CORRUPT BOSSES WORK FOR RYAN.

Frank Declaration by a Democratic Newspaper.

The Democratic New York World, that is desperately, but evidently hopelessly, endeavoring to support the candidacy of Mr. Chanler in the contest for the governorship, printed the following frank and undoubtedly sincere editorial on the date of Sept 28.

The Murphy-Conners state platform denounces "governing by commissions" as "a system never contemplated by the constitution." Governor Hughes showed in his speech of acceptance that the constitution itself provides for three commissions, that six commissions were created under the administration of Governor Cleveland and that half a dozen others were created under the administration of Governor Hill, who also recommended a gas commission and brought about a working revision of the act providing for a railroad commission.

Governor Hughes might have gone further and shown that the present public service commission law was passed unanimously by the assembly and that only six Democrats voted against it in the senate.

What New York needs is even a stronger public service law than the one on the statute books and a more aggressive public service commission than that of the First district. Instead of going too far in controlling public service corporations through commissions, Governor Hughes' administration has not gone far enough.

The Rochester denunciation of government by commission is a Murphy-Conners fraud concocted in the financial interest of Thomas F. Ryan. If the law were repealed Ryan would proceed to loot the traction system again as soon as the lines passed out of the receivers' hands. Opposition to necessary state commissions represents no Democratic principle whatever. In this case it is neither more nor less than the effort of a crew of corrupt bosses to prostitute the Democratic party for the benefit of Thomas F. Ryan's pocketbook.

What Will Mr. Chanler Do?

Not a word of adverse criticism has been said of Mr. Chanler personally by either his Republican opponents or Democratic adherents. But this is being said on all sides: "Mr. Chanler is urged by Democratic newspapers to repudiate the Rochester platform. He could not, however, repudiate the record written by his party in the state. He could not repudiate or make his repudiation good against the rule of Murphy and Conners, to whose favor he owes his nomination. He could not be a good governor without ceasing to be a Democrat."

REPUBLICANS NEED MONEY.

Expenses Heavy, and Appeal Is Made to Individuals.

The Republican state committee has been charged with the burden of meeting the expenses of the campaign in New York state, which all agree will be one of the pivotal states, if not the deciding one, in this national election.

The legitimate expenses of the campaign are necessarily very heavy. To prosecute the campaign along the usual lines, to say nothing of any special features, involves a tremendous outlay.

Among other expenses will be the trips of Governor Hughes through the state, as he addresses the voters in so many counties. The expenses for postage if a single letter were sent to each voter in this state would be more than $30,000. The renting of halls and the transportation of campaign speakers involve a further expenditure of thousands of dollars.

To meet these expenses the Republican state committee appeals to all who are interested in the election of Taft and Hughes for assistance.

Under the law corporations may not legally contribute. Consequently the state committee must rely upon individuals who are patriotic and believe that the welfare of the country and the state would be best served by the election of Taft and Hughes for funds with which to make the campaign.

Popular reports are that the race track interests and others who are opposed to the reforms effected by Governor Hughes will contribute largely to the funds of the Democratic national and state committees. It is a time when all good citizens who are able to contribute to the slightest should do so. Even the smallest amounts will be welcome and will help the work for Taft and Hughes.

Checks should be made payable to George J. Smith, treasurer, and sent to him at Republican state headquarters, 43 West Thirty-ninth street, New York city. A personal acknowledgment will be sent to each subscriber by the treasurer of the state committee.

"Fingy" Conners' View.

"Fingy" Conners, who announces that he will be the next United States senator from this state "if" the Democrats win, expressed his contempt for the people in the following interview with the New York reporters the other day: "Party principles! Tush! Make the people think you are going to win. What do they care about platforms or principles? They want to be on the winnin' side."

CHANLER'S BETRAYAL.

Hearst's Candidate Accuses Democratic Nominee of Selling Out.

Clarence Shearn, the Hearst candidate for governor of New York, charges his political patron's former running mate, Mr. Chanler, with having sold his political birthright to the Democratic bosses. In his speech at Cooper Union the other night Mr. Shearn, in speaking of the Democratic nominee, said:

"There is just one thing that he has done that stands out in the public mind. That act was turning his back on his friends and betraying the principles of the party of his adoption, when, for the tempting prize of governorship, as Mr. Hearst has said, he sold his political birthright to Conners and Murphy.

"A man who would betray his party to gain a nomination is not the kind of man who would refuse to betray the people for further personal advantage.

"Who will be the potent forces in his administration if he wins? For him to be nominated required the consent of three men, and only three. Conners, Murphy and McCarren—Conners, a vulgar fathead, according to McCarren; McCarren, a red light man, according to Murphy, and Murphy, a contemptible liar, according to McCarren."

Hughes or Tammany?

Governor Hughes was renominated by the people.

Lieutenant Governor Chanler was nominated for governor by Bosses Conners and Murphy.

If Hughes is re-elected Hughes will be governor.

If Chanler is elected Tammany will be governor.

Take your choice.—Schoharie Standard.

"Fingy" Conners in the United States senate would be a sight for gods and men and little fishes. But he says he is "goin' there" if the Democrats win this state election.

A COURSE OF OX.

Try It as an Antidote For the Ills of the Strenuous Life.

