☞ We copy the following from the Newark Daily Advertiser, one of the best papers in the country:

The Forest Trial has at last ended, and the Judge is relieved, the Jury are relieved, and the public are relieved, from the monsoons daily inflation. What has been gained by it? The learned Judge, who, we think, presided over the proceedings with strict impartiality and eminent ability, gets nothing, but the trouble of sitting five hours a day for forty-one mortal days, to determine which, of two criminal or imprudent persons, neither of them of sufficient importance to occupy the time of so many people for more than a single day, to determine which of these two people is the most to blame.—The Jury got a shilling apiece for 41 days' work. If justice were dearer, trials would be shorter, and juries gainers. And the witnesses, what do they get? Some of them, we believe, half a dollar a day; others are paid, nobody can tell how much—in some cases it has been proved according to their value. In the present instance, no disclosures have been made; but the public can see without a special revelation, that however well they have been paid, some of them have lost that good name, if they ever had it, which is better than rubies, and will outweigh whatever they have taken in exchange.

There is no need of asking, whether the counsel are the gainers. Of that, they probably have obtained enough to quiet an itching palm; but report is loud, that one of them must content himself with his fee, since little reputation has been added to the old stock. Two questions remain to be asked, but they are the most vital of the whole. One is, what have the parties got? Neither have obtained any thing at all to counterbalance the losses they have sustained. The man has suffered a Waterloo defeat. He has lost his property; he has lost his character; and nothing but a personal regeneration, not to be expected, we suppose, in that quarter, can restore him to the favor of a just and moral community.—What a fall from his position, five and twenty years ago! But we will not moralize.—What has the lady obtained? Freedom to try again the luck of marriage, and the enjoyment, whether she does or not, of the handsome annuity of three thousand dollars. Worth fighting for you will say, Ah! but at what a cost? Of delicacy at any rate; and also at the cost of a reputation for spotless purity of thought and act among thousands, who have read the trial, and thousands who never have, nor will. Much personal circumspection, and the countenance of the virtuous of her sex, may restore her to a certain position in respectable society; but never to that perfect confidence which yields itself to that integrity, which there has never been reason to suspect.—The flower, that has been only impurely breathed upon, has lost something of its freshness.

The last important inquiry is, what has the public gained by all this wearisome controversy? The question must be reversed—what has it lost? What has it not been exposed to lose by the vile particulars which have been forced into every dwelling far and near? If there is any power in the press for good and evil, as it is said there is, then a mischief of great enormity has been done to many families and individuals. A mighty and flagrant wrong has been inflicted, on the young, particularly of both sexes; not the less deep and real, because the poison has injected into the soul, there to prompt the direct wish and stimulate to the forbidden indulgence. And this trial will not infuse a poison, but apply the information of adepts how artfully it may be administered to corrupt with the greatest success. The whole transaction, to sum up, is an almost unmitigated loss and damage of serious magnitude to the entire community who were not already tainted with corruption.

Aid to Kossuth.

The Legislature of Ohio has responded to Kossuth's appeal, in the subjoined resolutions, which were adopted by both branches:

Resolved, That the war in which Hungary was lately seemingly overcome, was a struggle in behalf of the great principles which underlie the structure of our own Government, vindicated by the bloody battles of eight years; and that we cannot be indifferent to their fate, whatever be the arena in which the struggle for their vitality goes on.

Resolved, That an attack in any form upon them is impliedly an attack upon us; an armed intervention against them is in effect an [illegible] of these principles is a most dangerous weakening of our own influence and power; and that all such combinations of kings against people should be regarded by us now as they were in 1776, and so far as circumstances will admit the parallel, should and will be so.

Resolved, That we are proud to recognize in Louis Kossuth, the constitutional Governor of Hungary, the heroic personification of those great principles; and that as such, and in token and pledge of our profound sympathy with him, and the high cause he so greatly respects, we tender him, in behalf of two million of freemen, a hearty welcome to the capitol of the State of Ohio.

