VAN DEWATER'S OSWEGO & WELLAND LINE,
Both running between New York and Oswego, Daily.
In connection with these lines a fleet of ☞ Having given Oswego their undivided attention, by the receiving and forwarding of property, they assure their friends and the public that Goods or Produce consigned to them shall be forwarded with all possible despatch, and at low rates.

☞ The OSWEGO ports offers large inducements for the patronage of Western Merchants.—The number of Steamers, Propellers, and Sail Vessels, which run from Oswego to the Upper Lakes, is now very large, and the average time of transporting property from New-York to ports on Lakes Erie and Michigan, is generally shorter than by Buffalo, inasmuch as it avoids 160 miles of slow canal travel, and the delays incident to a large accumulation of property at Buffalo. The difference in price, in favor of Oswego, is always from $1,50 to $2 per ton on Merchandize, and a proportionate difference on produce.
☞ Consignments of property for sale or transportation are respectfully solicited for their house in New-York and Oswego.

Life Insurance.
THE Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York continues to insure lives on the mutual plan by which all the profits are secured for the benefit of the parties insured. This Company, like most of the English Companies, started without any capital except that arising from the premiums paid by the persons who insured on its formation. It has already, after having been in business between four and five years, a net accumulated fund of $425,345 70, which, with the exception of a small cash balance, is invested (according to the requirements of the charter) in public stocks of the United States and State and city of N. York, and in mortgages on unincumbered real estate within this State worth double the amount loaned. There are no stockholders in this company but the persons insured, and every five years an account is taken of the condition of the company, and those earnings are added to the policies then running in proportion to the amount of the premiums respectively paid. Thus this company not only affords a security against the hazards of accidental death but possesses besides all the advantages of a Savings Bank. Instances have occurred in the English companies, in the case of long lives, where three times the original amount of the policies have been paid to the representatives of the deceased.
A wife in this company, may insure her husbands life, (the annual premium not exceeding $100) and on his death the amount insured will be paid to her, for her children if she should die before her husband. FREE FROM ALL CLAIMS OF CREDITORS OR OTHERS.
Pamphlets giving a full account of the operations of the company, and of the benefits of life insurance, on the contrary application to the undersigned. BUELL & BARCOCK, Ag'ts.
