Beer was a lifesaver

MIAMI (UPI) — Earl Allen put away eight cans of beer before he fell out of his fishing boat, and authorities say that may have saved his life.

Doctors are puzzled over the case of 59-year-old fisherman who spent up to two hours floating face down in the Intracoastal Waterway and then sat up and spit out "a fountain" of water at astonished rescuers.

"Maybe he was in such a state of intoxication that his body went into a coma and didn't require the same amount of oxygen," a doctor said. Allen said he drank eight cans of beer but insists he wasn't drunk.

No ransom pickup

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — An extortionist who tried to strike down a supermarket firm for $1 million by placing poisoned bottles of gravy mix on store shelves failed to retrieve a ransom package left at a drop site this week, a law enforcement source says.

Authorities turned up three bottles of Gravy Master Seasoning and Brown Sauce bottles laced with the deadly insecticide nicotine sulfate and believe another such bottle may still be found.

Bandits rob gold mine

CERRILLOS, N.M. (UPI) — Three armed men in ski masks who stole up to $500,000 in gold from a mine left few clues and apparently were well acquainted with the mine's elaborate security system, authorities said.

Jim Gourdie, manager of the Ortiz Mine some 25 miles south of Santa Fe, said he did not know how the robbers got through the mine's sophisticated security system in the theft early Thursday.

He said it was not known exactly how much bullion was taken.

Doctors deny statement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Doctors representing the American Medical Association say AMA charges of "hysterical" news media reporting on the dangers of dioxin contamination do not represent official policy.

But Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., who headed hearings on the health effects of dioxin, rejected the denial and called the AMA charges "intemperate and ill-considered."

Dr. John Beilan and other spokesmen for the doctor's group appearing before a House subcommittee Thursday insisted the charges made in a resolution adopted by AMA's House of Delegates represented only a small faction of the group.

Flood to continue

LAUGHLIN, Nev. (UPI) — Federal plans to discharge millions more gallons of water from three Colorado River dams have riverside residents charging "bureaucratic incompetence and officials saying people were warned against settling in the flood-prone areas.

Federal officials plan to discharge additional huge amounts of water on Tuesday from Hoover, Davis and Parker dams because rapidly melting snowpacks in the Rockies and spring storms, are expected to raise the level of the Colorado about two feet.

Victim gets $4 million

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A 28-year-old woman, trying to return to law school despite injuries suffered in the Hyatt Regency skywalks collapse, was awarded $4 million — the largest single payment to a victim of the disaster.

In the first of 40 Hyatt cases to go to trial over the July 17, 1981, disaster, the Jackson County Circuit Court jury deliberated for about two hours before deciding on compensation for the Kansas City woman who suffered a broken neck and spinal cord damage.

Army claims hangings

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — The army accused leftist insurgents of hanging 13 captured government soldiers and El Salvador's constituent assembly blasted the rebels' "vile assassination" of a congressman.

The army said military officials reported the soldiers were captured in a battle nearby with leftist rebels, but funeral home sources who saw the bodies said the soldiers had only been shot to death, some in the neck and head.

MIA's come home

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — Eight more servicemen who died in the Vietnam war were turned over to their families today — victims of a war, one mother said, "which they were not permitted to win."

A C-3 cargo plane that had left Hawaii hours earlier, arrived at Travis Air Force Base north of San Francisco and four pall-bearers carried out each flag-draped casket while an honor guard of Air Force personnel stood at attention.

Troops trade fire?

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Sandinista soldiers engaged Honduran troops in battle at a rebel camp in Nicaraguan territory, Nicaragua's official newspaper reported.

There were no reports of Honduran casualties but two Nicaraguan troops died during the skirmish last Friday, Barricada said.

Cease-fire within PLO

TAALBAYA, Lebanon (UPI) — A cease-fire has been called between rebel Palestinian guerrillas fighting Yasser Arafat's troops in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley, and officials said today the area was quiet for the first time in a week.

Justice eyes evaders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Selective Service System is sending the names of 70,000 youths who have not registered for a possible draft to the Justice Department for possible prosecution.

The list is the largest compiled since compulsory registration of all men on reaching the age of 18 became law three years ago. Only 15 young men actually have been indicted so far for defying the law.

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz pledged the United States would supply India with spare parts for its nuclear reactors even if it means a political dogfight on Capitol Hill.