In the choice of motor power allow me to suggest the ox. The horse leans forward to pull and even helps himself along by bobbing his head. He jerks a load out of a hard place by plunging bodily against the collar, stopping and lunging again. He strains through a hard place and then starts suddenly forward at his release. He works himself into a lather, and you, if you are the right kind of person, cannot help feeling for him and assisting him with inward stress and strain.

The ox does not bob a horn. He simply journeys, and the load goes along. When he comes to a tough place his pasterns do not bend down, he does not squat to pull, he does not pinch along on the toes of his shoes, he seldom blows, and he does not know how to sweat. He does not exert himself at a patch of woven soil and then hurry up when he is past it. The chain becomes stiffer, and the yoke sits solider to his neck, and that is all. There is no sign of effort. The earth may grit its teeth and crunch as it swallows the plow, but the ox stalls on his way. With the share deep or shallow or lifted entirely and hanging from the axle, whether he is plowing earth or air, it makes no difference to him. His most ponderous task is still himself, and he heeds no incidentals.

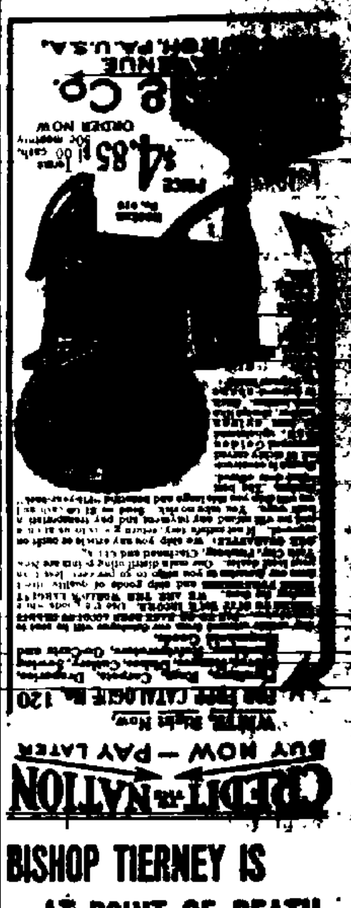
He is out for a stroll. He does not allow work to interfere with the even tenor of his way. His tendons are rigged to his outstanding rump bones like so much spar and tackle, and he goes along by interior leverage. Inside his old woman bulk is the necessary engine work, and he will neither go slower for this thing nor faster for that. There is much about him besides his disposition that is self contained. He is the antithesis of the automobile. To ride on his back is a cure for indigestion; to ride behind him is a rest for the mind. A course of ox is an antidote for the ills of the times.—Charles D. Stewart in Atlantic.

How to Clean Gold Ornaments.

Gold ornaments unadorned with gems should be washed in warm soapsuds. Gold link chains may be cleaned by placing them in a bottle half full of warm soapsuds mixed with a little prepared chalk. Leave for a few hours and shake. Pour the lather off, and rinse the chain in clean, cold water and dry it thoroughly.

How to Keep Boiled Ham.

Ham that is boiled in a bag and kept in it will remain moist and tender to the last slice. The greasy bag excludes the air.



BISHOP TIERNEY IS AT POINT OF DEATH.

Apoplexy Afflicts the Head of Hartford Diocese.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 5.—The Right Rev. Michael Tierney, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Hartford, lies at the point of death, having suffered a stroke of apoplexy.

The last sacrament was administered to the bishop by the Rev. Father Thomas S. Duggan, rector of St. Joseph's Catholic church, and the vicar general of the diocese, Right Rev. John Synnott.

Early today it was announced that the bishop's condition was such that his death was expected at any minute.

THE TELEPHONE ON THE FARM

What an Important Part it Plays in the Rural Districts

IN CASE OF FIRE the neighbors can be quickly aroused by telephone, and their assistance secured.

IN SUDDEN ILLNESS the doctor can be called and information obtained as to what can be done temporarily, to alleviate pain, or even prolong life until he arrives.

IF THE COWS GET IN THE CORN, or the pigs in the clover, or a horse gets cast, with only the women at home, the telephone will usually bring a willing neighbor to prevent loss of property.

WHEN TRAMPS COME TO THE DOOR while the men folks are all out in the fields, the presence of the telephone will give the women courage, protect them from harm and summon help.

WHEN PRODUCTS ARE FOR SALE, if the farmer is expecting prices to rise or fall, he can call the nearest market town, and can sell or buy to the best advantage at the right moment, without uncertainty or loss of his time.

THE TELEPHONE PAYS FOR ITSELF by just such economy of time, energy, horse flesh, and wear and tear of harness and wagons; while the neighborly feeling and protection it gives your household is itself worth its entire cost.

IF THE FARMER IS IN TOWN and should unexpectedly be detained, how convenient to ring up his house and tell the anxious wife the cause of his delay; also to learn how things are at home.

DURING THE LONG WINTER EVENINGS, when it is difficult to go out and see the neighbors, the telephone will keep them informed of all that is going on and will help greatly to make the time pass pleasantly. By annihilating distance, the telephone destroys the loneliness of country life.

WHAT A COMFORT AND SAVING OF TIME to be able to go to the telephone and call up your friend, ask questions, deliver a message, or place the orders, instead of stopping the work for the best part of the afternoon—taking off a horse that ought to be earning money—and driving miles—perhaps over muddy, frozen or snowbound roads.
