Oswego Commercial Times.

MONDAY EVENING, JAN. 17, 1859.

THE NEWS.

—An epidemic among still-fed hogs near Raritan, N. J., takes off upward of 100 daily.

—A movement is in progress to erect a monument to Dr. Kane in the city of New York.

—The Buffalo Commercial says that an extensive revival is now progressing among the evangelical churches of that city.

—A movement has been made in the Massachusetts Legislature to declare vacant the place of Senator Sumner.

—Senator Douglas' friends in Washington have subscribed two thousand dollars to give the champion a big feed.

—At Northfield, Vt., last Tuesday morning, the thermometer marked 42 below zero! At Montpelier, the mercury congealed

—A Mormon advertisement reads as follows: "To be let, rooms for two gentlemen and four wives, or rooms for a gentleman and six wives."

—The Hartford Daily Times says Seymour, the absconding Treasurer of the Hartford Savings Bank, is residing in the house of Dr. Mears, in Monterey, Mexico.

—Perhaps Mr. Hood, of St. Louis, was happy on Saturday when he was told that his wife presented him three brand-new Hoods, and was "as well as could be expected."

—Through the intervention of Messrs. Arnold, (N. J.) and McKibben, (Cal.) and an apology from Mr. English, the difficulty between the latter and Montgomery has been harmonized.

—At Liverpool, England, last month, August Willetto, a surgeon was found guilty of murder, in causing the death of a female by an attempt to procure an abortion, and was sentenced to be hung.

—There is a statement in a Paris letter to the National Intelligencer, that a Company has been organized, at the wish of the Emperor Napoleon, to purchase the Collins steamers and run them between France and New York.

—General John Coulduck Calhoun, formerly border ruffian dictator in Kansas, is now a citizen of Nebraska City, in Nebraska Territory. The Territory over which he once tyranized is probably too hot for him.

—T. B. Bingham, of Bridgeport, is on trial charged with having mixed arsenic with his wife's medicine and food in sundry times, and finally to have been detected by means of an apple, into which he had infused a large amount. That apple!

—Hon. Israel Washburn, of Maine, made a speech on the past and future of the Republican Party, last Wednesday, which created a marked sensation in the House of Representatives. It is characterized by great ability and holds the Republican standard high above all dickering and compromising and diluting of principle. We are gratified to know that it is to have a wide circulation.

—The St. Paul Minnesotian learns that the Fort Snelling speculators have failed to pay up the second instalment of $50,000 due to Government, on the purchase of Fort Snelling and its Reserve; and that instructions have been received there to foreclose on their obligations and resume Government possession of the premises. It's a long lane that has no turning; and the speculators are likely to be tripped up at last.

—Three months ago the peasants of the Government of Kovno, Russia, took in their churches, a solemn pledge that they would drink no more brandy. They have kept this promise so well that the sale of brandy in the shops is but one twelfth of what it was, and it is now sold only on the principal routes. Many distilleries have been obliged to give up their business, at least for a time.

—We find in an English paper an account of the death of a father from grief.—His boy aged eight years, was accused and arrested on a charge of stealing a sovereign. Bail was refused and the lad was sent to prison. The father on parting with his child, took the matter so deeply to heart that he went home and never again looked up. A deep-seated melancholy took possession of him; he was obliged to give up work; and on the day his little boy was tried, the father breathed his last. The surgeon that attended him says that he died of a broken heart. The boy was discharged.

—The San Francisco Bulletin has an affecting and somewhat lengthy story about a dog, whose master became poor, and the indignities usually visited upon the man upon such occasions, were extended to the brute. The dog got no bones or bits of meat after the change of his master's circumstances, but was kicked literally as his owner was metaphorically. In despair the victim of adversity put his nose under water until he drowned. The Bulletin offers to make oath to the story.