☞ Mr. Webb, of the Evening Journal, in his last letter from Paris, has the following paragraph:

Mr. Bryan, of Philadelphia, a gentleman of literary tastes and a connoisseur in painting, who has resided in Paris twenty years, has a large collection of rare and valuable pictures, the works of ancient and modern Artists. I dined with him on Sunday, and while looking through his Gallery discovered a painting which possesses great historical interest. This is a View of Genesee Falls, painted by the brother of Louis Phillippe in 1795, when those illustrious Exiles were on their way through the wilderness to Niagara Falls. The view was taken from the northeast side of the river, (below the Falls) about opposite what used to be Alcotts Cotton Factory, where so many of us stood to witness the fatal leap of "Sam Patch." There seem to have been four persons in the party, and while the Artist was engaged with his pencil his companions were engaged in getting ready a collation on a blanket under a tree. After the overthrow of Louis Phillippe, this, among other pictures belonging to the King, was sold. Mr. Bryan, knowing its value as an American gem, purchased it. But this is not all. Mr. Bryan intends to present it to the city of Rochester. This is certainly its appropriate destination. And there it will be both appreciated and cherished.

Kossuth's Programme on Travel.—The Washington correspondent of the Boston Atlas, says that he is informed, on the best authority, that Kossuth, after visiting Cincinnati, will proceed to St. Louis, and from thence to New Orleans, stopping at the important immediate points. He will then, in turn, visit Mobile, Savannah, and Charleston. Thence he will proceed by water to New York, and ascend the Hudson to Albany. From there again westward, he will go to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, and by way of the Lake, Ogdensburg and Vermont, will repair to Boston, where he will remain until he embarks for Europe. Such is at present his contemplated route, though circumstances may occur to change or modify it. He hopes to be able in Boston in March or April, though the exact time is of course uncertain, and he may be prevented altogether, by movements in Europe rendering his earlier departure necessary.

The Daily Times.

Oswego, Friday, Jan. 30, 1852.

But, adds the writer, "strong drink was among the offerings directed to be made to the Lord." Perhaps we had better not answer this until we are told when and where.—Journal.

We had not intended to make any further reply to the singularly astute writers, who have lately blown their "penny whistles" in the Journal, for the reason that our position is not understood by them. They see nothing, and embrace nothing but extreme, impracticable and visionary theories, and having utterly failed to knock away a single prop of our argument, they have no claim on us to further notice. Yet as the truth of a single statement of ours is brought into question in the above extract, we beg to refer the writer to the book of Numbers, chapter 28th, verse 7th, where he will read as follows: "And the drink-offering thereof shall be the fourth part of a hin for the one lamb: in the holy place shalt thou cause the strong wine to be poured unto the Lord for a drink-offering."

As for the "where," the command was given at Mount Sinai; as for the "when," the practice commenced there, and was observed throughout the whole Jewish ecclesiastical polity. "Strong drink" was not called in those days by the names now in use. The wine used in the ordinary offerings was of a different quality from the "strong wine" here mentioned. French brandy is made from the grape, and this "strong wine," equal to it in strength, was made from the grape also.

Doings of the Common Council.

At the meeting of the Council on Wednesday evening, the Committee to whom was referred the subject of the East Harbor improvement, made a report recommending an extension of the powers of the Committee, to grant durable leases or sell, as they may deem most conducive to the interest of the city. The report having been read, the following resolutions were offered.

Resolved, That the committee to receive proposals for the letting and improvement of the land under water, in the harbor, in the 2d ward, be authorized and directed to solicit proposals to lease the property in sections, or entire, for a longer period than 20 years, or perpetually, or to convey the same absolutely, in their discretion, as shall seem best adapted to promote the interests of the city, and secure the largest income that can be derived therefrom; and that the plans of improvement thereof, except the outer pier and principal basin, be left to the discretion of the lessees or purchasers, in case the Com. shall deem it most advantageous to the City. The Committee may also, in their discretion, extend the time for the reception of propositions.

Resolved, That so much of the resolution passed at the last meeting of the Council as conflicts with the above, be rescinded.

