War Risk Bureau Uncovers Interesting Facts—How Girl Sleuths Help Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Uncle Sam has a bright lot of girl sleuths at work in the War Risk Insurance Bureau and they are showing their keenness daily in tracing down the relatives of disabled soldiers. The director of the bureau sends along a message like this, for instance:

"Get this man's name so that I can report definitely on the status of his allotment: 'James Halt (3721605), McCall, S. C.; beneficiaries (wife) Mrs. Ella Stalks; (mother), Mrs. Fannie Stalks.'"

Going into the index files section, where are listed the names of nearly 5,000,000 men who were inducted into military service, a young woman sleuth made a complete inventory of all the thousands of men surnamed Hall. Among them all there was not one who came from McCall, S. C., nor yet one who had a wife or mother whose name even remotely resembled the "Stalks" given as the name of the two beneficiaries.

"Well," remarked the girl, "this man may be 'Stalk,' since that is the name given for his wife and mother." But search through the "Stalks" brought nothing to identify the case.

"Still," she persisted—and they always do persist, these girls—"his name must be some kind of a 'Stalk', but what kind? Corn stalks, bean stalks and cabbage stalks are the only kind of stalks I know anything about, so I'll just look them up." And, sure enough, it turned out that his name was "some kind of a stalk," a cabbage stalk, and the index card was changed to read:

"James Cabbagestalks (3721505), McCall, S. C.; beneficiaries, Mrs. Ella Cabbagestalks (wife), Mrs. Fannie Cabbagestalks (mother)."

Another opportunity for the use of keen deduction grew out of the efforts of an army company clerk to display what he believed to be a rare sense of humor in the matter of applying a nickname on a record of discharge sent to the Insurance Division of the bureau, but which unexpectedly proved of service to a research worker. Notice of the discharge of Pvt. Charles E. Flivver, of Pushmataha, Ala., was received by the bureau, and a complete search was made through the files. The cards of all the Flivvers, Fleavers, Fluvers and Pflueyers, as well as men of somewhat similar names were looked over in hope of locating "Mr. Flivver, of Alabama."

Failure to locate the sought-for party brought the comment, "A flivver is a Ford," from one girl worker. "I am going to look up the 'Fords' in the file." She looked, and there he was—"Charles E. Ford, Pushmataha, Alabama," right where he should be, in the card index of the Fords.

53,200 Johnsons in Service.

Fifty-three thousand two hundred Johnsons were called into active military service, this number including the Johnsons, the Johnstons and the Johnstones. Of these sons of John, 2,138 were christened John and nothing more, and 2,062 answer to the name of William. The Smiths were not far behind numerically, coming up to the considerable figure of 51,950 in the uniform, and 3,412 of them carry the name of William. John is an almost equally popular name in this family, and 2,625 of them have that given name, while 1,290 go by the baffling title of "E. Smith." The "Brown" family, with 16,000 is next number and an even 2,000 of them were christened "John." The "Jones" family landed only about half as many in the army and navy as did the Johnsons, their sons numbering 28,050, of whom 1,950 are William and 1,500 are John, while the "Millers" total only 2,500 all told, of whom 1,500 were baptised in the name of John.

The "Walkers" aren't so far behind with over 18,500 sons in the service; the "Anderson" family sent over 22,000 men to the front, while the "Williams" went them double with more than 47,000 sons marching to the call of the colors.

In a communication to the bureau inquiring about his policy, a John J. O'Brien stated he could be identified in lieu of his serial and certificate numbers by the fact that the beneficiary named was his wife, Mary A.

The research workers were amazed to find the names of 175 John J. O'Briens, and to add to the completeness of their surprise, fifty John J.'s had wives whose names were Mary A.

Queer Names on Records.

REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS MAY HOLD JOINT CONFERENCE OVER TREATY RESERVATIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Between forty and fifty Democratic and Republican Senators are expected to attend the joint conference to be held to consider compromise reservations to the peace treaty. The conference will not be held until after the Democratic caucus, when the leader will be chosen. It is expected Senator Underwood will be chosen.

