Two Democrats Seated.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Two more contested election cases were decided by the House committee on elections to-day. They were the cases of Hill, (Rep.) against Catchings, (Dem.) from the Third Missouri district, and Kernaghan (Rep.) against Hooker, (Dem.) from the Seventh Missouri district. In each case the committee decided in favor of the Democrat contestants. The case of Goodrich against Bullock, from the Second Florida district, was discussed by the committee, but the action on it was postponed for a week. The Republican members of the committee seemed to be in favor of seating Mr. Goodrich. Representative Lacy was directed by the committee to notify Representative Breckenridge of Arkansas; and his attorney, ex-Attorney General Garland, to appear before the committee on Tuesday next, to make final argument in the case of Clayton against Breckenridge.

THE DADDY OF THE BASS.

W. C. Crosman's Great Luck in Owasco Lake.

William C. Crosman, the jeweler, made one of the best catches of the season at the lake last evening. During a few hours angling, he pulled in a beautiful black bass, one of the finest that ever left the waters of the Owasco. The fish tipped the beam when caught at 4 pounds 4 ounces. It was on exhibition at Carr's gun shop in State street this morning and afterward in the window of Knobles & Welton. It was generally admired by pedestrians passing that way.

Funeral of Arthur J. Murray.

The funeral of Arthur J. Murray took place from the residence of his parents, 27 Van Anden street, this morning, at 9 o'clock and from St. Mary's church at 9:30. It was largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Father Dougherty read a requiem high mass and pronounced the final absolution. A large number of the young friends of the deceased were present at the funeral. The floral tributes were beautiful in design and workmanship. They were made up principally of roses and white lillies. Among the designs was a broken column with the words "Our Friend" in purple immortelles, from Edward Kearney and James McLoughlin; an anchor and cross in one design was from George W. Simmons, a beautiful crescent from Frank J. Chapman and D. F. O'Hara, a cross from Mrs. Hervieux, a design in lillies from Mr. and Mrs. James Deering of Mechanic street and cut flowers from James Bruce and others. The following young friends of the deceased acted as bearers: Edward Kearney, James Mc Laughlin, Frank J. Chapman, John Lane, James Shaugnessey and Peter Regan. The remains were laid in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery.

To Aid Mrs. Ditton.

A meeting of representatives of Seward and Crocker Posts, the U. V. U., the Exempt Fireman's Association, the fire department and the Harness Makers' Union was held in Seward Post rooms last night, to arrange for the raising of a fund for assisting the family of the late Thomas Ditton. It is the intention of the promoters of the plan to raise a sufficient sum to pay the mortgage on Mr. Ditton's house, No. 139 East Genesee, amounting to over $800. A committee, consisting of Major R. J. Myers, president; E. J. Jewhurst, treasurer; C. L. Hickok, secretary, and J. Hall Pearson and W. E. Webster was appointed to perfect plans for raising the money. Mr. Ditton's affairs were found on his death to be in a complicated condition and the undertaking of his friends is a worthy one and should succeed.

No Truth In It.

The city was somewhat excited this afternoon by the reported drowning in the Owasco of an excise commissioner. One rumor had it that it was Commissioner George P. Newell had gone under the waves while another was equally positive that the corpus defunctus was that of Commissioner George F. Wills. Neither report was true. Both commissioners are still on deck and far from fish bait.

Mrs. Dr. Willard Stricken.

Mrs. Jane F. Willard, widow of the late Dr. Sylvester Willard, was stricken with an attack of appoplexy at her home No. 203 Genesee street, about midnight, and now lies in a comatose condition. There is little hope of her recovery. Mrs. Dr. Jenkins is the attending physician.

THE CONNOR-WEIR FIGHT.

It Will Take Place at Buffalo To-Night—J. L. Sullivan Expected.