The report and resolutions, after debate were adopted by the following vote: Ayes Weeks, Child and Sumner, Nayes Wilcox and Mead.

Dull Times in Oswego.—The Oswego Journal says that the population of that city has diminished one-third since the close of navigation. The most complete stagnation pervades almost every department of business [illegible] lake is the great source of the life of Oswego—and that happens to be ice-fettered just now.—Utica Herald.

We wish the Herald, Albany Atlas, and other papers throughout the State, who have given currency to the above statement, would say that it has no foundation in fact. The story was started by the editor of the Oswego Journal, who knows no more of what is going on about him than the man in the moon, during a total eclipse. The story is all gammon. The business of Oswego is no worse than it has been any winter for the last ten years, except for a few days while the thermometer was diving below zero.—We cannot imagine what motive any citizen of Oswego could have for giving currency to such an untrue and injurious statement.

Our population cannot be decreasing when there is scarce an untenanted house to be found in the city. On the contrary, our population is increasing.

The Poor Law.—Mr. Mayor Beardsley's leader in the Palladium of this morning in defence of the proposed poor law, which he makes the occasion, as usual with him, for assailing his predecessors in the management of the city government, we shall take an early occasion to examine. The Mayor has grown even upon his exaggerated figures made in his message upon his advent into office. We will be able to show that many of his facts are utterly unfounded.

☞ Harper's New Monthly Magazine, for February, has been received by Mr. Adriance. If it were possible, this seems to be the best number yet issued. The illustrations of the "Public Life of Benjamin Franklin"; also the illustrations accompanying the history of Napoleon, are worth more than the price of this number. The contents are varied and interesting. The magazine sho'd find its way into the hands of all classes of readers. The ability displayed in its pages has already secured to it the largest circulation of any publication in this country, not excepting the reprint of the "Penny Magazine." Each number contains 144 octavo pages of closely printed matter. The monthly fashion plates which appear in this magazine are of a superior order. It is sold for 25 cts a number.

Executions.—To-day has been appointed for the execution of Lawrence Reilly, in Brooklyn, convicted of the murder of his wife and mother-in-law. It is said that since the sentence of the law was passed he has prepared himself for execution with calmness and resignation. His only desire is that the execution may be conducted with privacy, a desire which is to be hoped will be complied with, out of respect for the request of the unfortunate man himself, and to discountenance a morbid curiosity.

Otto Grunzing is also to be executed today, in New York, unless he should be further respited. Of this, however, there is but the slightest probability.

At Buffalo, Hiram Knickerbocker will be hung to-day.

It is rumored that an entire change in the naval uniform is to be made very shortly.

Local and other Items.

The Lecture last evening.—Franklin Hall was filled last evening with the elite of the city to hear Mr. Saxe's poem on "Yankee Land." It was a splendid performance, glowing with elevated sentiment, and sparkling wit and humor. The brief notice we copied yesterday of the same performance at Rochester, was drawn with remarkable fidelity and justice, as all who heard Mr. Saxe last evening will bear evidence. Nothing of the kind has ever been received with more satisfaction and applause in this city.

☞ The Common Council of Utica have ordered a special election on the 11th of February to decide upon the question of raising $2000 for the expense of the next annual State Fair, which is to be held in that city.

☞ We are indebted to R. U. Sherman, Esq. Clerk of the Assembly for an alphabetical list of the Members and Officers of the two Houses of the Legislature, very conveniently arranged for reference.

☞ Orders have been received at Fort Smith for the removal of the Headquarters of the 7th Military District, as well as of the Headquarters of the 7th United States Infantry, from that place to Fort Gibson.

☞ It is estimated that from ten to fifteen millions of feet of pine lumber, in the log, has passed down the Mississippi river the present season, from above the Falls of St. Anthony.

☞ "Zero" has contributed $20 to the "Female Assistance Society" of New York. The first good deed we ever heard of that cold-hearted individual's perpetrating! As he is responsible for much of the misery the poor suffer in winter, we are glad to find that he is not always insensible to a thaw.

