HIS TWENTY-SEVENTH.

Anniversary of the Election of Right Rev. B. J. McQuaid to the Bishopric.

Yesterday was the twenty-seventh anniversary of the elevation to the bishopric of the diocese of Rochester of Right Rev. Bernard J. McQuaid, Pontifical mass was celebrated at the cathedral at Rochester yesterday morning and the bishop came to Auburn yesterday afternoon to confer with Rev. J. J. Hickey, pastor of the Holy Family church, regarding the affairs of St. Joseph's cemetery association, of which Bishop McQuaid is president.

Bishop McQuaid was born in New York in 1833. He finished his classical course in 1849. For three years he was a tutor at St. John's college in Fordham, N. Y., but left when the Jesuits took charge of the institution. He then studied theology under the Lazarists in New York, and later under the Jesuits. He was ordained priest in 1849 by Archbishop Hughes. On July 12, 1863, he was consecrated first bishop of Rochester. His energy and zeal in advancing the interests of the diocese have given him a reputation throughout the country and even on the other side of the Atlantic. Under his direction churches, asylums and schools have been built in such numbers that there are but few dioceses in the country so generously provided with such institutions. He has from the time of his consecration as bishop interested himself in building parochial schools. He introduced the Sisters of St. Joseph into the diocese, and the order now numbers over 200 members. He has under his care about 23 school houses and orphan asylums. He founded St. Andrew's preparatory seminary and St. Bernard's Theological seminary. He is perhaps best known throughout the country for the part he has taken in the agitation for religious schools. On this subject he has written and lectured extensively. It is mainly through his efforts in this country and at Rome that the old policy of the church in regard to education has been revived and carried out in this country. He is known as an opponent of State education for children whose parents are able to pay for their education. He was a member of the Vatican council in 1869 and 1870. He has been a frequent contributor to the North American Review and other leading periodicals. The Catholic population of the bishop's diocese, which includes the counties of Monroe, Wayne, Livingston, Ontario, Seneca, Cayuga, Yates and Tompkins, is over 80,000.

Mrs. Mason's Will.
 In Surrogate's court this morning in the matter of the will of the late Elizabeth Kellie Sisson, deceased, of Auburn, petition for proof of will filed. Testimony of witnesses to will taken and admitted to probate. Letters testamentary issued to Hannah S. Kellie, daughter of deceased. The will disposes of an estate valued at about $5,000, of which $500 is personal property and $4,500 is real estate. Hannah Sisson Kellie is the sole legatee. Hannah S. Kellie is the sole executrix named in the will. The instrument was executed June 13, 1891.

PITY THE BABIES.
 They Suffer More from Heat Than Adults.
 Digestion, Sleep, Strength, Quickly Impaired.

Food Must Nourish But Not Burden System.

Lactated Food Expressly Prepared to This End.

Made under Personal Care of Eminent Prof. Boynton.

It is the plague of summer that it makes babies fretful, sleepless, capricious in appetite and exposed to diarrhoeal disorders whenever their strength is suffered to decline.

It is the father's, the mother's, the physician's care to provide a diet capable of abundantly nourishing, and one that can by no possibility bring contagion with it.

It is not enough to merely select a pure nourishing food. It must be acceptable to the delicate, weakened stomach of the little one. It must be taken in sufficient quantities and with relief to keep the child strong, well and growing.

With all these requirements in mind lactated food is prepared. Under the advice of the professor in the medical department of the Vermont university, more especially that of Prof. A. P. Grinnell, dean of the university, and Dr. S. M. Roberts, professor of diseases of children, and under the investigation and direct supervision of Prof. C. S. Boynton, the manufacture of lactated food was begun. It has saved thousands of babies' lives and enabled thousands more to grow up strong and big and blessed with sturdy constitutions.

The use of lactated food does away with any anxiety regarding cholera infantum. Lactated food is as pure as mountain air. It agrees with children's stomachs even when they are made sensitive by summer heat.

A host of mothers have to thank lactated food for the joy of seeing their drooping, silent, white faced little ones turn to bright eyed, charming babies, that can stand and sleep and grow in a way to delight any mother's heart. Great numbers of such mothers have written that nothing else would agree with their children but lactated food.

