Jacobs Laid Up With Lumbago, After Hearing California Is Good for Only $100,000

by EDDIE BRIEFZ
New York, July 7.—(AP)—Lots of red faces around the town today. Broadway lost its shirt being on the American League.

Fourth of July must have been pretty tough on Mike Jacobs, who still is laid up with lumbago.

Maybe reports from the Far West that a Joe Louis-Max Baer bout in California wouldn't do much more than $100,000 had something to do with it.

They're tossing a big party in St. Louis tonight for J. Ed. Wray, who has been named editor of the Post-Dispatch there for 30 years.

This grand veteran of the sports world is celebrating his 65th birthday.

The minute the National Boxing Association named Tony Gato No. 1 heavyweight challenger, Tony struck a big snub across his bar reading "Bring on that big bum Louis." Wally Berger began clicking as soon as he left the Polo ground to join the Reds.

Texas basketball fans think Promoter Ned Irish will be making a mistake if he doesn't include the Texas Longhorns in his visiting list for Madison Square Garden next winter.

Couch Jack Gray can start an entire lineup of ex-John Tarleton boys, and John Tarleton, if you remember, is the school which won 84 in a row before biting the well-known duck last season.

The Nebraska State Baseball League is made up of cities from no less than three states. The guy with the broad grin is Coach Howard Kissell of Findlay College out in Ohio, and no wonder.

He lost only three men off his crack football team; his basketball squad comes back to the campus intact, and only one lad will be missing when the baseball team reports.

In other words, he is sitting pretty. Eugene Slaughter, who is going great guns for the Cardinals, has been made an honorary member of the Fire Department down in Roxboro, N. C., his home town.

Cincinnati is—and always was—a red-hot baseball town when the Reds are winning.

When the club galloped off with the hunting back in 1919, a rabid fan in Cynthiana, Ky., walked 16 miles every day to learn the score.

George Moeve, former Florida football star, will sit in for Jeff D. McCord as director of athletics at Emory University while McCord takes a year's leave of absence.

Healthy sign: The way the Illinois Boxing Commission sat down on Messrs. Kearne, Adameck, Trammell, Lavan, et al. Duke and Tennessee will resume their home-and-home football rivalry in 1940.

Note to Col. Alan Gould, Cincinnati: Keep your eye on a chap named Nelson of U. of Arizona in selecting this year's All-American.

He gained 35 yards against Oregon last fall and is set to go to town against Southern Methodist, Marquette and Santa Clara this year.

Ohioan student Joe Scott, Western Reserve University's one-man track team, will be the decathlon star of the next Olympic team.

His specialties are the pole vault and low hurdles, but he looks like a winner in almost any event.

They say if he went out there Western Reserve wouldn't have a track team.

Race Peps Up in International

By The Associated Press
The Newark Bears still are sporting a big lead in the International League but erratic play recently combined with the surges of the Buffalo Bisons and the Syracuse Chiefs, has begun to pep up the race.

The Bears have dropped eight of their last 15 games and, encouraged by the slump of the champions, the Bisons and Chiefs have started to move.

The runner-up Bisons have won eight of their last 10 games while the Chiefs, three games farther back, have lost but two of their last 13 starts.

These recent developments are having their effect on the turnstiles and bumper crowds turned out last night to see the Bears, Chiefs and Bisons perform.

A crowd of 11,800 in Syracuse saw the Chiefs make it four in a row over Baltimore by winning 5-4, and 8,000 home owners were out to watch the Bisons take a doubleheader from Toronto, 6-3 and 3-0.

There were 10,321 spectators in Roosevelt Stadium in Jersey City when the Little Giants stopped the Bears for the second straight day, 6-5.

In the fourth clash, the Rochester Red Wings secured a 4-1 triumph over the Montreal Royals.

Sammy Baugh pumped out a homer in the seventh inning with Sam Narron on base to drive in what proved to be the winning tally.

Ted Welgoss Breaks Par At Highland

Ted Welgoss, one of Auburn's youngest and best golfers, set a record for the many golfers of the city to shoot at when he went over the course of the Highland Country Club Wednesday in 70 strokes, two under par.

Welgoss has been playing great golf this season and it is expected he will really go places in some of the amateur tournaments which will be held this year in New York State.