—The Territorial Legislature of Mormondom was to convene at Fillmore City, 160 miles south of Salt Lake City, on the second Monday of December. All its members, but one, are Mormons, and he will probably be expelled from his seat. Among its earliest acts, it is anticipated, will be one expressly legalizing polygamy, which will of course be vetoed by the Governor. A question will then arise whether that veto is not final, the organic act of the Territory making no provision for passing bills over it; but on the contrary, requiring the Governor's approval of "all laws before they shall take effect."

Slave-Breeding in Turkey.

It is said that since the Russians have had no fleet in the Black Sea, the Turkish Government openly favors the Circassian slave trade, allowing the slaves to be landed on the northern shores of Asia Minor, where the local authorities furnish them with certificates that they are Turkish subjects; after which they are taken to some of the ports frequented by the French, Austrian and Turkish steamers, who cannot refuse to take passengers with personages en regle, and transport them wherever there may be a demand for them. While a correspondent—Mr. Tchihatchoff—was at Samsoun, Osman Pacha himself publicly purchased a young girl of Circassian merchants, provided with Turkish passports. Some ten miles from Amasia is the village of Kouton, which is inhabited entirely by Circassians, who make it a depot for their business.—They do not confine themselves to receiving and selling girls born in Circassia, but are quite ready to take Circassians of both sexes, not for sale, but for breeding purposes. These they couple, and give their offspring such physical and mental training as will best secure for the human article the highest prices known to the market. Some, of course, are trained for one purpose, some for another; and especial care is bestowed on those who seek a sale to the Sultan.

A Filibuster Joke.

The sailors of the filibuster schooner Susan deserted, before the vessel got out of the bay. There were none but landsmen on board, except the captain, and it is traditional at sea that it is not easy to convert a landsman into a sailor at short notice.

The seadogs have phrases of their own which are Greek to the others. To obviate [illegible], Capt. Marvy resorted to a novel and ingenious expedient. Every man on board, we suppose, knew how to play cards, and the captain, taking advantage of this skill, tied a card to each of the ropes of the vessel. The orders then ran somewhat in this fashion: "Haul on the ace of hearts." "Let go the king of diamonds." "Belay on the duce of spades!" &c. By this means the extemporized sailors soon got the hang of the ropes, and affairs went on smoothly.

"Felon Feast" at Oberlin.

A strange and significant scene, says the Cleveland Leader, for this enlightened and Christian age, and in our boasted free Republic, transpired at the peaceful and God-fearing and God-serving village of Oberlin, on the afternoon of Tuesday, the 11th of January, 1859. It was literally the "Feast of the Felons," for the thirty-seven good citizens of county, indicted by the Grand Jury of the United States Court of Northern Ohio under the Fugitive Slave Act, for the crime of a conscientious and faithful observance of the higher law of the Golden Rule sat down with their wives and a number of invited guests to a sumptuous repast at the Palmer House. It was, in the best sense, a good social dinner, followed by a real "feast of reason and flow of soul." The entertainment was given by the indicted citizens of Oberlin to their brethren in bonds.

FLOURISHING NURSERY.—One of the finest Nurseries in Central New York is located at Fayetteville, Onondaga County, and owned by J. B. CHAPMAN, Esq. Every tree and shrub which is worthy of being cultivated, is there "trained in the way it should go." The arrangement of every thing about the grounds is complete, and in summer it presents one of the finest views in that section. Trees are constantly kept in readiness for transplanting, of any desired age or size, and as thrifty and straight as the best. The arrangement of the "nursery grounds" is such as to produce the most vigorous and hardy plants. Every conceivable kind of strawberry, blackberry, raspberry &c., are grown in rich luxuriance. In short, this nursery is just what Onondaga and surrounding counties have long felt the need of. It has been several years in trailing, and it has arrived at that degree of completion which, it seems to us, our readers would do well to examine, as we feel confident it would be to the advantage of those desiring to purchase.

A Rumor Quashed.

