Medicine for sick People

It is a serious matter. We could never think lightly of PRESCRIPTION WORK, because we cannot forget how much for the sick person depends on the way in which we prepare the medicine. Hence we have come to regard prescription work as our most important duty. In this work we use the best drugs that we can get hold of, and we follow the doctor's directions exactly. Whenever medicine goes out of our prescription department we have the satisfaction of knowing that it is right.

We keep a full line of everything that a first class drug store ought to keep, and we sell it for less money than most other drug stores can afford to sell it. Our expenses are light, the volume of business is large, and we keep an eye ever open for the good new things of every kind. When you want something you can't find at other stores, drop in here. We have it. If you have a home remedy for something, bring the prescription here. We exercise the same care in filling home prescriptions as we do with doctor's prescriptions. And we charge just as little as it is possible to charge for pure, fresh drugs, carefully compounded. C. H. BUTLER, Pharmacist, 182 West First Street.
