The Great Wardrobe,

UTICA.

It is with unqualified pleasure we give our testimony in addition to that given below by the Utica Daily Observer and Utica Morning Herald to the excellence and reliability of

KINGSLEY'S GREAT WARDROBE.

We would simply add that when our readers can find a

Square Dealing House

so highly approved and recommended, it is the height of folly to run around among strange and untried houses in the hope of doing better.

By all means go direct to the GREAT WARDROBE.

The Morning Herald says:

We clip the following notice from the Daily Observer and heartily indorse every word of it:

We could conscientiously add much more, but the GREAT WARDROBE, after a successful business career of over thirty years, does not need any puffing. Its immense and constantly increasing trade is the best recommendation.

A well known gentleman spent a short time yesterday in examining the mammoth stock of

CLOTHING

At Kingsley's Great Wardrobe

and confessed to a genuine surprise. The proprietor appreciating the stringency in the money market, has reduced the price of everything in his stock.

Just such Overcoats as he sold last winter for $24 he is now offering at $17, and Business Suits at $18, well worth $25.

Among the more desirable bargains we notice:

Polar Overcoats at $12.00.
Fine Whitney Overcoats at $12.00
Black Beaver " " 17.00
Brown " " " 17.00
Blue " " " 17.00
All marked down $3.00 each.
Heavy Beaver Overcoats at $10, worth $19.
Arctic Overcoats at $8, worth $10
Heavy Black Overcoats at $8, worth $12.
Business Suits at $9, worth $12.

Other notable features were the excellence of the Goods, the elegance of the styles and the superiority of the manufacture.

Anybody in need of Clothing cannot afford to overlook Kingsley's Great Wardrobe.

We are pleased to inform the public that we have a Branch of the Great Wardrobe at 84 Genesee street, Auburn,

where the same bargains may be secured. dec20tf

Largest Daily Circulation in City & County

The Italian Children and Civil Rights.

Of late there has been considerable discussion and agitation, chiefly in New York, over the little Italian boys and girls who are made to go about the streets of our cities, playing on harps and fiddles and singing for money, or stealing when they can not get money honestly. Investigation has developed the fact that there is a regularly organized system, by which these children are obtained from Italy and brought to this country, where they are held in service by the "padrones," who live and grow rich off the labors of these little wanderers. Some times the children are brought to this country with the consent of their parents, and sometimes not; but in either case the children are half-fed, half-clothed, and otherwise ill-used in various ways. Their knowledge of vocal and instrumental music, such as it is, is literally beaten into them, and they are taught to steal, rather than return at night without a certain sum of money, by the fact that any deficiency below a fixed point in their daily receipts is marked by a flogging, by even less than their usual scanty supply of food, and by other kinds of abuse and cruelty. In short, these little people are slaves in every sense of the word.

As yet nothing practical in the way of legislation has been done to relieve the condition of these children; but now Senator Sumner has made a move in this direction by adding a provision in their behalf to his Civil Rights bill, which he is seeking to get through Congress. However people may differ as to the features of that bill which refer to the colored race, all will favor this clause of Mr. Sumner's bill. It is to be hoped that, in this or some other way, legislation may be secured which shall break up this traffic in Italian children.

Important Railroad Consolidation.

A report is in circulation, said to be well authenticated, to the effect that the New York and Erie Railway company has effected a lease of the Atlantic and Great Western, the Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati, and the Canada Southern railroad lines. The arrangement contemplates the immediate narrowing of the tracks of the Erie and Atlantic and Great Western roads, making a through narrow guage road between New York city, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, and other competing points west. Thirty millions are to be placed at the disposal of the Erie Board with which to carry out the programme of the parties interested. The consolidation of these lines has been in contemplation for sometime past, and if it has really been effected, it is one of the most important events that has lately transpired in the history of railroads in the United States.

A Pertinent Query.

Gov. Dix, in his message, declares it to be "a reproach to our criminal jurisprudence, that there are hundreds of malefactors in our State prisons undergoing sentences for stealing sums under $50, while there are others at large who have by fraudulent contrivances for their own benefit sacrificed the property of confiding shareholders and depositors, many of whom are women and children, to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars, and are living in luxury on the proceeds of these enormous larcenies."