BUFFALO, July 8.—The Weir-Connor fight to-night, before the Erie county athletic club is the great topic in sporting circles here, to-day. Both men are in prime condition. They weighed in at the Buffalo Athletic club at 9:30 o'clock, last night. Weir weighed 120 pounds, two under the limit. Connor, who had eaten a hearty supper, weighed 123 pounds, or one over the limit. He got on the running track and, as he had an hour to spare soon got himself down to the necessary 122 pounds. A hard fought contest is looked for. Weir's well known ability gives him something of an advantage, but Connor has been working steadily at his training and is as fit as he can be made. Weir is inclined to underrate his antagonist. He believes he has a sure thing and, it is said on this account has not put in the hard work in his training usual for a battle such as this one is expected to be. Connor is equally confident but has not made the mistake of underestimating his opponent. He has felt all along that he will have his hands full and has done some hard work putting himself in the finest condition. He said to-day: "Weir thinks I am not in it, but I'll try my best to convince him that I am not such a snap as he thinks." Mike Quinn of New York and George Brintner of Buffalo will second Connor. Weir is expecting the great Sullivan to be present as one of his seconds and Tommy Warren will be the other. Sullivan was expected here last night to attend the opening of Alderman Jack Davy's new saloon, and a great crowd of sports assembled to do him honor, but he did not appear. He was to have come by the 12:15 a. m. train, and when it arrived without him it was announced he would be here on the 4:30 a. m. train. Up to noon to-day, however, the champion slugger has not made his appearance. The club rooms where the fight will take place, accommodate 1,200 people, and already every ticket has been disposed of. A large number of out of town sports will be here from New York and Boston, and from the cities nearer home. The fight will begin at 9:30 o'clock sharp. The referee selected is W. V. Sullivan of the Erie county club. There has not been much betting done so far, but those made show Weir to be slightly in the lead.

TEACHERS AT SARATOGA.

Miss Ella Richardson of Auburn, Recognized by the Convention.

SARATOGA, July 8.—The State Teachers' Association was called to order at 9:45 a. m. President Gunnison announced the following standing committees: Finance—E. N. Jones, Saratoga; L. C. Foster, Ithaca; J. M. Milne, Oneonta Necrology—C. W. Bardeen, Syracuse; J. M. Milne, Geneseo; John T. Serviss, Amsterdam; Grace B. Latimer, Oneonta; Abbie Osborne, Saratoga. Resolutions—Wm. L. Felter, Brooklyn; Arthur Kneeland, Batavia; Charles Verrill, Franklin; Mrs. Frances Funston, Brooklyn; Ella Richardson, Auburn. Nominations—A. G. Slocum, Corning; L. G. Williams, Ithaca; F. G. Cheney, Kingston; J. Kimball, Amsterdam; H. C. Litchfield, New York; J. H. Horen, New York; M. M. Horton, Bainbridge. The next thing in order was the paper by Nicholas Murray Butler, Phd. of Columbia college upon "the duty of the university to the teaching profession." In the discussion which followed Frank Scappen, principal of the State Normal school at New Paltz, presented his views with signal ability, for the Normal school stand point, taking the broad ground that among the agencies thus far devised the normal school training stands preeminent in its aims to make successful teachers. Francis J. Cheney, principal of the Kingston academy, advanced many interesting propositions from the point of view of the academy, claiming that in the common school and the academy the foundations of a stable goverment are laid, and that the time has gone by when it was necessary to apologize for the existence of training schools. Prof. Cheney's paper was, in the main, a powerful and convincing plea in behalf of a greater popular interest in the district school. In the general discussion which followed various interesting queeries were propounded and answered, bearing directly upon the necessity for greater attention to the primary and district school ground work of a nineteenth century education. The afternoon's session was devoted to the hearing of a paper by Hon. William A. Post, civil service commissioner, on the question "Is special training in the schools for the political duties of citizenship practicable?"

At the American Institute meeting this morning, President Seth Low, of Columbia college, made an address of welcome to the members. Mr. G. C. Fisher, superintendent of schools of Weymouth, Mass., then addressed the institute on "Women in Education." A general discussion followed. President G. Stanley Hall, of Clark University, made an address on "A Plea for Studying European Systems of Education." General discussion on the subject was opened by Prof. C. C. Rounds, State Normal school, Plymouth, N. H. Adjourned till evening.

Is It a Hoax?

BUFFALO, July 8.—A tin canister was picked up yesterday on Squaw Island in the Niagara river, containing a dirty piece of paper on which was written in pencil the following: March 80, 1890. We stuck an awful squall. All on board are lost. I am on a raft and can't hold on much longer. Any one that finds this slip please notify my folks. Good-by. [illegible]owers, Duncan, Mich. It is believed to be a hoax.

Curious Signature of Columbus.

Of the sixty odd millions of people in the United States all except an insignificant portion of the "odds" have heard or read the wonderful story of Columbus and his discoveries. It is doubtful, however, if sixty odd thousand of this vast aggregation ever saw a copy of the curious signature used by the discoverer of the Americas. In his will the great Christopher says: "My heirs shall sign only with an S with an X under it, and an M with a Roman A over it, and over than are S and a great Y with an S over it; with its lines and points—as is my custom—he shall only write 'The Admiral,' whatever title the king may have conferred upon him."