The following from The Tribune of Saturday, effectually disposes of a rumor which the enemies of Mr. Greeley, and the victims of his fearless and honest pen wish, no doubt, was true:

"The press of the country seems to be considerably occupied with certain rumors respecting the conductors and proprietors of the Tribune, and with various speculations connected therewith. To be more precise, we will say that the principal point in these rumors is that Mr. H. Greeley contemplates leaving The Tribune and connecting himself with another journal. As some of our friends, and especially that most amiable of publications, The Albany Atlas and Argus, manifest some anxiety on the subject, we will relieve them by saying that the whole story, with its concomitants and corollaries is not only untrue, but absurd, and totally without foundation. We may add, that Mr. Greeley, who is now absent in the West, will probably retain his present controlling [illegible] in The Tribune as long as he continues to take part in human affairs."

Appraisal of Canal Damages.

Senator Patterson has introduced the following bill in the State, providing for the Appraisal of Canal damages:

1. Any three or more persons having a claim for Canal damages, upon ten days' notice to the Canal Commissioner in charge of the Division where such damage was sustained, may apply to the County Judge of the county in which the damages accrued, to appoint an appraiser of such damages. The County Judge on proof of due service of such notice, shall appoint some disinterested person of said county appraiser of such damage, who together with one appraiser to be selected by the said Commissioner and one to be selected by the applicants, shall constitute a Board to hear said claim or claims, and appraise said damages. If the said Commissioner shall neglect or refuse to make such appointment after ten days' notice in writing served upon him requesting him to make such appointment, the applicants may select both of said appraisers. The Board of Appraisers so appointed shall possess all the powers now possessed by the Canal Appraisers, and be subject to all the rules and regulations and restrictions applicable to Canal Appraisers.

The second section provides that such appraisals shall have the same force and effect as awards made by the present Board of Appraisers.

The persons so appointed are to take an oath to impartially appraise the damages in all cases submitted to them. The bill does not fix their pay.

To hide money from a lover, you must put it in his pocket, that would be the last place he would think of looking for such an article.

Sunscribers—To hear a young lady complain that she cannot keep herself warm these cold nights.

The African Roscius.

A correspondent of Le Nord, writing from St. Petersburgh, holds the following enthusiastic language on the negro Roscius, now playing in that city.

"The success of the negro actor, Ira Aldridge, has been wonderful. At his debut people were curious to see an Othello who neither needed crape nor pomade to blacken his face. Many expected tears of laughter rather than tears of emotion, when they learned Iago and Desdemona would reply to him in German. (The absence of an English troupe forced him to play with German actors.) Those who counted on this were strangely deceived. From his appearance on the stage, the African artist completely captivated his audience by his harmonious and resonant voice, and by a style full of simplicity, nature and dignity. For the first time we had seen a tragic hero talk and walk like common mortals, without declamation and without exaggerated gestures.—We forgot that we were in a theatre, and followed the drama as if it had been a real transaction.

The scene in the Third Act, when the sentiment of jealously is roused in the ferocious Moor, is the triumph of Aldridge. At the first words of the wily insinuation you see his eyes kindle; you feel the tears in his voice when he questions Iago, then the deep sobs which stifle it; and, finally, when he is persuaded that his wretchedness is complete, a cry of rage, or rather a roar like that of a wild beast, starts from his abdomen. I still seem to hear that cry; it chilled us with fear, and made every spectator shudder. Tears wet his cheeks; his mouth foamed, and his eyes flashed fire. I have never seen an artist identify himself so perfectly with the character which he represents. An actor told me that he saw him sob for some moments after his exit from the scene. Everybody was. Boileau was right in saying to actors: "Weep yourselves, if you would make others weep. Rachel, in the fourth act of Les Horaces, is the only artist who ever produced so great an effect. At the first representation the poor Desdemona was so horror-stricken at the terrible expression of the Moor, that she sprang from the bed and ran shrieking with fright.

