Corn Comes Off as Easy as You Please!

"Get-it" Being Used by Millions!
It is the first time that a real, sure-as fate corn cure has ever been discovered. "GETS-IT" is the new corn-ender, based on an entirely new principle. It is a new, different formula, never successfully imitated. It makes corns shrivel and then vanish. Two drops do the work. You don't bundle up your toe any more with sticky tape and plaster that peels down on the poor corn—no more flesh-eating salves that don't "stay put," no more hacking at corns with knives or razors, no more bleeding or danger of blood poisoning. No more limping around for days with sore corns, no more corn pain.

"GETS-IT" is now the biggest-selling corn cure in the world. Use it on any hard or soft corn, wart, callus or bunion. Tonight's the night. "GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere. 25 cents a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

More African Unrest.
From a letter in the East African Standard: "We have indeed reached the stage known as the last straw on the camel's back, and I, for one, am quite prepared, as one of the least competent parts of that camel, to add my lot to the endeavor to kick over the traces. Let us unite and, marching shoulder to shoulder and eye to eye, set sail for that glorious and equally well-known goal—Who pays the piper calls the tune." No man of spirit could resist so stirring an appeal.—Punch.

To Mend Furniture.
Cracks in furniture should be filled with beeswax. Soften the beeswax until it becomes like putty, then press it firmly into the cracks, and smooth the surface over with a thin knife. Sandpaper the surrounding wood, and work some of the dust into the beeswax. This gives a finish to the wood, and when it is varnished the cracks will have disappeared. Putty used in the same way soon dries and falls out.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Baby Who Was a Rubber Ball.

And Dance the Little Boy Around by His Feet.

MRS. PERKINS, next door, is awfully careful of her baby, daddy," said Evelyn, after losing by a foot roll in her race to daddy's knee, while Jack shouted in triumph. "I was holding him today, and she made me put him down because she was afraid I would drop him. Why, I never even dropped one of my dolls!"

"Goodness!" exclaimed daddy. "I wonder what Mrs. Perkins would do if anybody tried to use her baby for a rubber ball!"

"What do you mean, daddy?" asked Jack.

"I'll tell you the story of a baby, and I am sure you will agree that he was a rubber ball, at least part of the time.

"It was over in Japan. This baby's papa and mamma were acrobats and skillful.

"Well, this baby was brought to them a boy, just what they had prayed their gods to send them. He was a very strong, healthy baby, and they were glad of this, too, for there was much hard work for him to do in the future.

"At an age when most babies are just sucking their thumbs and can hardly creep this little Jap baby was already in training to be an acrobat. His papa and mamma would stand across from each other and toss him from one to the other like a ball. This was to make him hard and strong, and they would roll him along the floor, and his papa would hold him out on his arms, on the back of his little neck and just under his little round heels and would tell him to arch his little back and stick his tummy up into the air, and he would come up just like a bow. This was to make his back strong.

"Then they taught him to turn somersaults and handstands, and he just loved the work because it made him strong and healthy and gave him a great big appetite for his rice. He always tried to do his work well, for if he didn't he would get a smart spanking.

"When the baby grew to be a small boy he was quite skilled, and he came to America with his parents, and they traveled with a big circus, and the little boy would curl himself all up into a tiny round ball, and his daddy would lay on his back on a pinch cushion with his feet in the air and dance the little boy around on his feet as if he were a rubber ball, and then the little boy would turn handstands like everything and do all sorts of wonderful things. His parents got all the money, of course, but he didn't mind, for he had everything he wanted, which wasn't very much, and when he grew up he could earn a heap of money for himself. Good night, kiddies, and pleasant dreams."