REDS SPONSOR SYRACUSE TRIAL BASEBALL CAMP

The Reds' minor league clubs will conduct a baseball trial camp at Municipal Stadium, Syracuse, from July 11 through July 16 for players between the ages of 18 and 21.

The camp will be in charge of Frank Lane, supervisor of the Reds' farm clubs. He will be aided by Hank Severid, former major league catcher and more recently a scout for the Syracuse Chiefs, and Johnny Hadcock, last year manager of the Smith Falls, N. Y. team and now a scout for the Reds' farm organization.

Players must furnish their own uniforms, gloves and shoes, but the camp will supply bats and balls.

Players must pay their own expenses while in camp, but in the event that a player is found ready for a trial with a minor league club, both his transportation and expenses will be refunded.

Registration will be at Municipal Stadium at 9 a. m. on July 11.

Warm Welcome
Wheeling, Ill.—(AP)—A year ago three men robbed George Poppo, 71, of $5,000. When they came back eight months later, Poppo and his two sons routed them with a shotgun blast.

They have had their guns handy ever since. So when an automobile with several men drove into the yard, the Poppo opened fire. Luckily none of the shots hit the men. They were friends bearing a gift—a watchdog.

Third Straight Subway World Series Becomes More Than Possibility

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Save your nickels, folks. The possibility of a third straight subway World Series for little old New York is becoming somewhat less far-fetched than a trip to the moon in a rocket ship.

A month ago, such a suggestion would have resulted in general outbreaks of hilarity. On the basis of performances in the last couple weeks, it becomes a horse from a different garage.

Of course, neither the Giants nor the Yankees are a shoe-in for the current pennant chase. But with the National League sporting a 3½ game buge in their race and the Yanks finally clicking offensively and defensively, Bill Terry's troupe and Murderer's Row once again are definitely the teams to beat.

I will they were tied in the late innings of the second game of the July 4 doubleheader in Washington, the Yanks had an undereated run of nine straight. During that time, they had clubbed out 106 hits for 38 runs, 17 of them homers, and had allowed the enemy just 13 tallies. The string skyrocketed them from dangerously near fourth place to a tie for the top with Oscar Vitt's vitality Indians from Cleveland.

From here on in, the advantages are mostly with the Yanks. They have a long home stand coming up, while the Tribe heads eastward. And anyone who knows a ball from a strike realizes that, despite Mr. Vitt's regular injections of vim, vigor and vitality, the Indians still are just as apt as not to fall asleep once they leave the Cleveland city limits behind.

Witness, for instance, that doubleheader defeat in Detroit Monday, just after the Tribe had taken 11 of 15 starts at home.

On the National League side, meantime, the team that beats the Giants must be one that doesn't itself. Terrible Terry may not have the man-for-man class boasted by other clubs in the league, notably the "brnny" Chicago Cubs and the somnambulist Pirates of Pittsburgh. But he has his lads in there punching day after day, peaced by pitching power, and, as was the case against Brooklyn Monday ready to break out in a rash of base hits for no apparent reason.

Their closest rivals at the moment are the Pirates, and if the

Geneva Powerboat Races Have a Large Entry List

Geneva, July 7.—A record entry list today awaits the starter's gun in the 11th annual Geneva-on-Seneca Power Boat Regatta to be held Saturday and Sunday on Seneca Lake. At least 25,000 spectators are expected to witness the competition over the week-end.

This largest and oldest outboard meet in the east will determine the New York State outboard championship as well as the Finger Lakes championship. An innovation this year will be two heats for Class X outboards, which are expected to turn in speeds of more than 70 miles an hour in each of the 10 mile heats. The first heat will be Saturday afternoon and the second on Sunday for those new 100 H. P. motors.

The Geneva Class X races, the first of a championship series of three, the other races to be held in Boston, Mass., and Red Bank, N. J., A, B, C, and F classes will race on Seneca where Douglass C. Fonda of Orange, N. J., will defend possession of the Gov. Herbert H. Lehman gold trophy and the Finger Lakes championship.

Another regatta of outstanding note this year in the Finger Lakes Region will be the National Coney Championship sailing race on Skaneateles Lake the Friday after Labor Day. Winning boats in elimination races in many parts of the country will be brought to Skaneateles for the final championship test. Some boats will come from farther west than the Mississippi.

