

A Thrilling Adventure With a Lion.

The Page county monster has at last been captured, as will be seen from the following correspondence to the St. Joseph (Mo.) Gazette, of the 4th instant:

"The most exciting chase that, perhaps, has ever occurred in North Missouri occurred on Tuesday, March 1, in this vicinity. The people are aware that the community have been terribly harassed and excited over the depredations of the animal known as the Page county monster. I now propose furnishing your readers with the particulars of the chase and destruction of this animal.

The people getting tired of his depredations, it was resolved to meet at Easton for the purpose of summarily disposing of the audacious animal. Therefore, on the morning in question, quite a collection of citizens gathered at Easton to devise the best means to accomplish this end. Among the Assembly there were several noted hunters. After a short consultation, it was unanimously agreed upon to select Mr. Lloyd Moxly, an old and experienced hunter, to lead the chase. Mr. Moxly selected as his assistant Mr. Henry Holman, who, although young in years, is old in experience.

After furnishing ourselves with plenty of necessary articles, we started on the pursuit, headed by our distinguished leader. Taking a south-westerly direction, we soon arrived in the vicinity of the animal's last depredations. It was not long before our hounds, of which there were about twenty, struck the animal's trail, not far from Platte river. The hounds followed the trail at a rapid pace, we following in close pursuit on horseback, until we got into the heavily timbered bottom of the river, we were obliged to leave our horses and follow on foot.

Away we went, scrambling over logs and underbrush, with our indomitable leader still at the head. As we could not make very rapid progress on foot, our hounds soon left us, but we followed on, guided by the sound of their loud barking. After some time we were convinced that the dogs had brought the beast to a stand. We kept on stumbling over bushes for about half an hour, every minute drawing nearer the dogs, until we at last came up to them, when, sure enough, we discovered the object of our search backed up against the trunk of a large tree and dealing death among our poor dogs. He had already killed some five or six of our best dogs and crippled several more.

The dogs were getting afraid to approach him, but we encouraged them, in order to induce him to keep his stand, when our rifles and shot-guns were brought into play with various success. Several shots took effect on the animal, and several more on the dogs. The monster was in a terrible rage, his eyes fairly flashing fire; woe to the unwary dog that came within his reach. Mr. Holman liked to have been killed by venturing too near the animal, which made a furious bound at him, just grazing him and tearing off his coat; but a well-directed shot from the famous rifle of our leader, Mr. Moxly, at this moment, stopped the animal's career.

The animal in question, which has created so much consternation through the northwestern part of this State, and part of Iowa, is pronounced, by men who know, to be a California lion. It is about seven to eight feet long, about three and a half high, and massively built, its shoulders being very heavy and mane long. He had enormous teeth, which he could use to terrible effect. It is supposed the skin will be stuffed and sent to some museum. The citizens of this community should feel particularly grateful to the following gentlemen for their efforts in capturing the monster. The gentlemen in question are Messrs. Moxly, Holman, Middleton, Vaughan, Wm. Allen, Garden and others. Messrs. Garden and Allen are old hunters, and keep a large pack of hounds. They lost several of their fine dogs in the encounter.

PHIL SHERIDAN ON HAND-SHAKING.—The hand-shaking torture to which distinguished men are subjected in this country seems to have impressed itself very vividly on the feelings of the gallant Phil. Sheridan, who recently expressed himself as follows on the subject:

"I have done a good deal of that—and so much that I have reduced it to a science. I have the quick shake and the slow shake, the strong shake and the weak shake. There is the vigorous and nervous, the bold and the timid. And I can tell a man as he comes up what he is going to do to me. I feel myself instinctively at times preparing for a tremendous attack and shake and squeeze. I generally let my arm hang limp, giving the labor to the crowd; but when I see the enemy approaching I seize him at once, and turn his flank by a squeeze in advance."

Romance of the Treasury Bureau.

