President Grant's Views on Finance.

Some account of an interview held by a gentleman from Boston with President Grant on Monday last is given by the Journal of that city. The President is reported to have expressed the opinion that the legal tender acts themselves should now be repealed; they had worked out their whole office; they had carried the country through the war and were no longer necessary, and he hoped that Congress, during its present session, would repeal all the legal tender acts, such repeal to take effect Jan. 1, 1875, and that thereafter all contracts should be made on a gold basis. He said it would seem that this could be done without any disturbance of the commercial or financial interests of the country, and once accomplished all temptation to inflation was ended. As to the taking away from New England the excess of bank circulation, he said that it really amounted to nothing. The banks from the East were now returning their circulation and withdrawing their bonds much more rapidly than there was any demand from the West and South for the circulation. He thought the figures would show within the past few months that more than double the amount of circulation had been returned from the east than was asked for by the south and west. He said that he did not think the currency bill, if he had signed it would have produced inflation in the present condition of the country, as there was no demand for additional currency, and no use for a large proportion of what we now had; but the danger was in the future, and it was a step in the wrong direction; that any increase of irredeemable paper would injure vitally the national credit, while, on the other hand, an unlimited issue of redeemable currency could do no harm. He was in favor of free banking, but with it and, as an inseparable accompaniment, he insisted that we should have redemption, and he was willing to give to the west and south free banking based on redemption; and this he wished and had taken pains that his friends in those sections should understand. The President said he was in constant receipt of communications from business men, bankers, and public men at the west and south expressing, on the part of the writers, their original anxiety for the passage of the currency bill, or some similar measure, as a means of relief at the present time, but nearly all of them assured him that the effect of the message had been to restore confidence and give permanence to the future course of the government, that was fully as great a relief and more satisfactory to business interests. He further said that while his communications from New York and the east were almost all in approval of his course, the action of the south and west was nearly as unanimous, and from all this he hoped the very best results to the country, and very likely the benefits would far exceed the expectations of any one. The president seemed as decided in reference to his future action as he had been in the past. He expressed the greatest kindness towards all parties, especially those who might have felt disappointed at the course which duty had compelled him to take.

The London News, speaking of Dr. Schliemann's alleged discovery of ancient Troy, indulges in this pleasing bit of word-painting:

"High up in the northeast corner of the Levant, where the rapid Hellespont rolls southward in a ceaseless flood, lie the plains of the Troad, the scene of the world's grandest epic. The Simois and Xanthus still flow southward to the sea; the Hellespont still rushes by; the shadow of Lemnos still falls at noon upon the shores of Mitylene; the rocky islet of Tenedos—where the Greeks lay hid while the fatal horse was dragged into Ilium's citadel—still lifts its hills girt with their crown of gray-green olive groves out of the blue Ægean; and Ida—Ida where Paris choose between the three immortals—still towers towards the sky, peak leaping above peak. It is hard to look upon the scene and not to believe in the downright truth of the Homeric tale—to picture the turreted walls, and the Scæan gates, and the lofty citadel, and Priam's Palace with its endless corridors and the naval camp of the Achæan host with its trench and rampart, and the beach where the 'vermeil-prowed' ships lay in long rows, and the huge mound under which lies 'the great Achilles, whom we knew.' Xerxes, before he crossed the Hellespont with his hosts, went up to the hill which tradition even then identified as 'the Pergamus of Priam,' and sacrificed a thousand oxen to the Ilian Athene. A century and a half later Alexander not only ascended the holy hill, but hung up there his own armor and took down a suit of mail which local tradition cherished as the panoply of Hector himself. Centuries have since rolled by and the ghost of Demetrius of Scepsis has shuddered at the sacrilegious infidelity of Wolff; but the divine lay of Troy's fall still retains its hold upon men's hearts, and traveller after traveller has wandered along the Troad shores with reverent step, and sought to identify the site of Priam's city and to fix the mound beneath which Troy's ruins lie."

The News, we may add, places but little faith in Dr. Schliemann's deductions, and quotes Professor Max Muller, who, viewing the Iliad as an imaginative poem rather than an historical record, says that "the diggings at Troy will no more yield the treasures once possessed by the Homeric heroes than the armor of Uter Pendragon will ever be brought to light from the ruins of Tintagel, or the imperial crown of Friedrich Barbarossa from the caves of the Kyffhauser."

The Ghost of Louis Napoleon.

Paris Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Something which looks strangely like the wraith of the defunct emperor may be seen daily haunting the Restaurant Morel, back of the Opera Comique, a cafe much frequented by artists and authors. The ghost in question is no other than the son of the dead ruler, the oldest child of the celebrated Mrs. Howard. He is remarkably like his father (an advantage which the Prince Imperial does not enjoy), and is said to resemble him also in licentiousness of conduct. He is a middle-aged man now, but is not in the least a settled or steady one, and his habits of dissipation and extravagance used to give the Emperor much trouble. To get rid of this wild scion, and to avoid the scandals which might have been set afloat by the Liberals respecting his conduct in Paris, his father sent him, first as Consul to Belfast, and finding that still too near to France in all probability, he transferred him to the Consulate of Zanzibar. He is now residing in Paris, and bears the title of Count de Bure, but nobody troubles themselves any more about him—his brief chance for distinction or notoriety passed away with the Empire and its chief. Some day perhaps he may play the part of Duke de Mornay to Napoleon IV.

SUMS AS SMALL AS FIVE CENTS

Will be received. Bank Books furnished without charge.