Prophetic.—When you see a big woman put her hands upon her hips and, looking very black, intimate to a person that she is going to give him "a piece of her mind," the chances are, she will not only give it to him, but likewise break the peace.

☞ In Hungary, which contains a native population of 7,659,161 souls, there are at this present moment 145,113 more widows than bereaved husbands—one sad consequence of war!

☞ At the close of the Forrest Divorce case, and just before the final adjournment of the Court, Judge Oakley, with much earnestness, and no doubt under the influence of intense emotion, directed the clerk to pay the jurymen their shilling! 'Poor fellows! they surely earned it! Thirty-three days of patient misery for one shilling each!

☞ Two Clevelanders, and fourteen others purchased bogus passage tickets for California from a brace of swindlers in New York, and only discovered their mistake when their tickets were called for, a few miles out from New York. They were sent back in the pilot boat and had one of the swindlers arrested.

Lake Superior.—The water level in Lake Superior is higher this winter than it has been for a long period. At the mouth of Ontonagon river it is sweeping over the marks of its ancient boundaries, and uprooting trees of 50 or 80 years growth. It will [illegible] flood from one lake to the other, until it passes into the St. Lawrence.

They are beginning to take fresh shad at Savanah.

☞ The Syracuse Star is urging the importance of establishing manufactories in that city. It says coal can be procured there at $3 per ton when the Syracuse and Binghamton road is completed, and adds by way of argument:

The city of Albany since the introduction of coal at $4 per ton, has more than quintupled her manufactures. Steam engines of every dimension, constantly at work, are to be seen in every quarter of the city. The product of manufacturing industry, by steam power, in Albany, exceeds $2,000,000 per annum. By far the largest portion of this product, passes through the city of Syracuse on its way to the West.

☞ The Palladium, of this morning, is out in a long article against the Maine Liquor Law. The following is the closing paragraph

We say this as a friend of temperance—as one who would make as great sacrifices to improve the public morals—to promote virtue and destroy vice—as any other individual. Though we have devoted a large share of our life to politics, we have given the subject of temperance some thought, and long since came to the conclusion that if mankind were not reformed by Government, the thing would not soon be accomplished.

Warlike preparations in England.—The following paragraphs are extracted from the London Shipping Gazette of the 9th inst. received by the steamer America:

"From information which has reached us we have reason to think that the Admiralty anticipate having to increase our naval force. This would imply that the foreign relations of the country are not in that satisfactory state which is to be desired. Indeed active preparations are in progress for the protection of the country.

From Woolwich, Jan. 8, it is stated that the Duke of Wellington has been in almost daily communication with Sir J. F. Burgoyne, inspector general of fortifications, and their deliberations have, it is said, been directed to the best means of protecting the metropolis in case of an invasion! Several military camps are likely to be formed round London. Orders have been given to place Sheerness in a proper state of defence, to have her supplies of ammunition and warlike stores in readiness at that port. It is also stated that the line regiments will have an addition of 10,000 made to them over the number in the estimates of last year."

The Mormons.—A correspondent of the Cleveland Democrat, writing from St. Joseph, Mo., November 23d, says of the Mormons:

We expect a heavy emigration to leave this country next spring for Oregon and California. Many families have already arrived to winter here. The head of the Mormon Church has ordered the Saints in this country to assemble at Salt Lake by next year. There are at Kanesville, Iowa, on the Missouri, near twenty-five hundred, under President Orson Hyde. You will remember him; he used to be a Campbelite preacher in Lorain county. He is a remarkable man, and as much like Martin Van Buren in looks as he imitates him in wire working. None can excel him in suavity and politeness.—Railing with an iron sceptre, he is at once loved and feared. He is making a fortune as proprietor of a newspaper.

Syracuse and Binghamton Railroad.

