OBITUARY.

George Ford.

George Ford died at his home, 178 West Seventh street, yesterday at 11:30 a. m. He had been ill two months. Mr. Ford was a son of Levi Ford and was born in this city about fifty-eight years ago. He attended the Oswego High school when the late E. J. Hamilton was principal, but before graduation day came around he went with his father, who was the superintendent in charge of the moulding shop at the Old Vulcan Foundry. There he learned the moulding trade and in after years was in charge of the foundry department at the Ames Iron Works and the Kingsford Foundry and Machine shop. Because of ill health he retired from the business several years ago and when D. D. Long was chosen Mayor Mr. Ford was placed in charge of the City Hall as caretaker, he being an ardent Republican. When the Democrats came into power he was retired. He was a member of St. Mary's church and the C. M. B. A. and had a very large number of friends, but few of whom knew that he was seriously ill. Besides his widow and father he is survived by two daughters and two sons, Mrs. George Shurr, Miss Jessie Ford, John and Charles Ford, of this city; also a brother, John Ford, and a sister, Mary Ford, of Syracuse. Mr. Ford had a very large number of friends who learned of his death with sorrow.

Charles Chateau.

The body of Charles Chateau, who died in Quincy, Ill., last Friday, is expected to arrive here by express today sometime, when it will be taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Archambeau, 36 East Cayuga street, from where the funeral will be held. Mr. Chateau was forty-two years old, a son of the late Captain and Mrs. Charles E. Chateau. His father was at one time a well known vessel master. Besides Mrs. Archambeau he is survived by three brothers, Captain William Chateau, of Parish, John Chateau, of Ogdensburg, and Samuel Chateau, of this city.

Maurice Wyman.

Maurice Wyman died at his home, 261 West Schuyler street, yesterday. Mr. Wyman was a former resident of the town of Orwell, coming to this city to live about three years ago. He had been ill about four weeks. The remains will be taken to Orwell and the funeral held from the Orwell Union church Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock. His widow and several children survive. Mr. Wyman was sixty-six years old.

Died in Fulton.

Word was received here today of the death of Jeremiah Brady, a former Oswegonian, at the home of his sister, Mrs. H. C. Thompson, 407 Pine street, Fulton, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Brady was thirty-nine years of age and had resided in Fulton for some time past.

Friends are invited to attend the funeral in Fulton tomorrow at his sister's home at 8:45 a. m. and from the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9:30 o'clock. Mr. Brady had relatives in this city.

Surrogate's Court.

Letters were asked today in Surrogate's Court before Judge Miller, who returned after an illness of several days, in the estate of Irven F. Snyder, of Sandy Creek, who left $200 real and $2,500 personal property.

The will of Hays McKinstry, late of Schroeppel, who left an estate of $37,000, shows that he divided it into twelve parts, leaving two to his daughter, Florence I. Booth; two to a son, Fred, and the remaining eight parts to grandchildren.

An accounting preparatory to final settlement in the O. F. Gaylord estate, shows its net value to be $266,759.62, divided as follows: Martha A. Gaylord, widow, $87,586.54; Mary L. Martha L. and F. A. Gaylord, Caroline A. Whitaker, Fulton, Alice B. Marsden, Elizabeth S. Cooper, each $25,191.39; Oren W. Gaylord, $24,024.74; Katherine and Gaylord Whitaker and Elizabeth G. and Judson G. Cooper each $1,-000.

Letters of administration were asked on the estate of Richard Quigg by a son Hudson M. Quigg, who will divide the property with a sister, Nettie M. Hall. Mr. Quigg left $15,000 personal and $2,000 real.

Objections to the probate of the will of Julius W. Bennett, of Schroeppel, were filed by George Bennett, a son, of Hereheads Bay, on the usual statutory grounds.

The will of Andrew Hirshboltz was filed this afternoon. The petition gives the value as $200 personal and $500 real. The barber business and a building in West First street just North of Seneca is left to a son, Charles, and all of the rest of the estate goes to the widow, Louise.

William J. Murphy, of New York, secured letters on the estate of his mother, Bridget Murphy, who died without a will, leaving $4,000 real and $2,000 personal.

FATHER TIERNAN GETS PURSE.