A romance has lately occurred in Washington, which will soon conclude in a marriage at Brooklyn. A lady, whose husband at one time was Minister to China, was left a widow some two or three years ago, with children to support, and a painfully small income with which to do it. Some friends advised her to apply for a clerkship in the Treasury, which she did, and obtained it, and has since faithfully discharged her duties. She is a lady of superior education and intelligence and remarkable beauty. A gentleman, meeting her there and thinking her meant for better things than $700 per annum, wrote to a friend in Connecticut who is a millionaire, described the lady, and invited him to Washington to meet her. He came, and has reason to thank his friend for the invitation, since the lady has now resigned her position in the Treasury and gone to Brooklyn to prepare for her marriage. Two hundred thousand dollars, it is said, has already been settled upon her.

We trust the above will not induce all the good-looking girls to go to Washington for clerkship.

SKETCH OF SENATOR REVELS.—Hiram R. Revels is a very light mulatto, fully three-fourths white, yet with distinctive African features, the lower part of the face vigorous without being heavy. He has short, grizzled hair, which, if permitted to grow, would certainly be kinky, while his brown beard, slightly gray, might pass for a white man's. His face has a business expression, rather commercial than clerical. He has a decidedly Caucasian nose, straight, prominent, but not flat. The most Ethiopian feature which he possesses is his mouth. This is usually shut close and firm, so that the lips are not very prominent. He has an amiable expression, is not presuming, and seems to wish sincerely, as the pioneer of his race, to make a good impression. He dresses plainly and tastefully in black, without other ornament than a chain tipped with gold, and uses a plain pair of eye-glasses. He is in the prime of life, 47 years of age, heavy set, weighing about 180 pounds.

Nothing lately, shows more clearly how eager the public mind is for a sensation than the absurd rumor that Louis Napoleon is dead, and another person is personating him, while the Empress is reigning as Regent in fact. Of course, every one who reads such ridiculous statements, which are passed off as news, feels the same sort of contempt for their truth, as he does when it is related to him, the legend that William Tell is sleeping in some of the fastnesses of the Alps to awake when the liberties of Switzerland are invaded, or the similar story in relation to Charles XII, of Sweden, or when he reads Archbishop Whately's famous tract proving that no such person as the original Bonaparte ever existed. It is because the human mind is so constituted that it loves such mysteries and queer things, that history becomes one jumble of falsehoods and mis-statements, and historical records hardly worthy consideration or belief.

THE INCOME TAX LAW DEAD.—A misapprehension exists in the public mind in relation to the income tax, and petitions are being sent to Washington for the repeal of the law. The fact is that the Income Tax law expired by limitation on the 31 day of December, 1869. The Tax now being assessed is for the year 1869. The repeal of the old law is final and unconditional. It takes effect as soon as the tax for 1869 is paid. A bill passed the House a few days ago, providing for the assessment and collection of an income tax for one year only, [1870], but it met with disastrous defeat in the Senate.

FEDDING CHEAPER THAN SHOOTING.—The Secretary of the Interior expresses a wise and humane, not to say Christian opinion, when he says it would be cheaper to feed during their natural lives all the adult Indians we are now over-running, and await the growth of their children brought up to agriculture, than carry on a general war with them for a year in their own fierce and exterminating manner. It does not well become a great nation, which has done so much to liberate the African race in this country, to tyrannize over the remnant of the red men—the aborigines of this continent.

TIT FOR TAT.—The young ladies of a certain little village near by having formed a society pledging themselves not to kiss any man who used tobacco in any form; and the young men, not to be outdone in the effort for a return to the real beauty of life, have formed a society pledging themselves not to look at any young woman who wears false hair. Of course this will break up both unpleasant habits.

The crusade against Free Masonry is becoming a special feature of Spanish vindictiveness in Cuba. A numerous band have already been executed for their connection with the order, and fifty-seven others, arrested in their lodge, are detained in prison at Havana awaiting an uncertain fate.