In spite of his stony nature, Aldridge can contain himself to those scenes which require calmness and subdued passion. In Shylock, to see him trembling with fear and indignation before the tribunal which is endeavoring to force Christianity upon him, makes one of those impressions which are never effaced. The most severe critics had but one fault with him—that when speaking to characters at the back of the stage he has the bad habit of turning his back to the public. The director remonstrated with him about this, but it was of no avail.

Death of an English Lady.

The London correspondent of the New York Times says:

One of the most distinguished beauties of English society has been prematurely snatched away by death within the last few days. Lady Clementina Villiars, the second daughter of the Earl of Jersey, has been for several years the most admired and sought after of the daughters of the aristocracy. The greatest fortunes, and some of the greatest titles, in the United Kingdom have been at her feet; but, as is well known, she retained her inflexible resolution not to accept any of them. Her affections were said to have been easily won by a clergyman possessing but an inconsiderable benefice, and not likely, by his talents, to obtain a more prominent place in the church. Her worldly and fashionable parents refused their assent to such a match; and, unlike her sister, Lady Adela, who ten years ago eloped with Captain Tibbotson, she continued to reside with her parents and to accompany her mother in the incessant round of society in which the old lady lives. Those who observed her gradually attenuated form and slowly-fading beauty, as year after year she returned to the joyless haunts of aristocratic frivolty and fashion, could not but perceive that, however ce e might succeed in preserving the lineaments of loveliness, the spirit within was perishing of "Love's sweet want." The last time I stood near her was at a densely thronged assembly at one of those mansions in Piccadilly, famed for the brilliancy of its receptions. She was dressed en suite in bright blue, and wore upon the head, which was of exquisitely moulded form, a wreath of roses of the same color, placed perfectly horizontally, as you may sometimes see them worn by the Tyrolese peasants at their village festivals. But the gaity of girlhood had passed away, and the ambition of womanhood had not come; and it seemed to me as often as she paused, awaiting an opening in the sometimes impenetrable crowd, her eyes acquired the abstracted look, and her statute-like form the air of immobility which belongs rather to a state of trance than to that of active life. Her eldest sister was married some years ago to Prince Nicholas Esterhazy; she lived not very happily, it is said, for about two years, and then died after a short illness. And now another is added to the series of blighted hopes with which the haughty, selfish and worthless house of Jersey has been visited.

A NOBLE SENTIMENT.—Some true heart has given expression of its generous nature in the following beautiful, noble sentiment:

"Never desert a friend when enemies gather round him; when sickness falls on the heart—when the world is dark and cheerless is the time to try a true friend. They who turn from the scene of distress betray their hypocrasy, and prove that interest only moves them. If you have a friend who loves you and studies your interest and happiness, be sure to sustain him in adversity. Let him feel that his former kindness is appreciated, and that his love is not thrown away. Real fidelity may be rare, but it exists in the heart. Who has not seen and felt its power? They deny its worth who never loved a friend, or labored to make a friend happy."

Toleration of Color.

We select the following from Littell's Living age. It is too good to be lost:

"At the annual meeting of the British and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society, last Saturday, Lord Brougham related the following amusing anecdote: "Lord Lyndhurst gave me a short time since an anecdote of a gentleman who was connected with the litigue, and who on one occasion received an invitation to the house of a Cuban gentleman, a negro proprietor of a large estate, where he was received with the utmost hospitality and treated elegantly. He said that he was rather entertained when, after dinner was over, his colored host said that he was a man without any prejudice whatever, and that whenever he found a person honest, honorable, and respectable in every point of view, he held out the hand of fellowship to him, even though his color was as white as that table-cloth.

☞ An old sea captain used to say he didn't care how he dressed when at sea, "because nobody knew him;" and he didn't care how he dressed when at home, "because everybody knew him."