Republican "irreconcilable" scent a Democratic plot in the activity of the latter to bring about a compromise. Lodge shows a willingness to negotiate. New proposals for compromise are making their appearance almost every hour.

ADVISES STATE DEPARTMENTS TO CUT THEIR BUDGET

ALBANY, Jan. 13.—Governor Smith today submitted a special message to the Legislature, recommending that departmental requests for funds totaling $61,033,039 be cut to $53,736,092, and that institutional demands be cut from $21,621,781 to $19,842,859. He suggests that items for improvements such as good roads, etc., be considered in separate bills.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH TO TRY REV. P. STICKNEY GRANT

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Bishop Charles S. Burch, of the Episcopal Church, was to act late today on charges brought against the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension. Dr. Grant, it was alleged, preached a sermon December 21th in which he linked the deported "reds" with the Pilgrims of the Mayflower. The Bishop requested the vestry of the church to consider charges and render him a report. The vestry met last night and was to report to the Bishop today.

WIRE BRIEFS.

STALLWOOD DISCUSSES TREATMENT OF REDS.

Says Problem Is How to Deal With Them Successfully.

WATERTOWN, Jan. 13.—"If the United States Government continues to maintain its attitude of severity toward radicalism and to be lenient with profiteering it will find itself up against a national peril."

This was the declaration of the Rev. Jabez Stallwood, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, in a prelude to his sermon Sunday evening, which was entitled, Comment From Various Angles on the Wholesale Arrests of the Reds.

In his introduction the Rev. Mr. Stallwood declared that he was not in sympathy with the Reds, and did not want anything which he might say to be interpreted in that way. He said that the problem is a question of how the Reds can be dealt with most successfully. The suggestion is made, he said, that those persons not satisfied with this Government should leave the country, but that, he declared, was like Carlysle's remedy for crime, that of shooting every criminal.

The Rev. Mr. Stallwood referred to France and England, saying that they were in the war longer than we were and had not become so hysterical. He quoted from an editorial in the New York Post, which said that granting the Reds do not understand our Government and that they are overstepping the law, it asks if it is really necessary to arrest them. Referring to Berger, he said that Wisconsin has three generations of Socialists and that although Berger might be excluded from the House that would have no effect on these people.

PULASKI.

Grange Installation Tonight—Mrs. Larmonth Dead.

HASTINGS.

Death of Peter Piguet.

CENTRAL SQUARE, Jan. 13.—Peter J. Piguet, eighty-two years old, died at St. Joseph's Hospital, Syracuse, on Friday. For years Mr. Piguet was a resident of the town of West Monroe. Several months ago he went to Syracuse to live with his son, James Piguet. A week ago he was taken to the hospital for operation. The remains were removed to E. L. Wood's undertaking rooms here on Monday.

Mr. Piguet is survived by a son, James Piguet, of Syracuse; two daughters, Mrs. Lewis Mathews, of Earlville, and Mrs. Sidney Clark, of Fulton; three sisters, Mrs. Phillip Dick, of Mallory; Mrs. L. Pickney and Mrs. Edward West, of Brewerton; two brothers, Victor Piguet, of Mallory; Frank Piguet, of Mallory, and a number of grandchildren.

The funeral was held at St. Francis's church, Little France, at ten a. m. today. Burial was made in Little France cemetery.

MINETTO.

City Fathers Talking of New Town Building.

MINETTO, Jan. 13.—Our city fathers are busily engaged formulating plans and securing options on several pieces of real estate with the end in view of the town's erecting a building suitable for use as a store with a hall above to be used for public purposes. One piece of property thought of is the site of the Minetto House, another in Benson avenue. The site and building will mean an outlay of some twenty-five thousand dollars.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at Mrs. F. W. Mobry's at three o'clock Friday afternoon.

SULTAN WILL NOT BE EXPELLED FROM TURKEY.

PARIS, Jan. 13.—Premier Lloyd-George has abandoned his policy of demanding expulsion of the Sultan of Turkey from Europe, it was understood today. As a result of the early conversations of the "Big Three," the British Premier was said to favor leaving the Sultan in Constantinople.

