Rotary Looks For Exchange Student

Jan. 9 is the deadline for qualified juniors and sophomores at Bodley high school, to enter their names with guidance director Richard Kemmis for a year of study abroad, in the country of their choice, through the prestigious student exchange program of Rotary International.

The Fulton Rotary Club has the privilege of opening this opportunity to a Fulton girl or boy, junior or sophmore in high school, this year.

During his year of studies at a high school in his chosen home town in the other country, the student lives with the families of prominent Rotarians of that city, usually for about three months with one family then moving to another family. There are Rotary clubs in just about every city, large or small, throughout the free world.

Rotary International requires that the candidates for this particular foreign study opportunity rank in the upper third of his class scholastically and possess leadership qualities. The student's family takes care of his or her costs of traveling to and from the other country, his clothing and at least $100 cash for emergencies.

The Rotary committee to select and assist a candidate consists of Mr. Kemmis, Walter F. Mitchell, Henry Crouch and Robert Ingison.
