours,
JOHN D. LONG.

Department of Agriculture,
Washington, Oct. 24, 1901.
Gentlemen—I have your interesting letter regarding suspenders. Stories of this kind lose nothing by traveling or repeated telling, but you have it substantially correct. I thank you for the gift of the suspenders and have no doubt they will meet all requirements. Very truly yours,
(Personal.)
JAMES WILSON, Secretary.

Department of the Interior,
Washington, Oct. 30, 1901.
Dear Sirs—I am directed by Secretary Hitchcock to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 22d inst. and also a box by express containing two pairs of suspenders, which the secretary will fully test in expectation that they will meet every requirement that can properly be demanded of them. The secretary wishes me to convey to you his thanks for your remembrance and accepts the same in the spirit tendered. Very truly yours,
W. SCOTT SMITH, Private Secretary.

P. S.—I am adding this postscript on my own responsibility and without the authorization of the secretary, but which I think will prove of interest to you. At a cabinet meeting at the White House on Friday, the 25th inst., one of the members in a humorous way mentioned the suspender subject by producing the clipping you sent him. This brought out the fact that all the cabinet had been the recipients of your generosity in the way of suspenders. Some of the members began joking Secretary Long, assuming the story as narrated in your clipping was literally true, and they had a great deal of fun before they got through with him. The occasion afforded much merriment and amusement to all the cabinet, as well as to President Roosevelt, and your suspenders for a time overshadowed national matters and affairs of state.

W. SCOTT SMITH, Private Secretary.
Office of the Postmaster General,
Washington, Oct. 25, 1901.
Gentlemen—I have to acknowledge your letter of the 22d inst., together with the package containing two pairs of your suspenders. They come under circumstances which forbid me to decline and render it not improper to accede to your wishes. While the accompanying story of the grave cabinet deliberation is probably apocryphal it doubtless represents the true state of the stock in hand of the members. I appreciate your courtesy, and, judging from a somewhat cursory inspection, the articles certainly equal any I have had on the subject and no less merit a long felt want. Very truly yours,
C. EMORY SMITH.

Replies acknowledging the receipt of the suspenders were also received from the rest of the members of the cabinet and from President Roosevelt.

Medicinal For Consumptives.
A medical man is urging the use of the motor car for consumptives, says the London Hospital. He states that he has observed a marked benefit from riding on a motor and recommends that the open air treatment in sanitariums.

The Three Graces

...OF...

Gas

Lighting COOKING HEATING

What other one agency have you in your home which brings perfection in any department as does Gas? It saves, too,

Time

Labor

.....AND.....

Trouble

The Gas Range
The Gas Radiator
The Mantle Burner

OGDENSBURG Gas Company

No. 2 Ford St.,
Ogdensburg, N. Y.