WILL NOT LET UP.

Roosevelt Declares War to the Knife on Financial Rottenness.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. — That there will be no let up in President Roosevelt's policy of "warring" against rottenness and corruption was emphatically declared by the president in an address to the delegates to the department of superintendence of the National Education society during their reception at the White House.

Continuing, the president gave his views on educational methods with characteristic catholicity of thought and vigor of expression.

At the business session Oklahoma City was selected as the next meeting place, and officers were elected as follows:

President, W. H. Elson, Cleveland, O.; first vice president, David B. Johnson, Rockhill, S. C.; second vice president, Miss Ida Bender, Buffalo, and secretary, A. C. Nelson, Salt Lake City.

Convention Red Hot For Taft.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Feb. 27.—The Sixteenth district Republican congressional convention held here unanimously indorsed Taft and Roosevelt, ratified General D. A. Hollingsworth of Cadiz as congressional nominee, named Senator M. N. Duvall of this city and James F. Anderson of Belmont county delegates to the national convention and chose Judge John A. Mansfield of this city as presidential elector. The convention was red hot for Taft. In an enthusiastic speech Hollingsworth said Roosevelt is the greatest reformer of this or any other age.

WARRANT FOR ROY.

Is Husband of Glacia Calla, the "American Beauty."

WIFE DENOUNCED HIM AS MURDERER

Unique Case at Portsmouth, N. H., Where Body of George A. Carkins Was Buried After Inquest as That of a Suicide.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—"My husband shot my brother. When my brother fell unconscious to the floor he stood over him and shot him twice more in the back. Threatening to shoot me if I ever told about it, my husband left me and is now in Paris.

"I kept silent as long as I could, and the case was reported as a suicide, but the truth is now known, and I will do everything in my power to bring my husband into court."

Thus declaimed Mrs. Paul H. Roy, known in this country and Paris as "Glacia Calla, the American beauty," when seen here at the home of her cousin, George E. Hodgdon, at 5 West One Hundred and Thirty-first street.

A Portsmouth special dispatch says that a warrant for the arrest of Paul E. Roy on the charge that he murdered his brother-in-law, George A. Carkins, at Newington on Jan. 2 was sworn out by Sheriff M. M. Collins at Portsmouth last night. Although Roy is in France and is said to be a citizen of that country, the authorities have determined to secure his presence here for trial if possible.

The remarkable story which Mrs. Roy voluntarily told the Portsmouth (N. H.) authorities and which resulted in the exhumation of the body of George A. Carkins, her brother, and the finding of the two bullet wounds which had been overlooked by the coroner she told with added detail.

Mrs. Roy is twenty-seven years of age, and she still possesses the striking beauty which captivated Paris when she was studying there to be a singer six or seven years ago and which brought her into public notice in many ways. She first came into prominence when in the spring of 1903 Jorbert, the painter, exhibited a portrait of her in the Paris salon. At that time she lived with her aunt, the Baroness von Rrendorff, who was paying for her tuition as a singer. Later she went on the Parisian stage, and her beauty created a small sensation. She had many suitors for her hand, among them being, it is said, Count de Beynac, a member of the Fauboorg St. Germain set of Paris. The count followed her to this country in the fall of 1903, and their betrothal was announced. Nothing ever came of it, however, and two years ago she married Roy, who is the son of a well to do livery stable keeper in Paris.

Miss Calla, as she prefers to be known, is of the petite type with dark eyes and hair. Since the tragedy which occurred at her home at Newington, about four miles from Portsmouth, N. H., on Jan. 2 she has made her home with her cousin, Mr. Hodgdon, at the One Hundred and Thirty-first street house. The story of her domestic troubles, which culminated in the death of her brother, as she told it is as follows:

"I first met Mr. Roy when I was taking riding lessons in Paris two years ago. I was thrown much in contact with him, and it was a case of love at first sight. We went to Boston and were married there in the fall of 1905. My husband was very handsome, but he had a very irascible temper. Our married life was not happy from the beginning. His hot temper made it hard to get along with him, and it didn't improve when we went to live with my mother at Newington.

"My brother, George A. Carkins, of whom I was very fond, lived with us, and he and Mr. Roy quarreled constantly. They quarreled about the most trivial things. For instance, on the day of the tragedy my husband and I went out for an automobile ride. When we returned, we started to get ready to go to a party that night. Instead of a hat I threw a shawl over my head, and my husband remonstrated. He said I ought to wear a hat. We had a few words, and my brother took my part. The upshot of it was that I said I wouldn't go at all. Turning to my brother, my husband said, 'This is all your fault.'

"This took place in my bedroom. Later I and my brother went to the kitchen, and my husband followed. He had a revolver, and my brother pushed me out of the kitchen into another room. Then there were several shots, and my brother staggered through the door where I was, crying, 'I'm shot.' If my brother had a revolver with him, he drew it only in self defense.

