FSDWAC chairman at workshop

Sandra J. Weston, President and Chairman of the Board of Directors FSDWAC for Environmental Concerns, Inc. recently attended a Workshop sponsored by the New York State Center for Hazardous Waste Management, State University of New York at Buffalo on Impediments to Implementation of Alternative Treatment Technologies which was held at the Thornfield Conference Center located in Cazenovia, N.Y. Mrs. Weston was assigned to the task group which discussed public concerns of the use of alternative technologies to remediate inactive hazardous waste sites. Areas of discussion included: public understanding and acceptance of alternative technologies, the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation's Public Participation Program, the NIMBY (Not In My Backyard) Syndrome, public concern of implementing new technologies to remediate inactive hazardous waste sites, and, public participation during the selection of remedial technologies.

As the public is calling for permanent remedial solution at inactive hazardous waste sites throughout the country the Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act of 1986 specifies that a preference be given to remedial remedies that permanently reduce the toxicity, volume or mobility of the hazardous substances found at these sites, and remedies that use alternative treatment technologies.

Mrs. Weston states that "sincerity of effort and public involvement at the earliest stages of the remedial process will help to ensure permanent and community acceptable remedial decisions."
