BRENNAN FIRM IN THE BELIEF THAT MRS. FARMER MURDERED HIS WIFE

Does Not Think Mr. Farmer, with Whom He Went to School, Was Associated with His Wife in the Brutal, Cruel Crime to Obtain the Property.

Watertown, April 29.—Late this afternoon all that is earthy of the late Sarah Brennan, wife of Patrick, who was so cruelly murdered Thursday was laid at rest in the village cemetery at Brownville little over half a mile from where the deed was committed. The remains were placed beside those of her daughter, Mamie, who died of consumption about seven years ago, and of whom she thought more than of herself. For years through sunshine and through storm she carried fresh flowers daily to the grave of her daughter. Much of her time since the daughter's death, when weather permitted was spent near the grave and no plot in the whole cemetery was in keeping with the Brennan lot. The funeral was the largest ever held in Brownville. The Presbyterian church was filled to overflowing by her many friends, sympathizers with Mr. Brennan and those who were there out of curiosity. Many were disappointed at not seeing the remains, those most vitally interested having previously decided that they should not be exposed to view. Rev. F. L. Crissey, pastor of the Presbyterian churches at Brownville and Dexter officiated. He did not refer to the deed.

While the funeral was in progress District Attorney Pitcher, Stenographer Cooke and others were busy gathering witnesses and taking their statements for use before the grand jury and later after an indictment is found, should one be found and there seems to be little doubt but that there will.

Scurrying about "Paddy Hill" yesterday afternoon and interviewing all of the neighbors of the Brennans and the Farmers the officials made an important discovery, one which was necessary to connect Farmer more closely with the deed. It will be remembered yesterday the papers published a statement from Mrs. Michael Doran, a sister of Farmer, to the effect that he was working around or near the Doran premises all day Thursday, the day of the murder. The discovery yesterday afternoon was in the nature of statements to the effect that no less than three times that day Farmer left the place where he was working and went to his home. Whether a confession has been or can be obtained from Mrs. Farmer stating that Farmer came home from his work and did the job, then went back, is not known. The officials are carefully guarding the confessions of Mrs. Farmer, only referring to them in a general way, saying that she said her husband struck Mrs. Brennan with an ax and then placed her in the trunk, that she (Mrs. Brennan) stood looking out at neighbors across the road when the blow was struck. The officials who made a careful examination of the wounds and cuts on Mrs. Brennan's head feel confident that the blow was struck by Mrs. Farmer but are not loath to believe Farmer was away when the deed was done or soon afterward. They are of the opinion that he had a hand in placing her in the trunk and assisted in secreting the body.

Mrs. Farmer has told a number of stories, in fact so many that one of the officials who heard her last confession which differed materially from the other two, it is said, told her that she was a liar and those who observed say that she took on an expression on her face that would indicate that she agreed that was so. This confession was made to Sheriff Bellinger first and to another officer later. In it she told how her husband had struck the fatal blow and then put her in the trunk and that she did not have any hand in the deed whatever and never placed her hands on Mrs. Brennan after she was killed.

The first confession made by Mrs. Farmer is believed to be the correct one that she did the job, for the further the investigation progresses the more evidence is obtained which makes it seem the more probable that the deed was done as Mrs. Farmer at that time said it was.

DETECTIVES STARTED OUT

Six detectives were added to the payrolls yesterday of the New York Telephone and Telegraph company for the purpose of catching the parties who have been robbing automatic pay station coin boxes between Watertown and Utica. The detectives left Utica yesterday and are now supposed to be working at various points along the R. W. & O. division. The robbing of pay stations has been going on for some weeks past and while the amount taken from each coin box does not amount to over $7 the total reaches nearly $2,000. Employees of the company have had electrical attachments connected with the cash drawers, so that the second the tampering began a gong would sound the alarm in another part of the building. This scheme worked in one or two instances and the robbers are now serving time in the Jamesville penitentiary.

It is said that there was never a game invented but that couldn't be beaten and this adage is truly applicable in this case. It was discovered that the wiring connected to the cash drawers was cut before the box was tampered with. This made it easy sailing for the thieves. Most of the robberies have been committed in public places, such as depots and hotels.

Telephone officials think that the robberies are being committed by men formerly in the employ of the company and that the present labor conditions have more or less to do with the situation.

ELKS PAY TRIBUTE TO RETIRING RULER

Pleasant Surprise Sprung and Banquet Served at Preserve Last Night.

Under the guidance of Dr. John H. O'Hagan, Ogdensburg Lodge of Elks passed through its most successful period in points of membership, prosperity and achievements during the past two years which marked his term of office as exalted ruler. For the purpose therefore of displaying full appreciation of his efforts on behalf of the organization a banquet was quietly arranged in his honor and when the former head of the Lodge was invited to the Preserve last night on a pretext of signing some papers the place was in total darkness and the guest of honor was allowed to turn on the lights, which to his astonishment revealed a big gathering of the Elks comfortably seated about prettily arranged tables. The orchestra at once struck up appropriate selections of greeting during which the victim of the conspiracy was escorted to the seat of honor.