We continue our list of subscribers to the stock of this road, in this city, with additions. The Committee for obtaining subscriptions are discharging their duty nobly, and have met with a good degree of success, showing that our citizens begin to appreciate the importance of the construction of this road, to Oswego. We learn from a member of the Committee that over $86,000 had been subscribed in this city down to last evening:

The New York Crystal Palace.—We understand that the Common Council have granted to Mr. Riddle and his associates the use of Reservoy Square, about 400 feet square, for the erection of a Crystal Palace, in which to make their contemplated exhibition of the Industry of all Nations. They have also appropriated funds for flagging the square, and to sustain a complete constabulary force during the period of the exhibition. The lease runs for five years, at the annual rent of one dollar a year.—Evn. Post.

A Chance for Conundrum Makers.—Prof. Anderson, of New York, has announced his intention of giving two prizes—one of $400 to a lady, and another of $250 to a gentleman—for the two best original conundrums which may be sent, with name and address in full, to his manager, J. H. Wilton, at Jollie's, 300 Broadway, on or before Feb. 2d. The subject to be confined as much as possible to the topics of the day. The various conundrums offered will be read at Metropolitan Hall, Feb. 6th, and the result determined by a jury of thirteen, selected from and by the audience.

The Forrest Case Again.

This morning Mr. Van Buren appeared in the Superior Court, before Chief Justice Oakley, and moved for an order, of which the following is a copy:—

"Let all proceedings on the part of the plaintiff be stayed—days, to enable the defendant to make out a case or bill of exceptions upon the plaintiff within that time: let the entry of judgement and further proceedings in this case, on the part of the plaintiff, except to propose an amendment to such case or bill of exceptions, be stayed for a new trial; and it is further ordered that the motion for such a new trial be first heard at the General Term of this court."

A motion was also made by Mr. O'Conor: that judgement be given upon the verdict dissolving the marriage contract; that the court pass upon the amount of alimony, and fix the same at three thousand dollars per year; and that a proper allowance be made to the plaintiff for the expenses of the application, to be settled by the judge who tried the action, and included in the taxation of the costs.

Argument was heard in support of both motions, but as the court considered that the further argument of counsel would consume more time than it had at present at its disposal, the matter was adjourned to Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

☞ The steamer "Chief Justice" drifted into shoal water on the outside of the island yesterday about noon, while endeavoring to land her passengers as on the previous day near Privat's, and remained aground for several hours. Towards nightfall she was fortunately got off, but whether any damage was suffered we have not as yet heard. The passengers, as we were informed, were obliged to return on board, the attempt to land in face of the masses of ice piled on the beach, with a heavy sea running, being too dangerous to persist in.—Toronto Patriot of Jan. 23.

☞ We regret to learn that Edward C. Delavan, Esq., is confined to his room at the Delevan House, in consequence of a fall which he received while passing down State Street, about a week since. This untoward occurrence prevented him from participating in the Temperance Conventions and procession.—State Register.

TELEGRAPH.

BY THE MORSE LINE.

Execution of Hiram Knickerbocker.

Buffalo, Jan. 30.—This unfortunate man was executed at about 12 o'clock, in the yard of the County Prison. From 50 to 100 persons were present. The arrangements for the execution were all admirably made by Sheriff Farnham. On the scaffold, he protested his innocence of the murder of Herkimer by intent, and said if the Governor knew the circumstances he would have pardoned him. After the drop fell, he struggled for a few minutes, and all of life with him was over. He made some confessions to Rev. Mr. Robie, which will be published in the Express to-morrow morning.

Two weeks later from California.

New York, Jan. 30.—The Prometheus brings 355 passengers, $63,000 in gold dust on freight, and $900,000 in the hands of passengers.

The Prometheus left San Juan on the 15th at which time the most friendly feeling existed between the officers of the ships of both countries, and on the 16th salutes were exchanged on the commanders visiting each others ships.

Com. Parker was complimented by Capt. Robinson on the Arogan by hoisting the American ensign at the main during the salute. It was returned by the Albany with the English ensign at her main.

Com. Parker reports thrt the subject of the Musquito question with the Governments of the United States and Great Britain, was in process of adjustment, and that the whole would be settled to the satisfaction of all parties