Jury Disagrees.

The Syracuse jury hearing the $25,000 damage suit of Charles A. Carpenter against the Empire State Railroads disagreed and was discharged this morning. He sued for injuries when a soldier accidently shot him on a street car.

BITS OF NEWS

Gossip in political circles in Syracuse is to the effect that J. J. Barrett, assistant district attorney, will be appointed County Judge to succeed D. Raymon Cobb, whose resignation will take effect January 31st.

Forty miles of so-called Federal aid roads will be built in Onondaga county in 1920. The work represents an expenditure of $1,600,000, of which the Federal Government will pay fifty per cent.

County Judge William M. Kesel has denied the motion to dismiss the indictment against Donald W. Fether of violating the excise law. Fether was arrested in connection with the drowning of Hazel Crance, but later released. The girl's body has never been recovered from Cayuga Lake.

The aldermen of Syracuse, who have been receiving $750 a year for their work, want the amount increased to $1,000. A bill will be introduced in Albany to that effect.

Twenty-eight members of the Syracuse Police Department "took a day off" yesterday to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of being members of the police force.

Charles R. Gowen has resigned as general passenger agent of the Utica, Oneida and Syracuse line of the New York State Railways, to become assistant manager of the Central New York district of the Security Mutual Life Insurance Company. Oswego county will be included in his district.

Testimony before a committee appointed by Governor Smith shows that wages in the garment industry have increased 100 per cent. since 1917. Ordinary tailors, who in 1917 received $20 a week, now receive $40, and the best workers, who got $43.50, are now drawing $75 a week.

According to Brigadier-General Jadwin, U. S. A., who has recently made a tour of inspection of Ukrainia, 29,000 Jews were massacred in this country through pogroms.

Residents of Montreal, Canada, are being forced to leave that city because of the water famine caused by the strike of engineers at the municipal pumping stations. Many have come to this side of the border, where they can find water in plenty.

Peter D. Pelow was arrested in Ogdensburg yesterday in connection with arrests of men in Syracuse for whiskey smuggling. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 bail for trial January 20th.

According to government reports a recent big shipment of arms and ammunition to Mexico was escorted by a Japanese cruiser.

Frank Shaw, nineteen, of Newburg, went to the cemetery at Poughkeepsie and standing at the grave of his sweetheart, Miss Romola Gerow, shot himself through the heart. He died at a hospital several hours later.

The Switchmen's Union will meet in Buffalo January 19th to take up the question of increased wages. The switchmen, it is claimed, received no consideration in the recent wage movement.

Sidney B. Whipple, managing editor of the Syracuse Journal, has been added to the faculty of Syracuse University as a teacher of journalism.

The wholesale and retail price of gasoline has advanced another cent a gallon, the second advance within a week. The new price at retail is twenty-nine and thirty cents a gallon.

CAN'T HOLD LIQUOR OUTSIDE RESIDENCE.

Owners Have Only Four Days to Save Stocks in Warehouses or Vaults.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Persons who have stored quantities of liquor "for personal use only" in storage warehouses, safe deposit vaults and other conventient places outside of their homes, were hard hit today when the Bureau of Internal Revenue issued an order to the effect that such liquor must be moved to the private residence of the owner not later than January 17th.

There is one alternative left open to persons who are unable to move the liquor from storage to their homes by Friday next, and that carries but little consolation. Until January 27th permits may be obtained to sell the liquor which remains in storage after January 17th for non-beverage purposes.

NOMINATIONS BY GOVERNOR.

Health Commissioner Biggs and State Architect Pilcher Named Again and Confirmed at Once.

ALBANY, Jan. 13.—Renomination of Dr. Harman M. Biggs as State Health Commissioner, and Lewis F. Pilcher as State Architect, submitted to the Senate by Governor Smith last night, were confirmed immediately.

Several recess appointments were sent to the Senate for confirmation and were referred to the Finance Committee.
