

The whole matter as to the alleged difference between geological science and the Bible has at last been settled, and the world breathes more easily already. The Rev. Robert Hodgson, an English vicar who has lately taken the lecture platform, is the man who did it. He has discovered that the pre-Adamite remains are nothing more nor less than the fossil angels who inhabited the earth previous to the advent of man. The Norristown Herald thinks that the recently discovered jaw bone, which was two feet long must have belonged to a female angel—a plausible suggestion.

The New York World, under the management of the present editor and proprietors, has taken long strides toward becoming the ideal Democratic newspaper. During the past year it has been the recipient of a perfect shower of success financially and in every other legitimate way. Its telegraphic columns cover the whole field of the world's doings, and its editorials, though conservatively Democratic, are yet potent in the advocacy of the right, and fearless in denunciations of official knavery wherever found. That such a sheet should command the support of the Democratic and Independent voters is not at all strange.

PRESS OPINION OUTSIDE NEW YORK.

If personal or other jealousy shall prevent New York Democrats from giving unanimous support to Governor Cleveland at the Chicago convention—a thing which is hardly within the possibilities—he will yet have vastly more votes outside this state than any other of the candidates named. We have made a compilation of the opinions of our exchanges outside New York state; the result shows that the more influential of them, even in states having candidates of their own, are heartily in favor of the nomination of Governor Cleveland. Below are given the opinions of some of the more important exchanges outside this state:

The Philadelphia Times, (Ind.) says:

The Cleveland boom is growing. Now that the reform Governor is sure of New York, the other States are being presented to him on a platter as fast as conventions can be held.

The Indianapolis Journal (Rep.) puts it as follows:

As between Gov. Cleveland and Roswell P. Flower, there ought not to be much trouble in making a choice. The former has made an acceptable executive, outside of New York City, while his phenomenal majority of two years ago is another argument in his favor.

The Newark Journal pays this deserved tribute:

Grover Cleveland's private character is not only pure, it is above reproach. His administration has been as courageous in its methods as it has been stainless in its results. No one has thought to impute political narrowness to him. He has not pleased everybody, but if not, he has at least escaped the woe pronounced against those of whom all men speak well.

The Chicago Times thinks that the matter stands as follows:

Cleveland delegates in the Saratoga Convention and the adoption of the unit rule have been a blighting frost to several very promising presidential booms. The Democrats of the country are disposed to allow the state of New York to name the nominee, and at the present writing it seems it is to be none other than Grover Cleveland.

The Providence Journal (Rep.) thinks that it is pretty clear that the delegation of the state of New York to the Democratic National Convention will be a unit for Gov. Cleveland for the candidate for the Presidency, and that the Democratic party of the state of New York will heartily support him. In such case the attitude of the Independents is one for serious consideration. It is threatened that the Independent Republicans will, in case of the nomination of Gov. Cleveland for the Presidency, vote for him. Of course if the Democratic party in New York is united and not opposed by but reinforced from the ranks of the Republican party New York is lost to the Republicans.

The unanimity with which the southern press favors the popular Governor of New York is a suggestive fact. The following are indicative of the drift of opinion in the representative southern newspapers:

The Memphis Appeal says:

As a majority of the New York delegates are known to be for Cleveland for President, this practically commits the whole delegation to him, and will go very far to deciding the Chicago Convention in its choice of a nominee. Cleveland seems to be the coming man.

The Chronicle of Raleigh, N. C., thinks that Cleveland would surely be elected:

Mr. Cleveland would make a good president, would in all probability carry New York, and would be sure (if any such thing could be called sure) to be elected. His popularity has suddenly become very great.

Cleveland should be nominated by acclamation, says the Danville, Va., Times: We want reform: Cleveland is a reformer. We must carry New York; Cleveland carried it, and that, too, by nearly two hundred thousand majority. It seems to us that he ought to be nominated by acclamation.

That staunch Democratic standard bearer, the Atlanta Constitution, says:

The action of the New York Democratic convention will almost assuredly result in the nomination of Gov. Cleveland by the National Democracy at Chicago next month. The convention was characterized by its harmony, the Tammany element proving particularly agreeable. John Kelly is pacified and will contribute 75,000 votes towards making Cleveland the next President of the United States.

Sentiments of which the above afford a fair sample pervade the whole southern press, and seem to form a basis for the statement of the Charleston News, that, even if the New York delegation shall for local or other reasons, turn its back on Mr. Cleveland, this will be no reason for thrusting him aside. They who believe him the best as well as "the most available" candidate, should continue their work in his behalf. But the New York delegation to Chicago, and, better still, the New York Democracy and Independents in November, will give Governor Cleveland their heartiest support.

Why a Change is Necessary.