"I rushed to another room and found my mother, who was living with us. My husband followed me. He still had the revolver in his hand. When the case was reported as a suicide, I interposed no objection. Shortly after my husband came to New York, and I have not seen him since. I stood it long enough, and then I determined to tell the truth, and I consulted my lawyer, and he told the authorities what had actually happened.

"When the body was exhumed, the bullet wounds were found in his back, and the truth of my story was apparent. I understand that my husband now says my brother was killed in a duel. That may be what the French call it. I see he has arrived in Paris. It will only be a matter of time before he is back here, and then I will take the stand and tell everything."

A Paris dispatch says that Roy, interviewed there, said he had intended to leave New York by a French line steamer, but changed his mind and booked aboard the Lusitania. He tried to telephone his wife regarding the change in his plans, but was unsuccessful. It was through spite of his precipitate departure, he asserted, that she denounced him.

He declared that he could state where all the bullets discharged from Carkins' pistol struck. The first, he said, after traversing his coat, lodged in the sideboard, two others struck the wall beside his head, the fourth went through the ceiling and the fifth smashed a wall paper near the floor. If the holes from the bullets were not there now, he said, they must have been filled up. He added that he had received no notification from the American police of any proceeding against him.

A person apparently fully acquainted with the facts states that Roy opposed his wife's going to the concert in question because he considered that she took too great an interest in one of the singers.

Mme. Marchesi, the famous vocal teacher, when the case was brought to her attention here, said that she remembered Glacia Calla coming to her for singing lessons ten years ago. "She wore extravagant costumes," said Mme. Marchesi, "and was always covered with jewels. She constantly pressed me to come to parties she gave at her mother's, but I refused."

MANY MARKED FOR DEATH.

Anarchists Said to Be Planning Murder of Priests.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—"A murder will be committed in Chicago within a month similar to the Denver assassination of the Rev. Father Leo Heinrichs, who was shot down while administering holy communion in St. Elizabeth's Roman Catholic church," asserted Chancellor E. M. Dunne of the Chicago archdiocese. "I am positive that anarchists, anticlericals or whatever they call themselves have prepared lists of priests and clergy to be killed, and I feel certain that some Chicago man has been marked. I am the most logical man for assassination next, and although I have thousands of friends in the Italian colony, I also have many bitter enemies."

Father Dunne said if he was not chosen to be murdered other victims might be either Archbishop Quigley, the Very Rev. F. S. Angellucci of the Church of the Assumption or the Rev. Father Francis Gordon, C. R., provincial of the Church of the Resurrection.

At Denver the police as the result of investigations following the murder of Father Leo Heinrichs have traced at least thirty anarchists to the anticlerical organization, which has planned wholesale assassinations throughout the country.

To Safeguard the Kongo.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The house of commons last night, after a short debate, adopted a resolution asking the government "to do all in its power to secure the transfer of the control of the Kongo Independent State and, failing such transfer within reasonable time, assuring the government of parliament's hearty support of any measures that it might be necessary for the British government to take, either alone or in conjunction with the powers that signed the Berlin act, to insure the effective carrying out of its provisions." Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, in a speech sympathizing with the terms of the resolution repudiated on behalf of the government any desire to establish political or territorial claims.

Hartje Conspiracy Case.

Welshons, his friend, and Clifford Hooe, a negro coachman, on charges of conspiracy and subornation of perjury growing out of Hartje's suit for divorce here Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje, defendant in the divorce suit, did not testify, and attorneys refuse to say whether she will be called. The session was devoted to testimony of detectives who shadowed the negro coachman on various trips, the last of which culminated in the arrest of Hooe.

Doings in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—There were two speeches in criticism of the pending currency bill in the senate. Senator Culberson of Texas criticised the measure and spoke in favor of amendments he deemed necessary to make it of service. Senator Nelson (Rep.) of Minnesota also denounced the measure as of no importance. The currency bill was on motion of Mr. Aldrich made the unfinished business of the senate. The bill to revise the criminal laws of the United States was passed.

Hetty Green Must Pay $5,727.

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Hetty Green by a decree of Judge Putnam of the United States circuit court must pay Sherman L. Mr. Whipple, who represented Mrs. Green in her litigation against the trustees of the estate of the late Sylvia Ann Howland of New Bedford, claimed $8,000 for professional services, but this Mrs. Green refused to pay, claiming that it was extortionate.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 27.—At the opening of the assembly here Governor Wilson, after denouncing the "rule of terror" in his message, pointed to the fact that the prosecuting officers have indicted but one man and convicted or punished none of the men guilty of these crimes and recommended an immediate appropriation of $25,000 to assist in prosecuting the "night riders."

TO LOOK FOR JEFFS.

Warship Yankton Starts on Cruise to Rescue Castaway on Desert Island.