Chefs under the direction of Watson W. Tindal and Arthur W. Tucker had been busy for several hours previous in the Preserve kitchen and the lively waiters were soon engaged in serving the several courses which comprised an elaborate menu.

Following the dinner City Attorney Daniel W. Mulligan called the gathering to order and in words of commendation referred to the growth of the Lodge and to Dr. O'Hagan's active connection with every feature of the work. The orchestra followed with selections, and vocal numbers were contributed by Frank Nelson, Herbert Watt, Joseph Conaty, James T. Murphy, Frank Burke and others.

In response to toasts Past Exalted Ruler Lytle, Hon. George Hall, Exalted Ruler Harris and several other officers and members of the organization expressed their approval of the reign of the guest and added their compliments. In response Dr. O'Hagan expressed his surprise at the unexpected honors so generously showered upon him, thanked the members for their words of appreciation and modestly attributed to the energy of his fellow officers and the loyalty and encouraging spirit, and cooperation of the body of members all successes scored during his term.

The session, which was a most enjoyable one in every respect, was arranged by a committee comprising James M. Meehan and Ralph J. Gedhaw. The musical hit of the evening was the orchestra selection, "Farewell Killarney."

County Judgeship.

Canton April 29.—It now looks as if Gov. Hughes would not appoint a county judge to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Ledyard P. Hale, at least until the voters of the county have had a chance to determine upon a man for the position. It would seem as if this was a good idea. There is no necessity for haste in the matter. The county has a special county judge who can attend to all the duties of the office during the few months that may elapse between now and the time of holding another county convention which will be made necessary to fill the vacancy.

Something to look forward to

Tax Collector a Fugitive.

Philadelphia, April 29.—Lewis J. Chester, tax collector of Glenolden, Delaware county, near here, it was learned, is a fugitive from justice, having, it is alleged, embezzled about $10,000 of the county and school funds. The alleged defalcation became known through a letter written by Chester to his wife in which he stated that he had gone to parts unknown to avoid arrest and intimating that if he was captured he would commit suicide. Chester was elected tax collector in 1903. A warrant has been issued for his arrest.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 29.—W. A. Abel, a Syracuse business man, 61 years old, was killed by an explosion of dynamite at Cazenovia. He was on a visit to his brother and had suggested the removal of a stump in the yard by the use of dynamite. He placed a charge in the stump and when it did not explode he went to investigate. While leaning over the battery the charge went off, throwing him into the air. He was badly mangled. Death was instantaneous.

In the presence of a large number of their immediate relatives and friends Miss Zenith G. Wood, daughter of Mrs. Loreta Wood, State street, was married at 6 o'clock yesterday morning to Harry J. Ward. The ceremony took place at St. Mary's cathedral where Nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Father J. L. Cole, who also performed the marriage ceremony. The bride was assisted by her cousin, Miss Florence Merrill and James M. Meehan was best man. The bride wore a pretty traveling suit of blue. The bridesmaid was also attired in blue, with hat to match. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother. After which Mr. and Mrs. Ward left on a honeymoon trip amid the best wishes of their large circle of admiring friends. The bride is an accomplished young lady, a graduate of St. Mary's academy and a musician of note. Mr. Ward has been associated with the Ogdensburg branch of Armour & Co., as a traveling representative for several years and is admired and highly esteemed by his many acquaintances, both in the city and through his territory.

REV. CULP GOES TO WILLIAMSPORT

Pastor of Watertown Church Has Been Asked to Tender His Resignation.

Watertown, April 29.—Rev. Sylvester B. Culp, who recently resigned as pastor of the Arlington Street Church of Christ after being at loggerheads with certain members of his flock for several months, will leave Watertown Friday morning with bag and baggage checked for Williamsport, Pa., where he says he has a charge to fill in a church of the same denomination as his is leaving.

The trouble between Mr. Culp and some of his people is of long duration, dating back, it is said, to the time of his marriage. When Mr. Culp came to Watertown he was single. Soon after it was known he contemplated marriage, out for a time the exact identity of the bride was uncertain. Rumor has it that a certain willing one in the church experienced pangs of disappointment when the minister finally selected his life mate and led her to the altar, and the row started.

It brewed merrily on month after month until a few weeks ago, when the church board by a majority vote decided to ask for Mr. Culp's resignation. They did. He refused to deliver the document and continued to serve the house divided against itself, hoping perhaps the breach might close. It appears, however, that it wasn't that kind of a breach. Finally, a few Sundays ago, Mr. Culp went out of the city. On his return he announced that he had received a call to a church in the "middle west." The name of the place he has firmly refused to divulge, saying whenever approached on the subject that he would furnish his future address to anxious friends on the eve of his departure.

Tomorrow night a farewell reception will be given at the church by some of the members in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Culp. It is at that function his friends expect to hear the name of his new home.