☞ "Did you ever know such a mechanical genius as my son?" said an old lady. "He has made a fiddle all out of his own head, and he had wood enough for another.

New York Legislature.

IN ASSEMBLY, Jan. 15.

Also, passed the bill to divide the County of Oswego into three School Commissioner Districts. [Third reading.]

☞ "Will you ever learn, my dear, the difference between real and exchangeable value?"

The question was put to a husband who had been lucky enough to be tied to a political economist in petticoats.

"O, yes, my dear I think I begin to see it."

"Indeed!" responded the lady.

"Yes," replied the husband. "For instance, my dear, I know your deep learning and all your other virtues—that's your real value. But I know, also, that none of my married friends would swap wives with me, that's your exchangeable value."

1859. POPULAR TRADE. 1859.

Ribbons and Millinery Goods.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!! RIBBONS!!!

TO MERCHANTS, MILLINERS, JOBBERS, DEALERS IN RIBBONS, MILLINERY GOODS, and CASH BUYERS IN ALL SECTIONS OF THE COUNTRY,

THE CASE RIBBON HOUSE,
116 CHAMBERS STREET, NEW YORK.
JOHN FARRELL.

Established 1852.

We have originated a new principle—a new era in the Ribbon trade. We make this business PLAIN, SIMPLE, AND STAPLE OF THAT OF BROWN MUSLINS.

WE SELL FOR CASH! WE BUY FOR CASH!

We are satisfied with 5 per cent. profit, and we defend that. Here all our goods sell at PLAIN FIGURES, so that man, woman and child "buy alike," and receive the same value for their money.

Our price list of Satin Ribbons, all colors, are

No. 1	12½ cts. per piece,	No. 4	25½ cts. per piece,
" 1½	15 " "	" 5	37½ " "
" 2	18¾ " "	" 6	50 " "
" 3	25 " "	" 7	62½ " "
" 3½	31¼ " "	" 12	1 00 " "

No. 16 $1.87½ per piece.

WE OFFER FANCY RIBBONS "ALL STYLES," "ALL COLORS," "ALL QUALITIES," "ALL PRICES DEFYING COMPETITION, AND FOR CASH ONLY.

Our Establishment is the centre of Attraction for wholesale buyers, and we defy "Cheap Rooms" and "Cheap Prices" to undersell us.

"Low Values," for Cash.

ROUCHES! ROUCHES!!

New styles and patterns, at a saving of 30 per cent. from Credit Prices.

Examine our samples and be convinced.

BLOND LACES, QUILTINGS, &c., &c.

Our line of these Goods always full. We Import and "Jobb" them at prices for 3 per cent. Marked prices up all Goods "in Plain Figures."

A SAVING OF 40 PER CENT. ON THESE GOODS from CREDIT PRICES.

Our intention is to make the Ribbon Trade as simple in regard to prices as domestic goods. To do this, we must sell ONE MILLION DOLLARS WORTH of GOODS PER ANNUM.

We are Union Men. "No North," "no South." We solicit the patronage of Merchants in every section of the United States, and are servants of all who favor us with their trade and patronage.

GAS BURNERS.—O'CRAN & Co. have the burners introduced into this city by Mr. Richards of Rochester. Having been satisfactorily tested, O'Cran & Co. will hereafter keep them for sale, furnishing them for 50 cents, which is twenty cents less than the price charged by Mr. Richards. jan1 d6w

MRS. EGGLESTON HAS RETURNED from the metropolis with a new stock of the most elegant & FASHIONABLE MILLINERY GOODS—FALL STYLE—which the ladies of Oswego are respectfully invited to examine and purchase. Among the usual variety we may mention a new supply of

Silk Velvet Round Hats,
Steel Expansion Skirts,
MOURNING BONNETS, BRIDAL HATS, ETC.

To name the many varieties of Millinery would be superfluous. Also, a supply of False Hairs for those who are unfortunate as to lack the "crowning glory of a woman." sep28