CALLAO, Feb. 27.—An interesting task confronts Lieutenant W. R. Gherardi, commanding the Yankton, who is ordered to proceed Friday for the Galapagos Islands to search for Frederick Jeffs, the American seaman abandoned on the west coast of Indefatigable island last October.

Frederick Jeffs shipped as a seaman on the ship Alexandria at Newcastle, Australia, on Nov. 26, 1906. The ship was wrecked on the west coast of Indefatigable island, and when the survivors decided to go to the eastern side to signal passing vessels Jeffs was ill with pleurisy and refused to take the chances of the journey. His comrades left him plenty of water, and there were turtles to eat when his food ran out.

The Alexandria survivors were taken off by a Norwegian vessel, the captain of which refused to go after Jeffs, as the voyage was long and difficult. His comrades reported to Robert R. Jones, American vice consul at Guayaquil, Ecuador, and he informed the navy department.

Jeffs has a sister at South Norwalk, Conn., Mrs. Henry G. Claridge, who does not believe her brother is alive. He is twenty-nine years old, single, and his parents live at Victoria, B. C.

REBUFF FOR HUGHES

Albany Senate Decides Not to Remove Otto Kelsey.

GOVERNOR HAD RECOMMENDED IT.

Without Reading of Documents in Case and Without Discussion, Vote of 30 to 19 Settles Fate of Insurance Bureau Chief.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 27.—The senate voted not to remove State Superintendent of Insurance Otto Kelsey from office, as recommended by Governor Hughes.

The action of the senate in upholding Kelsey is the second rebuff to Governor Hughes and is a repetition of the stand taken last year.

The vote was taken just as the reading of documents in the case was about to begin. Senator Horace White of Syracuse moved that it be suspended, saying that it was unnecessary. Then without debate the senate proceeded to vote on the question of "Shall Otto Kelsey be removed from the office of state superintendent of insurance?"

The vote stood 30 against removal and 19 for removal. The vote was as follows:

Yeas—Agnew, Armstrong, Burr, Carpenter, Cobb, Cordts, Davis, Dunn, Emerson, Foelker, Gilchrist, Heacock, Hinman, Knapp, Page, Saxe, Travis (Rep.), Fuller and Taylor (Dem)—19.

Nays—Allds, Cassidy, Faucher, Fanchot, Gates, Grattan, Hill, Hooker, O'Neill, Raines, Smith, Tully, Wemple, White and Wilcox (Rep.), Ackroyd, Boyce, Cohalan, Cullen, Frawley, Grady, Harte, Hazenfing, McCarren, McManus, Mullaney, Owens, Ramsperger, Sohmer and Sullivan (Dem.)—30.

The result shows that five Republican senators forsook the governor, and he made no gains, for not one senator who voted to sustain Mr. Kelsey a year ago changed his position.

Kelsey got twenty-seven votes to retain him last year.

It was believed up to the last minute that Senators Foelker and Gilchrist of Brooklyn would vote to retain Mr. Kelsey, but in view of the fact that their votes were not needed State Chairman Woodruff's local organization was permitted to appear regular.

William Barnes, Jr., delivered two votes against Governor Hughes. Senators Grattan of Albany and Wemple of Schenectady, who voted last year with the governor. Senator Cassidy also changed his position from that of a year ago, as did Senator Gates of Madison. Senator O'Neill, who made a speech last year demanding the removal of Superintendent Kelsey, voted on the roll call to sustain the governor, but before the result was announced he changed from the affirmative to the negative. Senator Mullaney came in the chamber at this juncture, and Senator Grady asked that he vote. Mullaney asked what the question was and amid some laughter voted no, sustaining Kelsey. The clerk then announced the votes as being: Yeas, 19; nays, 30, thus ending the matter for the present.

Before many were aware of what was going on the vote had been taken. On motion of Senator Raines the result was not announced at once in order to permit Senators Thompson and Mullaney (Dem.) to be recorded.

Senator McCall (Tam.) was excused, but Senator Grady had a telegram from him saying that if he were here he would vote to retain Mr. Kelsey in office. The quick action was one of the most surprising turns of the affair. Not a word of debate was had.

Lieutenant Governor Chanler handed down the statement of Commissioner Fleming. The statement is self explanatory and simply reiterates the two broad charges that the superintendent failed to reorganize the insurance department and failed to enforce the insurance laws. It is vigorous in its attack on Kelsey and purports to riddle the superintendent's attitude.

When Governor Hughes returned to Albany he declined to make any comment on the action of the senate in refusing to concur in his recommendation for the removal of Superintendent Kelsey. Asked if he intended to take any future action, he said, "I have nothing to say." It is understood, however, that the governor is determined to adhere to his position, taken some time ago, that, having twice recommended the removal from office of Superintendent Kelsey, the responsibility for the disposition of his recommendation now rests with the senate.