Married Women

And Minor Children may Deposit money, so that no one else can draw it.

Societies

May Deposit money from time to time, and before making the first Deposit, may provide by vote, how and by whom it shall be drawn out; and, provided a copy of the Resolution be furnished to the Savings Bank, no money will be paid, unless its provisions are strictly complied with.

Depositors,

Whether Foreigners or Citizens, have the same rights as to Property, and in case of death any money to their credit will be paid to their legal representatives, whether they are in this country or elsewhere.

Wills.

Printed forms of Wills have been prepared by the Counsel of the Savings Bank, so that any depositor may legally designate some one who may take charge of his money and property, and be guardian of his children in case of his death. Thus much inconvenience and expense may be avoided. An officer of the Savings Bank, (without any charge for his services) prepares a Will for any depositor applying.

Compound Interest

At the rate of six per cent, per annum, is paid on all sums.

Working People

Need not lose any time, as the Savings Bank is kept open

SATURDAY EVENINGS

Means for Identifying Depositors,

When a new depositor first comes to the Savings Bank, precautions are taken, and records made, so that he may always be identified, and so that in case a book is lost, the owner thereof cannot be defrauded.

☞ The business of this institution is confined exclusively to the receipt and care of savings, deposits, and funds deposited in trust. No commercial or general banking business is transacted.

☞ A large proportion of the funds are invested by loan upon real estate in the city of Oswego and vicinity. In making such loans preference will be given to applications from depositors of small means, who have accumulated in the institution sufficient funds to pay for a lot of ground, and desire to borrow something more to aid them in erecting buildings to be used as permanent homes for themselves and families.

☞ Money remitted by draft to Europe or elsewhere for depositors.

☞ Plans of cheap cottages, may be seen at the Savings Bank.

☞ Guardians, Trustees, Females, and persons unaccustomed to financial transactions, will find this Bank a safe and convenient place at which to make deposits and do business.

The Treasurer and Secretary of the Bank will be in attendance during business hours to give any desired information.

DR. L. G. BERTRAM'S

LONG-LIFE

Celebrated Aromatic Stomach Bitters

The old Bitters made according to the principles of the medical art.

The best and sure preventive of any contagious disease.

A wholesome stimulant, deriving its strength from the juice of medicinal plants, roots, and bark, and having the agreeable qualities of the best cordials.

Used for more than twenty years, with the greatest success, in Europe and in this country.

These Bitters will restore, purify, and keep the blood always pure, and by so doing, and by dissolving all the causes of inflammation, the stomach, liver, lungs, kidneys, and every organ of the body receives health and strength. Therefore every person who uses these Bitters according to the directions is sure to regain his health if ILL, and to preserve it if WELL, NO MATTER WHAT THE DANGER OF CONTAGIONS TO WHICH HE IS EXPOSED.

Please read carefully the label or circular.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach and Breath, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill and Purifying the Blood, are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure.—They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action; and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skilful physicians, most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens, send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

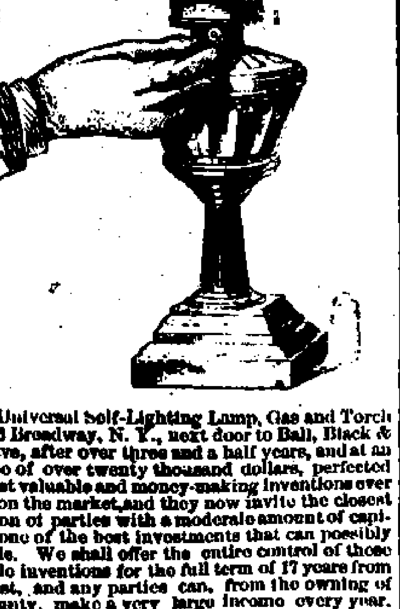
Self-Lighting Lamp.

No Matches. No Electricity. No Taking off the Chimney or Globe. Light your Lamp in an Instant.



The Universal Self-Lighting Lamp, Gas and Torch Co., 563 Broadway, N. Y., next door to Ball, Black & Co., have, after over three and a half years, and at an expense of over twenty thousand dollars, perfected the most valuable and money-making inventions ever put upon the market, and they now invite the closest attention of parties with a moderate amount of capital, to one of the best investments that can possibly be made. We shall offer the entire control of these valuable inventions for the full term of 17 years from May last, and any parties can, from the owning of any county, make a very large income every year, by controlling the entire sale of these goods in this county alone. On the new and beautiful SELF-LIGHTING TORCH, the new and celebrated SELF-LIGHTING LAMP, the new and splendid SELF-LIGHTING GAS ATTACHMENT, the splendid SELF-LIGHTING LANTERN. No Matches, no Electricity. Work in any weather.

We very respectfully invite your earliest attention to this very valuable invention and shall, during this month, offer this county right for sale to the right parties.

For any information enclose stamp or call at 563 Broadway, New York, next door to Ball, Black & Co.

We shall exhibit in this city, within a short time, these new and valuable inventions, and we invite the attention of all parties to call and see them in practical operation. 30apreodlmo

THE QUESTION HAS BEEN Asked

1,000 TIMES.

Why Don't You Open Your Store

"UP TOWN?"

The Answer is Simply This:

We cannot all expect to do business on four corners or even on two streets, and I am confident that with careful attention, fair dealing, reasonable charges, and PURE

DRUGS and MEDICINES

I can, sooner or later, secure some attention, an some patronage.