People generally will agree with the Governor. A case in point is that of Storrs, the recent defaulting treasurer of the Concord (N. H.) Savings Bank. He stole from $50,000 to 70,000, yet he has not been arrested, but walks the streets unmolested by the officers of the law. The Concord Monitor very pertinently says of the case:

"How long could a robber of a henroost be left in peace in any community after his depredations were known? What is there about stealing from a bank that makes such a mighty difference that no one suggests any punishment for a bank thief? We are sick of such canting sentimentality, and believe that widows, orphans, servant-girls and mechanics have some rights which should be respected. Why should they be robbed with impunity and the guilty go unpunished? Let us get down to the hard pan of common honesty and call stealing by its old Saxon name."

From the New York Times.

A Swindle Exposed.

During March last year several complaints were made to Mr. Anthony F. Comstock, Special Agent for the Postoffice, against a gang of swindlers known under the designation, "J. Wright & Co.," who pretended to keep a store at No. 609 Broadway, for the sale of Geneva watches, but who in reality were swindling hundreds of persons in a most systematic and original manner. Mr. Comstock, on ascertaining these facts, at once proceeded to investigate the modus operandi of the gang, and as the United States mail seemed to be the chief channel of communication between the sharpers and their dupes, he soon ascertained that J. Wright & Co. were daily receiving from 100 to 150 letters, and that these, instead of being delivered at No. 609 Broadway, as addressed, were received by one William Robinson, at No. 599 Broadway, who had power of attorney from J. Wright & Co. to receive all letters addressed to them.

The bait used to catch unsuspecting victims was a circular stating that, by a special arrangement, as the agents of the Geneva Watch Company, they are enabled to sell the watches manufactured by the company at the remarkably low price of $4. All remittances were to be sent by draft. Postoffice money order, or in registered letters, and addressed to "J. Wright & Co., Jewelers, No. 609 Broadway, or No. 18 Bond street." The person answering this circular with money would invariably receive in return a lithograph letter stating that the order was received, and that the name of the person was placed on the list, but that at present the firm was not prepared to fill the order. That would be the last the recipient would hear of his money or S. Wright & Co. If a chain were ordered (the price of which was $1,) a lithograph letter number two was sent acknowledging receipt, but stating that, as the firm did not sell the chain without a watch, it would be well to send them $4 additional, and both would be sent at shortest notice.

In the event of the dupe biting again, he would receive in return lithograph letter numbered one, but no watch or chain. All the letters addressed to the swindlers were received from the letter-carrier of Station A by Robinson, at No. 599 Broadway, where a small boy was daily employed, besides several other spotters outside, on the watch for detectives. After receiving the letters Robinson would immediately give them into the custody of the boy, so that in case of being surprised, they would not be found on his person; accompanied by the boy, he would then proceed to the basement No. 49 Amity street, the boy keeping some distance behind.—Here the letters were received by J. Wright. After ferreting out all the foregoing facts relative to the workings of the gang, Mr. Comstock had Robinson arrested by Deputy Marshals Crowley and Robinson, and the premises, No. 49 Amity street, seized, an order in the meantime having been given by the Postmaster to deliver no more registered letters to J. Wright & Co. When Robinson was arrested the Deputy Marshals found in the basement thousands of the circulars, inclosed in stamped envelopes, ready for mailing. J. Wright, who has not yet been arrested, is known to be a floor-walker in the Broadway dollar store. Robinson was bailed on January 2, in $5,000, to answer the charge of taking letters out of the postoffice under false pretenses. If any more letters are taken out by the gang, more arrests can be effected on the same charge. These swindlers are believed to have received from their dupes throughout the country an average of nearly $2,000 per month by the means described.

—A hen stopped a train on a Pennsylvania railroad, her body striking the trigger that put on the air brakes, but she will never stop another.

—Heroism is limited after all. A girl, who the other day jumped into the Merrimack river and rescued a drowning child, fainted away when she saw her false curls floating down the stream.

THE HEALING WATERS.

The record of the Birch Dale Medicinal Springs, since their discovery in 1866, proves that in cases of Consumption and all pulmonary diseases, six out of ten have been cured, and that in Scrofula, Dropsy, Bright's Disease and all Kidney diseases, they have proved equally successful. Any of the following eminent physicians will cheerfully answer inquiries in regard to these wonderful waters: Prof. A. B. Crosby Bellevue Hospital Medical College; E. W. Lambert, M. D., Equitable Life Assurance Society; C. L. Lozier, M. D., 361 West 34th Street; Dr. Wilbur, Medical Examiner of N. J. Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Dr. W. E. Rice, 108 Broadway—all in New York City.
