THE POLITICAL FIELD

The Patriot's Summary of Politics and Politicians—Compiled from Everywhere and for Everybody.

On Monday the question of submitting the woman suffrage amendment to the several states, came up in the United States senate and was defeated by a vote of 55 for and 29 against. This is the fourth time the question has met with defeat. Last October the vote was 63 for and 31 against. The Democratic party—the Solid South—voted against the resolution. Senator Calder of this state, voted and worked for the resolution, while Senator Wadsworth, whose wife is an officer in the anti-suffrage organization, voted and worked against the women.

The suffragists are disappointed, but will not give up the fight. They have started a new campaign. There will be several new members in the house of representatives after March 4th, and the women are campaigning to secure their votes.

There were 31 Republicans and 24 Democrats who voted for the resolution, while 10 Republicans and 19 Democrats opposed it.

The suffragists are determined to make the Democratic party accept full responsibility for Monday's defeat.

The woman suffragists of Albany have no time for U. S. Senator Wadsworth. He was listed as a speaker at the first annual luncheon of the Albany County Republican Workers' association, scheduled for this evening. Some of the women sent word to the management that unless Senator Wadsworth was removed from the list of speakers they would not attend. William Barnes, the Albany county Republican leader among the men, tried to admonish the women. He said, "The conferring of the privilege of voting (on the women) compels them in justice to themselves, to approach public matters, regardless of sex." The women immediately suggested to Leader Barnes that they had ideas of their own; they proposed to do their own thinking, without any instructions from Mr. Barnes.

While the supporters of President Wilson in the campaign preceding his second election shouted "He kept us out of war" until after election, they can now start another slogan, "He plunged us into debt." The only difference between the two is that the latter is the truth. Every day the department of justice is discovering something new in the line of extravagance and graft—mostly in the southern states. Its latest find is the Mussel Shoals nitrate plant in Alabama. It was to have cost $35,000,000; the actual cost was $65,000,000. It is reported that the exposures to date reach the large total of $8,000,000,000.

Congressman Mott was chosen a life member of the National Rivers and Harbors association at the final session of the congress Friday. He did not share in the same territory as friends from Central New York, however, as he was placed in the Great Lakes district with Senator Henry Hill of Buffalo.

The convention at its final session evaded the designation of a route for the lakes to the sea canal, but adopted a resolution indorsing such a project. The sentiment for an all-American route coming from New York state was too strong for the congress to take a stand against it.

In the first test of strength in the New York congressional delegation at Washington on Friday, Congressman Luther W. Mott was elected chairman of the delegation from this state without opposition. In the contest over the selection of doorkeeper the Mott forces won by a majority of two votes, with one of its members absent. The vote on the membership on the ways and means committee was delayed until this week. Congressmen Mott of Oswego, and Gould of Seneca Falls, are candidates.

The State Civil Service commission has adopted an amendment to its regulations whereby soldiers, sailors, marines and women engaged in the service will be given two credits for training and discipline in the examinations for positions under the civil service law. Wounded men will be admitted to examinations unless their injuries make it utterly impossible to fill the positions they seek.

Governor Smith on Monday evening sent a special message to the legislature in which he took up the question of cooperation with the Canadian authorities on the building of the improved Welland ship canal. The governor will present the question from the state's viewpoint in relation to the barge canal now operated and owned by this state.

Acting State Commissioner of Education Finegan states that a bill for vocational training to supplant military training, will be introduced in the state legislature this week. It takes in boys from 14 to 18 years of age. The new bill calls for from four to eight hours' training daily and military training will be used as an alternative.

Senator Frederick M. Davenport of Clinton, chairman of the special legislative tax commission to study and recommend revision of the tax laws, announces that Robert C. Cummings of the legislative bill drafting commission, and Lawrence A. Tanzer of New York, had been appointed counsel to the commission.

Governor Smith will be in Syracuse Saturday, Feb. 15th, and will take up state matters at a hearing in the common council chamber in the city hall. The governor will hear applications for pardons, and people who cannot go to Albany to discuss matters relating to the various departments, will be heard.

President Wilson announces that he will sail for home on Feb. 17th. It is not known whether he will return to France or not. There is no authority for the statement that Secretary of War Baker will go to Paris as a substitute for the president or the peace council.

THE WIETING, SYRACUSE.

William A. Brady, Ltd., will present "The Flaming Soul," a new play by Owen Davis and Charles Guernon, at the Wieting opera house for one week commencing Monday, Feb. 10. Described as a play of simple folk and primitive passions, "The Flaming Soul" is said to tell in gripping and engrossing fashion, the dramatic story of a strong man who pitted his strength against him who created him, and of what befell this man who defied his God.

The scenes are laid in a fishing village, and the characters are said to be as interesting as they are elemental in their mode of life and point of view.

Messrs. Davis and Guernon, the former one of the most successful of American playwrights, and the latter known to fame as a co-author of "The Eyes of Youth," are said to have written in "The Flaming Soul" a tenebrous dramatic story in which the element of suspense interest is admirably handled in a vitally interesting drama that has for its theme a proposition not usually approached in the theatre.

To interpret "The Flaming Soul," William A. Brady, Ltd., has engaged an admirable cast. Headed by House Peters, the famous motion picture star who has returned to the stage after an absence of six years, and Clara Joel, both players of exceptional achievement in emotional work, the cast includes Marie Goff, Saxon Kling, Blanche Friederich, T. J. McGrane, Grace Knell, Arthur Allen, Chauncey W. Keim and John Turner.

A meeting of the taxpayers was held at the town hall one day last week to make the various appropriations for highway improvement the coming season. Quite a sentiment developed in favor of additional moneys for this purpose, as some of the roads are in bad condition. Fifteen signed on the spot, and it is thought there will be little trouble experienced in securing the other ten.

Little Servants of the Home

These little electric servants work better if properly understood. To understand them is not difficult.

The electric coffee pot, toaster, grill, chafing dish and iron are so simple that the most efficient method of operation is self evident.

The vacuum cleaner and the washing machine—perhaps the two most important of the household group—require slightly more attention, but only that which one of intelligence can readily give.

Without obligation to purchase or use, we are glad to explain how they are made and how much time and effort they save—how they add to home efficiency, comfort and convenience.

MAYOR BABCOCK'S BOND PLAN.

Fultonians will remember Edward V. Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Babcock, who was raised on a farm in Volney and who went out into the business world and made his mark as a producer of lumber. Later he became mayor of the thriving and metropolitan city of Pittsburgh, Pa., and ever since he assumed the duties of his office he has been showing the people of that city that he believes in progress and push—the same as he had already demonstrated in his own business and which made him a winner.

In a copy of the Pittsburgh Post, recently received at this office, are the particulars of a bond plan Mayor Babcock has proposed to the common council and city of Pittsburgh. It calls for the expenditure of $14,000,000. The council will soon designate a date for the special election to issue the bonds.

The plan includes the purchase of property for a bathing beach, costing $260,000; city planning and improvements; the purchase of the million-dollar exposition buildings, to be converted into a railroad terminal; enlargement of the 18th regiment armory, and for a large amount of highway, sewer and water construction.

Mayor Babcock tells the people that now is the time to do this work as labor is plentiful and the needs of the city are such that it must be had to accommodate the greatly increased business and residential portions.

Pittsburgh is a live, wide-awake city and has a live-wire for mayor.

The local draft board has received orders to close its office on Saturday. Of the 6,000 registrants in this district, only one willful defaulter is recorded. He was from the town of Hannibal, and was employed on Hearst's Chicago American.
