Personals.

Uri Clark will move to his summer cottage late in the week.

Jesse Stevens has bought a lot next to Elias Treman's and will build shortly.

General Blood and family will leave for their summer residence down the lake late in the week.

Miss Jennie E. Root has gone to King's Ferry for a few days' visit among friends.

Messrs. Jackson and Bush both remove their families to their respective cottages, near Glenwood on the lake.

Allan Gray has bought a lot next to the Jackson and Bush lot, at Glenwood, and expects to build a cottage immediately.

J. S. Bishop, formerly a resident of Ithaca, has erected a fine marble monument on his lot, in East Lawn cemetery.

Ward Gregory left for Slaterville this afternoon. His physicians say he must remain there for at least three weeks.

The Rev. Mr. Randolph, formerly of Trumansburg, and who is well known in Ithaca, is taking advantage of his attendance upon the Episcopal convention by calling on his many friends.

Rufus Anderson, Cornell '73, who rowed the bow oar, while in the University, is spending a few days in town.

The Rev. Dr. Park, of Binghamton, is detained from the Episcopal Convention to-day on account of a funeral.

Professor Hewitt has bought the Fiske cottage on the campus, and is now having it fitted up for occupation in the fall.

At their own request Messrs. Thorp and Mead have been excused from appearing on the stage commencement day.

Quarters have been secured at the Clinton House for the Albany band which is to furnish the commencement music.

The trustees have not yet formally given their consent to the use of the armory for the ball next Tuesday evening.

The arrangements for class day are now nearly complete. There will be no admission tickets to the armory.

The annual Hill Banquet occurs Friday night in Professor Brun's room, White Hall.

Mr. C. E. A. Lima, of Rio Janeiro, Brazil, is enjoying a visit from a younger brother who has just come from home.

Together they will make a tour of the United States during the summer.

The brother brought with him two very handsome cases of insects which live in Brazil.

They have been on exhibition in Andrus & Church's windows for the past few days.

In one, the bugs are so artistically arranged in form and color as to represent the American eagle.

Mr. Lima has presented both cases to the University, and they will be kept in Professor Comstock's laboratory.

Shively, '84, chairman of the memorial committee, went to Syracuse yesterday with Professor Shackford.

Both were highly pleased with the work, and say there is no doubt but that everybody will be pleased.

The portrait will be life size and of about three-quarters length.

Police Notes. The trial of Carrie Bush is being held before Justice Hungerford to-day.

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

Abstracts From Bishop Huntington's Annual Address.

The Episcopal Convention began its sessions last evening with a prayer service after which it was called to order by the president who appointed a committee to receive the credentials of the delegates.

thankfully acknowledge. The presidents of the convocations and the clergy generally have cordially seconded these efforts.

We are certainly right in noting those aspects of our church life, which signify a loss of faith or of a spirit of sacrifice and a short-coming in christian duty—signs which issue a call of alarm to the whole body of believers to resist an incoming tide of destructive materialism.

And certainly we are not wrong in pointing out any plain marks of progress, provided this progress is in things spiritual and substantial, and not merely in outside appearances or in betterments brought along by a general aesthetic ambition or a vague public spirit of the times in which we live.

Growth in numbers is what we have become accustomed to expect. In the entire population of this diocese, as of the country at large, we cannot fail to see that our cause makes as steady and conspicuous numerical gain every year, to say the least, as any religious institution.

One of the fruits of zeal among us is an increased expenditure of thought and money on the repairing and adornment of church buildings, observable in almost all parts of the diocese.

Examples of it on a moderate scale are too many to be particularized, though these often imply as much praiseworthy effort on the part of the people as those of greater actual cost.

I have noticed too that this reverential care of the Lord's house is rightly shown in those parishes which have a use and symbolism most closely associated with the chief acts of worship and doctrines of the faith.

The most extensive and impressive engagement is that of the churches of St. Peter's, Auburn, soon to be completed, lending a heightened worshipfulness to the whole structure.

Much has been done to finish the interior of St. John's in the same city. Both of our churches in Elmira have been made more attractive within.

The same may be said of St. James' Parish, St. Peter's, Oriskany, which has been thoroughly refashioned, with good judgment, pleasant services of re-opening being held on the 6th of December.

Trinity chapel, Great Bend, has been restored after serious injuries received by a stormy wind.

A large and handsome chapel has been opened for the parish of Christ church, Oswego. The new chapel of St. Paul's, Syracuse, is already occupied and there is a fine promise in the plans of the church.

In common with the members of that parish I joined, last Christmas-day, in a service not without tender associations as being the last held in the old building, since demolished, precious to many of the living for its religious relations to all that is best in their lives and for its memorials of the departed.

This morning the Bishop delivered the remainder of his address which was quite lengthy. He first spoke of the marks of spiritual life and its increase in the church.

He also dwelt at length upon the inadequate support given to the clergy with an account of the clergymen's Retiring Fund Society.

The next topic which he discussed, was the intrusion of a secular spirit with objectionable modes of raising money for church support, and a sharp condemnation of the abuses in that direction.

A Wild Cat Loose.

About half-past nine this morning the large female wild-cat belonging to the University escaped from its cage on the campus.

About two weeks ago the cage in which this cat and its mate were kept and also the cage containing the "performing bear Jack" were moved from the "cat-house" to the enclosed space beneath the trees where they are usually kept in summer.

The task of feeding the animals is entrusted to Eddie Heffron of Eddy street. He has been employed for this and other purposes for about two months.

The cage in which the cats were kept has two compartments, one much smaller than the other. The floor of this small compartment is covered with a square tin pan about three inches deep in which sawdust is kept.

It is customary to remove the pan every morning through a slide in the bottom of the cage in order to change the sawdust. The opening has lately remained unclosed, so some have the cats became, and so short was the distance to the place where the saw dust is kept.

This morning at half-past nine Heffron went to feed the cats as usual. While he was gone the female cat which is the smaller, took it in her head to go out for a short walk, and when Heffron returned, in about three minutes, she had accomplished that purpose.

The opening was too small to allow her escort to accompany her.

Immediately an alarm was given and a vigorous search was instituted. A messenger was dispatched to the town to get hunters and dogs. Mr. E. O. Marsh and dog responded to the call and are now busily engaged in trying to run the renegade feline down.

At first it was supposed the cat had gone in the direction of the Fall Creek gorge, but the dog could not find any traces in that direction.

Marks were then found which showed that the cat had gone in a south-east direction. Traces were soon found near President White's house.

The grass is so wet however, that the scent could not be followed up. It has probably escaped to the country. To-night the attempt to capture it will be renewed.

Dr. Wilder offers a reward of five dollars for the return of the animal dead or alive.

Professor Gage in an interview this afternoon said that there was no danger of the cat attacking any person unless cornered.

They will run from human beings.

Quarterly meeting was held at the Methodist church last Sunday.

Wixom has this day received another invoice of Birds, consisting of Hart's Mountain Canaries, Bullfinches and Cardinal Grackles.

Ten Dollars Reward is offered by the R. C. Co. to any one who can give evidence as to who has tampered or does in the future mutilate any sign put up along the highways by the company.

Charles A. Bush, the well known hotel man is now the proprietor of this house, which has the reputation of being one of the best in Ithaca.