The Democratic journals of the country have frequently presented conclusive arguments demonstrating that a change in the partisan control of the national government would be for the best interests of the country. As often, Republican organs have replied that such a change would be a public calamity. It appears, however, that some of the leading independent Republican newspapers have changed their views on this subject, and some of their utterances are very significant. The New York Evening Post, expressing the views of independent Republicans, who are prepared and have for a long time been prepared to subordinate party preferences and prejudices to the serious object of securing good government, remarks:

In their view the issues of slavery and the war have been settled so effectually that the success of the Republican or of the Democratic party at the polls is immaterial, or at all events of trifling importance as compared with other public questions. They believe that the safety of the country does not depend upon one party—that is, upon the trivial majority which one party can muster over the other in a national election of enormous effort and by the expenditure of vast sums of money. They hold that if the country's safety hangs on so slender a thread as this, it is already lost or is not worth preserving. They refuse to believe that one-half, more or less, of the American people are bent upon destroying the Republic in which all their own interests are involved and centered, or that they could destroy it if they wanted to. They look upon our constitution and form of government as no rope of sand to be crumbled by the success of one party in one election. They conceive, on the other hand, that it was framed expressly for the free exercise of all the faculties and passions that inspire the minds and hearts of men; that it puts proper limitations upon party rage and party excesses, giving ample time for popular reflection, and furnishing, through the medium of frequent elections, abundant opportunity for the correction of abuses; and that it provides a remedy for every ill that can afflict a free people except the debasement of the people themselves. For this there is no remedy, but for everything else there exists, under our constitution, the sovereign remedy of the ballot, whose periodical return is a sufficient curb to restrain any party or faction from inflicting any irremediable harm upon the body politic. Entertaining such views as these, they are not merely willing to see a steady-going Democrat elected president in place of a dangerous and unprincipled Republican, but they will contribute their votes and influence to bring about that result with zeal and cheerfulness. They prefer to be a balance of power between existing parties rather than constitute a party by themselves.

Press Opinions.

Governor Cleveland will be presented to the national convention as the choice of the Democracy of the State of New York. The convention was harmonious. That it was so, was against all Republican hope and prediction. It is the principal thing to have satisfied the Democracy of the State. To have also satisfied the Republican Independents, and, as we believe, those other Independents that belong to no party, is a great thing for a State convention to have done.—Home Sentinel, (Dem.)

Gov. Cleveland is probably the most popular governor New York has ever had. He is likely to receive the endorsement of the New York Democratic State convention as its choice for president.—Ellenville Press, (Dem.)

The convention was harmonious and there has never been a more favorable after-convention sentiment than we find existing among Democrats to-day. New York will cast a solid vote for Cleveland in the national convention.—Amsterdam Sentinel, (Dem.)

How would Cleveland and Hoody do for a national ticket?—Holmes County Farmer. By nominating Cleveland the Democrats would have the opposition entirely on the defense. With Cleveland's record as an honest reform official he just exactly fits the present crisis in our political affairs. By placing Governor Hoody on the ticket, the Democrats would have a team comprised of two of the most efficient and capable officers in the union, and they would carry the banner of Democracy into the White house, glowing with such a triumph as it has not achieved since the days of Andrew Jackson.—Coeleton (Ohio) Standard.

If we have observed the elements of the past four years correctly, the great Empire State, on whose political stage Mr. Tilden was trained, has produced the man who, more than any other man now in public life, is fit to be his successor in the leadership of the Democratic party. To Grover Cleveland we can hopefully turn, as the statesman who will be steady and loyal to the course which Mr. Tilden marked out. Gov. Cleveland's career is a remarkable illustration of the necessity of the people of this country to turn to the Democracy, when they desire the removal of intolerable evils.—Montpelier (Vt.) Argus.

Echoes of Saratoga.

Ex-Mayor Cooper—The result of the convention is a victory for Cleveland.

Mr. Ed. Kearney—We have come home satisfied with what has been done. We shall work for the ticket nominated at Chicago, as faithfully as we ever worked.

Excise Commissioner William Mitchell—The flower boom seems to have contained more wind than steam. Its collapse was ludicrous after its vaunted strength.

New York Times—The Saratoga convention was managed with uncommon skill and prudence, and resulted in putting Tammany Hall under bonds to keep the peace.

Hubert O. Thompson—I am very well pleased with the result of the convention. We got all we sought. The result is a decided majority of the delegation for Cleveland.

Personal and Political.

Horace Greeley is editor of the Hedrick (Iowa) Enterprise.

Thomas A. Hendricks declines to be a candidate for Governor of Indiana.

The committee to notify Mr. Blaine of his nomination has arrived at Augusta, Me.

Ex-Governor Anson P. Morrill of Maine has just entered upon his 82d year.

Secretary Folger left Washington yesterday afternoon for a short visit to New York.

Ex-Governor and ex-Speaker N. P. Banks, if Waltham adopts a city charter, will become its first mayor.

