Knotty Problems Solved by Scouts at Great Bear

Concentrating on learning a difficult knot is a young Brownie being helped by counselor Donna Edwards of Phoenix at the Fulton Girl Scouts Day Camp at the Great Bear Farm. The annual day camp is run by the Fulton Service Unit of the Girl Scouts of America, an agency funded through the United Way of Greater Fulton. This year's camp, the first two-week program for Fulton girls, will run from July 13 to 16 and July 20 to 23, with an overnight stay on Wednesday, July 22. According to Janice Wilcox, director, and Brenda Ostrander, assistant director, the local girls will learn cooking, fire-building, tool safety and special arts and crafts such as tie-dyeing, candle-dipping, and making hurricane lamps. Over 80 girls participated in last year's outing, and registration for the 1981 session is open until July 13. Non-scouts are welcome at the day camp.
