WHEN GAS WAS NEW.

A playbill of the Covent Garden theatre, London, dated 1817, carries the following announcement: "The proprietors respectfully inform the public that an entirely new method of lighting the theatre has been adopted, effected by a magnificent chandelier, which from the center of the ceiling diffuses a soft and brilliant light around, without obstructing the view of a single spectator. In its effect the body of light is equal to 200 lamps, and the heat is directly carried off through a tube communicating with the open air."

The light, which was not mentioned by name, was gas, and the Covent Garden theatre was among the first public buildings to use it.

John Clark, arrested on a charge of abandoning his wife and five children, refused to accept leniency of County Judge Francis D. Calkin if he would go back to his wife and family after a six-month term, and was sentenced to serve a year and a half in Auburn prison. Clark's wife pleaded with the judge not to send her husband to prison. When Clark was asked if he was willing to make a home and support his family he answered "No," so he will serve his term. Clark has been receiving compensation since 1917 for the loss of a leg and he had turned on Wednesday to turn over the check he received for $150 to his wife and family, but after receiving his sentence did not do so. It is understood the wife and family are in a tight strait.

FULTON DEBATERS WIN BOTH ABROAD AND HOME DEBATES

Resolved, That the United States Should Cancel the Loans Made to the Allied Countries During the World War." That was the question submitted for debate on Monday night between debating teams of the Utica Free academy and the Fulton High school, and the Fulton students won both sides of the question.

One section of the debate was held at Utica, Robert Smith, East, Osborne, Arthur O'Grady, and Francis Marshall, accompanied by Principal L. H. Strough, making the journey to Utica to hostile territory and upholding the negative side of the argument, with the result that the Fulton team was awarded three straight votes over the Utica debaters.

The other section of the debate was held in Fulton, with the Fulton debaters affirming that the United States should cancel the war debts and here, as in Utica, the Fultonians were awarded the verdict by three straight votes, the joint debate thus being won by the Fulton boys by a unanimous vote of 6 to 0. The debaters of the affirmative Fulton team, debating in this city, were Raymond Conroy, William Merton and Clinton Trambly.

At the Utica debate no vote was taken by the judges with reference to the best speaker. At the Fulton end, however, the judges were divided on this matter, each of them choosing a different speaker upon whom to confer the honor of best speaker, one vote falling to the lot of William Merton of the Fulton team, while one vote each went to Gilo Lee and Harold Long of the Utica team.

WILL VOTE IN MAY TWO SCHOOL TYPES TO BE CONSIDERED

As the result of a discussion of a proposed new building at a special meeting of the school board at Minetto last week, taxpayers of Minetto will have an opportunity to vote on two plans for a new school at the annual meeting in May.

The state department of education has not prepared a preliminary addition to the present school building, the people were told by H. S. Sears, inspector of buildings and grounds attached to the state department, who was present at the deliberation of the school board. A temporary addition to the annex—the Acad house, recently purchased—would be allowed to take care of the present congestion for a time, Mr. Sears said, but he declared the state department would insist that Minetto people work for a new building.

A serious fire hazard, it being the present building, he declared, combined with the expense and that of wooden construction.

Plans for a one-story building to house 60 to 70 pupils, prepared some time ago by Arthur Collins, architect of the Columbus Mills, Inc., to cost $30,000, were shown, but many of those present favored a two-story type, to which additional could be made for future needs.

A one-story type would cost, it is estimated, $60,000. Collins will prepare plans for such a structure and both designs will be submitted to the taxpayers at the May meeting.

School Commissioner Warren S. Gardner declared Minetto deserved a suitable school building. Pupils are doing splendid work, he said, reporting that 105 out of 115 papers written at the January yegants' examination were accepted at Albany. There are now 150 pupils registered at the school.

BOY SCOUTS

(Associated for National Council of the Boy Scouts of America)

A BIT OF THE SCOUT SPIRIT

A bit of the Scout spirit, an appreciative opinion and his letter to the national office are the basis of the following account.

"At the third annual Northeastern Iowa Boy Scout exposition there were several scouts lined up in the contest of 'Fire by Friction.' The scouts were all in position awaiting the word 'go' when the judges discovered that the scout representing Waterloo, Ia., was disqualified because he had peeped shavings, instead of natural material as required by regulations. Three scouts, Waterloo, Waverly and Cedar Falls, were all crowding close to first place at this point in the exposition, and valuable prizes were at stake.

"There was nothing for the judges to do but to rule out the scout from Waterloo and this was about to be done. Allen Brown of Troop 1, Cedar Falls, Ia., was next to the Waterloo lad, and seeing his predicament, Scout Brown said: 'If it is satisfactory to the judges, I will gladly share my tinder with the scout from Waterloo.' The judges agreed that this would be satisfactory and the scout from Waterloo was thereby enabled to enter the contest, and he won it.

"The more I thought of this," continued the writer, "the more it dawned on me that Scout Brown from Cedar Falls was the greatest victor in the contest. He was upstart of himself and would not take advantage of a fellow scout, even though it might mean his losing.

"For the sake of this good old U. S. A. may we have more real scouts for the men of tomorrow."

SCOUTS AID SINKING SHIP

"When the S. S. Lenape, carrying 247 passengers, recently foundered on a bar near Jacksonville, the tug Three Friends of that city promptly prepared to render assistance. Its captain requested a local scoutmaster to supply him with two good signalers. Scouts Eugene Ellis and Charles Harling of Troop No. 25, who had been actively engaged in amateur practice in semaphore, were dispatched to aid in the emergency. The boys spent three days on duty doing their part in accordance with scout principles "to help other people at all times."

SCIENTIST, SCOUTS' FRIEND

Luther Burbank, California's plant wizard, regards the improvement of mankind as a greater work than the improvement of plant species. "I hope that the same law, as far as practicable, which I have discovered and demonstrated in plant life, will be applied to the improvement of human life," he states. Although hampered in important experiments, Burbank finds time for boy scout affairs in his home town of Santa Rosa, California. His interest in the scout movement for the improvement of the growing boy, a thoughtful tribute to the work of the organization.

SCOUT TRAINING HELPS

Schools throughout the country have long realized the educational value of scout training. The University of Texas in further recognition of this asset has announced that all boys who have attained Eagle rank, the highest rank in the ladder of scouting, will be exempted from matriculation fee at the school. William E. Joor, Jr., member of the Dallas (Texas) troop, this fall entered the university free.

SCOUTS TO HONOR HEROES

To honor scouts of Kansas will fall the honor of planting seeds on the floral highway that are being established in Kansas to the memory of soldiers who laid down their lives in the Spanish-American war. The memorial highways will be lined on each side with flowers of a great variety of sizes and colors. The scouts will take packages of seed with them on every hike and plant them along the roadides. Patrols will be organized to respect them when necessary.