A trial of less than two weeks will tell its own story in baby's weight, eyes, cheeks and spirits. Nursing mothers find lactated food just adapted to their peculiar needs. It nourishes both mother and child. And this is what one would expect from a knowledge of its rich, blood making ingredients, using pure milk sugar as a basis, because it is also the basis of mother's milk; there is added the richest gluten flour of wheat and other cereals. These are subjected to high steam heat under pressure, and while in constant motion and perfectly cooked the extract of the finest malt barley is added, making this a partially digested food that is easily assimilated by the feeblest stomach.

Invalids and aged persons find lactated food the most grateful to their weak stomachs of any nutriment they can take.

A short time since there appeared in this column a brief outline sketch of the past history of our society of the First M. E. church. At this time please allow me to make a few statements, particularly regarding the present management of the society, in connection with the things for which we are thankful. We are thankful for the cooperation of a devoted pastor, for a capable and painstaking president, for an executive committee, who are willing in counsel and earnestly desirous of promoting the best interests of the society, for an increase in membership and in attendance of the weekly meetings and also for an increased interest in all departments of our work.

But we are most humbly thankful to our Heavenly father for the development within the past eight months, of a deeper and fuller spiritual life among the membership of our society, which has found expression in increased activity in the meetings and a readiness to enter the open doors of usefulness and occupy the field for "Christ and the church." Not otherwise interested, had perhaps a Sabbath evening come with us for "the best of all is God is with us."

James Bevis, the delegate sent from the First M. E. society to the C. E. convention, left for Boston Tuesday morning accompanied by William Denman. They will visit New York city on their way home.

AGAINST ALDRIDGE.
JUDGE HERRICK'S DECISION IN THE McCLELLAN SALARY CASE.

The Judge Holds That the Appointments Were in Violation of the Constitution of the State and Therefore Denied the Application for a Mandamus—His Statement—The Question of the Several Cases—Judge Herrick's Appointments—The Case Will Be Appealed.

ALBANY, July 13.—Judge Herrick of the Special Term of the Supreme court handed down a most important and far reaching decision this morning in the case of McClellan, a collector of canal statistics of Albany, against the Comptroller to obtain a mandamus compelling the Comptroller to pay him salary due. McClellan was one of the 20 men who were appointed by Superintendent of Public Works Aldridge, and whose appointments, not being made under Civil Service rules, were declared illegal by the Civil Service commission. The Comptroller refused to pay the salaries and McClellan sued.

The decision in the case was eagerly looked for because several other constitutional officers' appointments are involved.

Judge Herrick at noon to-day denied the application for a mandamus on the ground that the appointments were in violation of the statutes and the constitution.

Judge Herrick said that, acting under constitution and the statutes, the Governor, on April 1, 1895, acted and determined to classify the employees of the department of public works and prisons. Such a classification was made under Civil Service rules and the result was that examinations were made and for the particular services named, canal statistic collector, there were 25 eligible names.

Judge Herrick says it follows that the Superintendent of Public Works should have made his appointment of clerks to the collector of canal statistics from the eligible list just referred to, that the appointment of relator was in violation of the constitution and of the Civil Service rules of the State and that his application for a mandamus must be denied.

The case will be appealed, but as it stands it is a victory for the Civil Service commission.

Funeral of Fred E. Hornbeck.
 The funeral of the late Fred E. Hornbeck took place from the family residence, No. 38 Jefferson street, yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. The funeral was in charge of Rev. John Brainerd, D. D., rector of St. Peter's church. He was assisted by Rev. Willis J. Beecher, D. D., of the Theological seminary. Rev. R. M. Turner, pastor of A. M. E. Zion church, read the committal service at the grave. The Auburn African Republican club, of which the deceased was a prominent member, attended and sent a beautiful floral design. Daniel Ajar, a token of sympathy. Burial was in North street cemetery and the remains were borne to their final resting place by bearers from the club, an escort from which preceded the funeral procession to the grave, bearing the American flag draped in mourning. A number of beautiful floral designs covered the casket.