SCHMELING SAYS HE WANTS TO MEET FARR, THEN LOUIS

By ROBERT FREY
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1938 by United Press)
Aboard steamship Bremen en route to Germany, July 7.—(UP)—Max Schmeling, 33-year-old former heavyweight champion of the world, still dreamed of regaining the title today as he neared the friendly shores of home.

Schmeling, blasted from the foremost challenger's role in less than one round by the brown fists of Joe Louis June 22, will make a comeback if the broken transverse process in his spinal column knits strongly and his physical condition is approved by German doctors.

"Sure I expect to fight again," Schmeling said. "But it is not for me to say it is up to the doctors. If they are willing, so am I."

Surprisingly cheerful, with his body strapped and braced with long strips of adhesive tape, Maxie said if he were able to return to the ring any time soon, he would like to fight the Welshman, Tommy Farr, who holds the British empire title, in the United States this fall.

"Then, if I win," he said, "I want to fight Louis again. I knocked him out once, and he knocked me out the last time, so it is still not settled which of us is the better fighter."

Dropped up in bed, clad in blue-striped pajamas, and listening to swing music phonograph recordings, Schmeling repeated his tale of the "horrible pain" and paralysis that followed the kidney punch delivered by Louis.

"I couldn't move, I couldn't think," he said. "Some people believe my back was hurt when I fell, but I know that is not so. My knockdown was just an ordinary one, and it could not possibly have caused so deep an injury. I know it was the kidney blow, because I did not know what was happening after it landed."

Max almost laughed when asked whether she would object to continuance of his ring career.

"I am still the boss of my family," he said. "It's up to the

Dauber Is Sold for $40,000

Texas Oil Man Gets Preakness Winner and Will Keep Him Inactive for Three Months

Inglewood, Calif., July 7.—(AP)—Dauber, ailing Preakness winner, was reported sold for $40,000 today while his arch rival, Lawrin, Kentucky Derby champion, joined him on the shelf.

Although a bowed tendon forced Dauber out of the $50,000 three-year-old stakes at Hollywood Park last week E. F. Fogelson, Texas oil man, has agreed to pay William C. Du Pont's Foxcatcher Farm $40,000 for the chestnut stallion, it was learned.

Fogelson plans to keep Dauber inactive for at least three months, then train him slowly for the winter season at Santa Anita, with its $100,000 handicap.

Lawrin, winner of last week's rich stakes, pulled up yesterday with what trainer Ben Jones described as the same kind of leg injury that befell Dauber. He blamed the frequent watering of the track for the mishaps.

Jones won't be sure until possibly tomorrow how long Lawrin will be out of competition.

doctors whether I can fight again or not, I am going directly to Berlin after the ship docks at Bremerhaven. Professor Gorbard at Urban Hospital will give me a complete examination, and treat me. If he tells me that I am physically fit to return to the ring, I will know I can do it without endangering my future health."

Machon said that Maxie had radioed Bremerhaven asking that there be no official reception for him.

HOW TO BE A LEADER IN BASEBALL

Training advice from Paul Pilgrim
Former Olympic Champion; now Manager of Athletics, New York Athletic Club

Baseball, like most other sports, calls for loose muscles if you're going to get in the champion class. Loose muscles enable you to get started faster, move faster. That's the reason the two exercises given below are so important in training for baseball. The first, although very simple, helps to get your shoulder, arm and back muscles more supple—it's extremely valuable for an infield player because it conditions the muscles you use in getting down to snag a grounder. The second exercise loosens your leg muscles so you can get there faster when you're after a ball or running the bases. So keep at these exercises, drink plenty of milk and you'll lay a solid foundation for success in baseball.

"Milk is the key to athletic success"

Say BILL TERRY

Former star first baseman, now managing the Giants

"Milk is the most essential part of every champion's diet. It tones up the system, builds real energy reserves and helps to develop split-second physical and mental coordination. Fresh milk keeps you at the top of your form always."

To loosen shoulder, spread back muscles. Stand with arms stretched above head. Then bend forward touching fingers to toes. Repeat 20 times, once a day.