Williamstown Parishioners Show Their Appreciation of Priest.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Jan. 10.—At the Whalen Hall on Friday evening occurred one of the most pleasant parties held in this place in many years, the occasion being the presentation of a purse of gold to the beloved pastor, Father Tiernan, in recognition of twenty-one years of faithful service and expression of esteem of the community irrespective of religious belief. Everybody was enthusiastic and made it a grand success. J. F. Healy, one of the trustees of the church, made the presentation speech in a few well chosen words.

The purse was handed the pastor by the venerable John McGovern, who has been trustee for many years. Father Tiernan was completely taken by surprise, having been invited the day before by letter to be present. Recovering, in his usual happy way Father Tiernan thanked all present for the gift and said many nice things about the members of St. Patrick's parish and the citizens of Williamstown.

AN OFFICIAL PICKLE MAKER.

Canisteo Woman Sends Her Product to Andrew Carnegie's Table Each Year.

SYRACUSE, Jan. 10.—Mrs. A. R. Miner, of Canisteo, is official pickle maker to Andrew Carnegie.

The donor of many libraries with the pickle factories of an entire world to yield their masterpieces to his table finds no pickles like the home-made ones which Mrs. Miner packs each year in glass jars and sends to the Carnegie family.

No matter in what part of the world the Carnegie family may be staying Mrs. Miner does the pickling. Only a short time ago she shipped a large box containing those she had prepared this year to the Laird of Skibo. The glass jars, each carefully wrapped, went to the Carnegie home on Perdino Islands off the coast of Cuba.

It has been about ten years since Mrs. Miner became the Carnegie official pickle maker.

A MORNING WEDDING.

Miss Mary Elsie Ryan and John H. Foster Married at St. Paul's Today.

Foster, of 97 West Ninth street, were united in marriage by the Rev. T. F. Howard, rector of St. Paul's. The bride wore a gown of green velvet and carried white roses and her sister, Miss Margaret Ryan the bridesmaid, was attired in brown velvet and carried pink roses. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents to the immediate members of both families, and the happy couple left on a wedding trip that will embrace New York city, Boston and other points. They will make their home in this city where the groom is employed in the New York Central shops. Mr. Foster is also well known as an amateur baseball player. Mr. and Mrs. Foster were recipients of many beautiful presents.

COURT WILL BE RECESSED

No Business for Justice Hubbs at This Term.

The Action of Carl Clifford Against Dr. W. McD. Halsey for $10,000 Damages for Alleged Malpractice is Being Tried Today—Counsel for State Medical Society Defending for the Doctor.

OSWEGO, Jan. 10.—The calendar in Trial Term of Supreme Court pretty nearly went to pieces agin today and as a result it is expected that court will be recessed without day tomorrow or Wednesday.

When the calendar was called this morning Nos. 54, 55, 68 and 94 were put over the term. The actions of James A. Clark vs. David Levi and Camillo Grassi and Frank Grant vs. the Village of Hannibal, Nos. 75 and 58, were dismissed, and the action of Grover A. Woodard vs. Arthur I. Melvin was announced as settled.

The action of Earl Clifford against Dr. W. McD. Halsey then went to trial, plaintiff asking $10,000 damages for alleged malpractice. John J. McGrath and J. L. Mournighan represent Clifford, while defendant is represented by H. C. Mizen and James Taylor Lewis, of New York, counsel for the State Medical Society. Plaintiff claims that Dr. Halsey removed bandages from Clifford, who was kicked by a horse last January, after he heard that Dr. J. M. McGrath, who is not affiliated with the local medical society, was his regular physician. Dr. Halsey claims that he was called from a house across the road from Clifford's to render first aid and that when he saw Dr. McGrath appearing he removed part of a permanent bandage which he was placing in order to allow the family physician to treat the patient as he saw fit. Mr. Clifford was only confined to the house for two weeks altogether, the defense claims.

After all of the evidence had been taken in the Clifford case, Justice Hubbs directed the jury to bring in a verdict for the defendant on the ground that no cause of action had been shown.

The next case started was No. 80 on the calendar, an action for alleged breach of contract, brought by Clarence G. and Otho G. Dorsey against James M. Hart.
