OSWEGO, N. Y., SATURDAY, JANUARY 14, 1905.

ESTABLISHED 1819.

SUSPECTED DYNAMITER.

Believed to Have Been the Person Who Attempted to Blow Up Statue of Frederick the Great in Washington.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Every effort is being exerted by the local police to gain information regarding Geesler Rousseau, the dynamite suspect, and not only has a description of the man been telegraphed to every city in the country, but this action was followed by the mailing of photographs of the man to all the large cities.

Rousseau was arrested yesterday for attempting to obtain money from Patrick Kelly, a brother-in-law of missing Owen Kelly, on the representation that he would take him to the place in New York where Owen was being detained, as the man said "by Irish societies" who feared that he would tell the secrets he knew. Kelly figured in a bitter litigation involving factions of Philadelphia Fibermans, but all the local leaders on both sides are today repudiating Rousseau.

The inquiry thus far made leads the police to suspect that Rousseau is not only the man who on Tuesday last attempted to blow up the statue of Frederick the Great in Washington, but that he is also the culprit who on May 9th, 1903, plotted the destruction of the Currier liner Umbria, which was to sail from New York that day.

The Washington police believe that in a general way the description given by the detectives of this city tallies with that of the stranger who placed a bomb on the fence surrounding the statue of Frederick the Great.

The Washington man wore a black skull cap. A similar cap was found in Rousseau's possession. A detective from the capital will probably arrive here some time today to have a talk with the prisoner.

Identified.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—A photograph of Rousseau was shown this morning to a Mrs. Curry, in whose boarding house the suspected "Umbria dynamiter" lodged in May, 1903, and she positively identified it as a likeness of her former boarder.

Peter Dillon, an expressman, who took Rousseau's trunk to Mrs. Curry's house, also identified him as his customer on that occasion.

SENATOR PLATT'S SUNDAY SCHOOL

Will Meet Again Tomorrow—Some of the Pupils in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—S. Fred Nixon, Speaker of the New York Assembly; J. B. Whipple, Clerk of the State Senate, and State Superintendent Franchot, escorted by Representative Vreeland, called at the White House this morning and had half an hour's conference with President Roosevelt.

At the conclusion of the consultation, the quartet said that they came on a personal matter, not connected with politics.

Later an official at the White House said that the New Yorkers had called to take up some matters relating to the New York Indians.

From another source it is understood that the conference was really a harmony talk. Governor Odell, who was slightly worried in the recent sectional fight, is anxious to "work up" with the Platt-Depew wing of the party, it is said, and the visit of the Speaker of the Assembly was in the nature of a mission with that end in view.

At Senator Platt's home in New York city tomorrow will be held one of the famous "Sunday Schools".

The gentlemen who visited the President today will take part in the exercise, and it is said that ex-Governor Odell will also be present to swell the harmony chorus.

THE CZAR'S ORDER

Issued Today to the Army and Navy—Praises Stoessel and the Port Arthur Garrison—Still Optimistic.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 14.—Czar Nicholas today issued an order of the day to the Army in praise of the heroic defense of Port Arthur by General Stoessel and his garrison. The order read:

"Port Arthur has passed into the hands of the enemy, after a struggle lasting eleven months, during seven of which the brave garrison was isolated without hope. Nevertheless they sustained the siege, hardships, privations and moral tortures without complaint, determined that the enemy would gain nothing without paying dearly.

"With a handful of men we withstood the enemy's furious attacks. My brave soldiers and sailors, let not this sorrow discourage you. Our enemy is brave and strong, and it is extremely difficult to sustain a struggle at a distance of 10,000 versts, but Russia is great and powerful. During her national life of a thousand years she has given hard proofs of her ability to overcome even more serious dangers. She has withstood them and each time she has arisen more powerful than ever and full of renewed vigor.

"We are greatly grieved by the lack of success and the painful losses, but let us not abandon courage. It is in sorrowful times such as these that the power of Russia reveals itself.

"I am confident, as is every Russian, that the hour of victory is striking, and God will bless my dear army and fleet in their efforts to crush the enemy and sustain the honor and glory of the fatherland."

Upon opposition of Mr. Hale, of Maine, and Mr. Bacon, of Georgia, the bill was amended to provide citizenship to those women alone whose husbands have died or who have been legally divorced.

Mr. Tillman, of South Carolina, objected to the words "legally divorced." He retorted facetiously in the American girls running after titles.

"They seem to want the title more than they do the man," he declared.

"It is the case of the title chasing girls," interpreted Mr. Depew. (Laughter.)

"Any way, they get the girls," retorted Mr. Tillman. (Laughter.)

Mr. McCumber, of North Dakota.

SERUM FOR CURE OF CANCER.

Interesting Experiments in Progress at Buffalo By Operating on Mice—They May Be Successful.

BUFFALO, Jan. 13.—Experiments now being conducted at the Gratwick Laboratory in High street may be the means of producing a cure for cancer in human beings. There is hope in the workers at the Laboratory that the significant result may be achieved, but the field is new and six months of further research and experiment, maybe a year, must elapse before the result can be accurately told.

Experiments conducted on mice have brought Dr. E. R. M. Gaylord and Dr. W. A. Croves, the workers at the laboratory, to this preliminary conclusion:

"Tumors in mice bearing a very close relationship to cancer in human beings, have in certain cases been cured, and in other cases delayed in their development by serum treatment, and there is reason to hope that these may be an application of this principle to subsequent work on human beings. We have at present nothing to report regarding experiments on human beings."

There is a statement that Dr. G. H. A. Croves dictated, saying it was the only statement of the experiments at the laboratory and their result for which he would stand:

"The work which we have been carrying on recently has been confined to the study of cancer in mice. About nine months ago Dr. Gaylord visited Professor Jensen in Copenhagen, and obtained from him a mouse suffering from cancer and on his return to Buffalo the materials from this tumor were transplanted in mice, and the subsequent transplantations affording us an ample supply of mice suffering from cancer. These animals gave us a better opportunity of studying the disease than could ever be hoped for so long as our investigations were limited to human beings. With the mice in question it was possible to perform experiments that might involve the risk of killing the individual.

"So soon as we had a sufficient number of tumors at our disposal experiments were commenced with the object of finding some means of immunizing animals against this disease and of curing those already infected. The experiments were at first unsuccessful, but in the course of the autumn an incident occurred which, while it almost resulted in our losing the series of tumor mice, eventually proved of considerable value in our solving the treatment. A series of fifteen or twenty small tumors disappeared spontaneously, the animals in question apparently having sufficient resistance to prevent the disease from developing.

"We were fortunately able to once more renew our series of tumors and on subsequently testing the blood of these animals that had recovered spontaneously, it was found that it possessed the property of retarding the development of other tumors. In a few cases small tumors were undoubtedly cured by this serum treatment. In other cases larger tumors were retarded in their development. The details regarding the treatment methods employed can not be made public at the present moment."