The usual form of this signature, with "its lines and points" as mentioned in the will, was as follows:

S.
S. A .S.
X M Y
Xpo FERENS—El Amirante

Why the periods were used at the sides of the Ss and not before and following the other letters has been the subject of much discussion. The initials in a straight line are "S. S. A. S. X. M. Y." which Professor Becher, recalling the fact that it was to Isabella or Ysabella that Columbus owed his chances of carrying out his plans, reads them as: "Servidor Sus Altezza Sacras Jesus Maria Isabel." Which would be about as follows if translated into good United States English: "The servant of their sacred highnesses Jesus Mary and Isabel." The last line Professor Dewitt translates as "Christ Bearing (Christopher) the Admiral."—St. Louis Republic.

A Memory from the Plains.

I saw a girlish looking woman holding her husband's arm as both stood enjoying the gorgeous spectacle on the platform in the Madison Square garden the other night. I could not help conjecturing what a flood of memories would have risen to her mind had some one rushed into the amphitheatre and shouted the single word "Injuns!" The couple were an army officer and his wife, and, though you may not all know it, that means that more than once he has been pledged to shoot her at an instant's notice.

It is the rule—the humane law—on our plains that when the savages are on the warpath and a husband and wife are traveling in their country the husband shall kill the wife the moment it becomes evident that she must otherwise fall into the hands of the redskins. Terrible as it is to think of slaying your wife (and only fancy what noble women those wives out there must be) no man would hesitate if he knew that by doing so he could save her from indignities that make death at once a trifle and a joy.

Fancy the situation—if you can put yourself in such a place. As you ride through the wilderness, perhaps with a guard of cavalry or only as part of a wagon train, the declaration of war comes with a rattle of rifle shots from some rocks or grove ahead. Every spur is pressed home, every horse leaps forward, every gun is seen to, and—your wife reins in beside you and says: "Now, remember! I rely on you."

After that one would imagine a ballet in New York would seem quite tame.—Chatter.

The Old Adam.

It is told of a good old fashioned parson in one of the hill towns of western Massachusetts that he gave the following advice to his son, who was about to come to New York to begin a business career: "My son, of course it is always wicked to fight, and as a Christian minister I must warn you against it. But at the same time if you should ever find yourself in a fight—mind, I say, find yourself in a fight, with no way out—always see that the right man is whipped." "But, father," replied the lad, "how shall I know who is the right man?" "The other man, of course," said the old gentleman. "In every crisis of life something must be taken for granted, and in a fight you must always assume that the other fellow deserves to be thrashed." This advice, similar in spirit to that given by Shakespeare, indicates that there may be a good deal of unregenerate human nature even in a quiet country parson.—New York Tribune.

A Conductor's Hard Life.

A street car conductor of a calculating turn of mind said the other day that during ten years of service on the Fourth avenue line he had been poked with parasols and umbrellas about 75,000 times. It is a woman's way to poke the conductor in the ribs with her parasol when she wants the car stopped. This particular conductor estimated that he had averaged about twenty pokes a day for every day of actual service.—New York Times.

A Bit of the Middle Ages.

A curious survival of the Middle Ages was put into practice at Guernsey to stop the public auction of household goods which was disapproved of by the eldest son of the family. The formula uttered by the son is as follows: "Haro! Haro! Haro! A l'aide, mon Prince. On me fait tort!" The sale ceased instantly, and the matter will now come before the royal courts in due course.—Notes and Queries.

When Merchants Have Money.

Salesman—I suppose you will allow me to sell Broke, Upp & Co.?

Principal—I'm somewhat afraid of their credit, Mr. Valise.

Salesman—But you know they failed about a year ago and settled at ten cents.

Principal—Is that so? They must have money. Sell them all you can.—Jewelers' Circular.

Little Falls Cheese Market.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., July 8.

The quantity of cheese sold yesterday was nearly 2,000 boxes less than last week while the prices remain about the same. The demand for home trade cheese is light. The stock is sold off very close and if the present policy is pursued there will be no surplus of summer stock to interfere with the fall made cheese. Transactions: Eleven lots at 7⅞c: 54 lots, 7½c; 4 lots, 7¾c; 4 lots, private trade: 11 lots, commission. Total, 8,884 boxes.

The sales of farm dairy cheese amount to 1,000 boxes, and the prices are 7@7½c, with the bulk at 7½c.

BUTTER—Thirty-five packages of creamery butter sold at 15c and 14 packages of dairy butter at 15@15c.

Utica Cheese Market.