Congressman Seth I. Milliken of Maine employs as his private secretary, his daughter, Miss Maud Milliken.

General B. F. Butler called at the White House yesterday, and had a short interview with the President.

Mr. Charles de Struve, Russian minister at Washington, and Baron and Baroness Rosen of Russia are in New York.

Dr. Daniel Uter, an aged physician of Starrucco, Wayne county, Pa., fell down a flight of stairs in his residence yesterday and was killed.

The Toronto, Ontario, Methodist Conference has passed a resolution offering a loving tribute to the memory of the late Bishop Simpson and mourning his loss.

Governor William E. Cameron of Virginia returned to Richmond on Thursday much improved in health by his month's sojourn at Old Point Comfort.

Mrs. Almira Lincoln Phelps, now 91, and still a teacher in Boston, has kept a diary for seventy-five years, and all Beacon Hill is in terror lest she may publish it.

The Secretary of the Treasury has appointed John B. Ramsay to be bank examiner for the district of Maryland and Delaware, vice Washington Adams, resigned.

It is said that it is Dr. William Grosvenor of Providence, R. I., who has offered to give $30,000 for the observatory at Brown University when the question of the site is settled.

Professor Fleming Jenkin of the British Society of Arts has got himself into a serious difficulty by coming for his alleged discovery of propulsion by electricity the word "telephage."

Kate Field has left Salt Lake City and is wending her way eastward leaping in cities along the route, mainly on Dickens, and reserving her Mormon experiences for her threatened sensational book.

Tom Brown, of Rugby, proceeding naturally as Tom Brown, of Oxford, promises to find immortality in the Tom Hughes scholarship in Oriol college, for the foundation of which nearly $10,000 already has been subscribed.

Judge William D. Kelley, "Father of the House of Representatives," bears the same relation to a young lady now at school in Zurich, Switzerland. He visited her last summer, and will sail again for the same purpose July 2.

Tompkins Co. Clerk's Office.

ITHACA, June 24, 1884.

Supreme Court, Fourth Department, Ulster. Day calendar of the General Term for Wednesday, June 25, 1884. General calendar, Nos. 2, 4, 12, 16, 38, 34, 36, 40, 46, 52, 51. On Motion calendar No. 16.

P. J. PARTENHEIMER, Clerk.

SEASON OF 1884.

Cayuga Lake Steamboats.

On and after Thursday, May 15th, 1884, the steamer FRONTENAC will leave Ithaca at 7 o'clock a. m., connecting at Cayuga with the train on the N. Y. C. & R. R., arriving at Syracuse at 12:10 noon. Returning, leaves Cayuga at 11:30 a. m., arriving at Ithaca at 3:30 p. m.

The FRONTENAC has been thoroughly repaired this season, and the steward's department will be in the charge of W. F. Hatch.

Cayuga Lake Transportation Company, Limited.

THE STEAMER C. F. NAGEL

during the past season, has been newly planked, with engine and boiler repaired, and put in

First-Class Order for the season of 1884, making her entirely safe, staunch, and the most commodious passenger yacht on the lake, and will commence on leaving her dock at the foot of Buffalo St., at 6:30 and 9 A. M., and 2 and 7 P. M. except on Sunday, when she will leave at 10 A. M. and 2 and 7 P. M.

MONDAY, JUNE 16th,

HENRY STEVENS, Captain.

A NEW LOT

OF THE

LATEST STYLES

OF

SUMMER HATS,

JUST RECEIVED AT

PHILLIP HARRIS',

24 EAST STATE STREET. 24

PARASOLS, NEW

AND ELEGANT STYLES.

JUST RECEIVED,

AT

HAWKINS, TODD & CO'S.

COMPLETE STOCK OF FURNITURE

AND

BOTTOM PRICES

AT

BOOL'S,

CULVER BLOCK, ITHACA, N. Y.

Midsummer Dress Goods.

India Linen, Dotted Swiss, Striped and Plain

Nainsooks, Lace Stripe and Plaid Victorias,

a full line of new Printed Lawns, Plain and Lace Buntings and Nuns Veiling

JUST RECEIVED.

LEVI KENNEY & CO.

THE ROCHESTER CLOTHING COMPANY,

has marked down every article in stock. Now is a grand opportunity to procure Spring, Summer or any light weight goods at prices lower than your clothing can purchase of jobbers.

ONE PRICE TO ALL AT 21 EAST STATE STREET.

FIRE!

FIRE!!

FIRE!!!

FIREWORKS!

ALTHOUGH OUR SALES IN

CARPETS!

Have far surpassed our expectations

Our Assortment is still Complete and we are able to-day to offer some of the

Choicest Patterns of the Season in all grades, at Extremely Low Prices.

MARSH & HALL.

24 EAST STATE STREET. 24