Shultz told Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and other Indian officials Thursday that President Reagan would approve the sale of components for the American-built reactor at the Tarapur nuclear facility near Bombay if India cannot find the parts elsewhere.

Reagan's decision to supply the parts is viewed as a major step toward improving relations between India and the United States.

Under the 1978 Nuclear Non-Proliferation Act, the United States is prohibited from selling the parts to India, which has refused to abide by a provision for international inspection of its nuclear facilities.

Reagan would have to approve the sale under a presidential waiver, citing the potential health hazard that would be posed to employees and residents if the parts were not supplied. Although the health hazards were not explained, they were believed to involve the potential for radiation leaks.

Reagan faces opposition in Congress because of India's nuclear arms program.

Supreme Court vindicates Dirks as whistleblower

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today vindicated a Wall Street analyst who uncovered one of the biggest business frauds in history, ruling 6-3 he did not deserve to be punished for tipping stockholders about the scandal.

The justices ruled the Securities and Exchange Commission was wrong to censure Raymond Dirks for alerting certain investors in time for some to sell their stock before news of the $2 billion fraud toppled the Equity Funding Corp. insurance holding company.

In an important decision for the entire securities industry, the justices found that strict rules against buying or selling stock based on "inside tips" do not prohibit securities analysts from alerting investors to all information they obtain from company insiders.

"Imposing the duty to disclose or abstain (from trading) solely because a person knowingly receives material non-public information from an insider and trades on it could have an inhibiting influence on the role of market analysts," Justice Lewis Powell wrote for the court.

"We conclude that Dirks, in the circumstances of this case, had no duty to abstain from use of the inside information that he obtained," Powell said.

Dirks played a major role in 1973 in exposing a scheme by the Los Angeles-based Equity Funding Corp. of America to issue $2 billion worth of phony life insurance policies and collect on them later with the help of fake death certificates.

Dirks was working as a private securities analyst in New York when a former Equity employee tipped him about the fraud. Conducting his own investigation, he interviewed several employees and top management, informed the company's auditors and tried to convince the Wall Street Journal to write story.

The SEC found Dirks violated rules against communicating or trading stock on the basis of inside corporate information not available to the general public. It criticized him for not taking his information to authorities first.

Nearly a dozen tornadoes and violent thunderstorms tore through the Midwest late Thursday and early today, wrecking buildings, knocking out power to thousands and snapping off trees 3 to 4 feet above ground.

Up to 8 inches of rain from accompanying storms threatened flash floods in Minnesota and Wisconsin. Temperatures across much of the Midwest pushed toward the upper 80s and 90s for the beginning of a hot, muggy July 4 weekend.

Electric storms pounded the Chicago before dawn today, knocking out power to 30,000 homes and businesses in Elgin, Park and other western suburbs.

Severe thunderstorms with winds from 1 and damaging hail pounded a path from North Dakota and east to Ohio Thursday. Flash flood watches covered all of central and southeast Minnesota, a Kickapoo Basin of southwestern Wisconsin. Tornadoes were sighted Thursday night in North Dakota. Min

FBI announces it will probe purloined papers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the controversy intensifying about how President Reagan's 1980 campaign got Jimmy Carter's briefing papers, the FBI says it has entered the investigation to find out who obtained the documents.

Reagan, when asked if he would apologize to Carter for the incident, said "I haven't done anything to apologize for."

The FBI disclosed Thursday it joined the investigation at the request of the Justice Department, which has been reviewing hundreds of pages of papers since the White House turned them over earlier this week.

The New York Times suggested in its editorial column that Reagan apologize to Carter for the briefing book affair. Reagan was questioned about the matter while wrapping up a visit to Pioneer High School in Whittier, Calif.

"We don't know how that happened and I never knew there was such a thing. So we'll wait and find out," the president replied, noting he personally ordered the Justice Department to look into the matter.

FBI spokesman Roger Young said the bureau joined the case late Wednesday at the request of the Justice Department. A House subcommittee also is looking into the matter.

"The FBI entered the case ... for the purpose of determining who acquired the documents and how," FBI spokesman Roger Young said.

Although the FBI joining the case intensifies the Justice Department's role, officials said there appeared to be no mechanism that would trigger the appointment of a special prosecutor.

Under the Ethics in Government Act, Attorney General William French Smith must open a preliminary inquiry and seek a special prosecutor if there are serious allegations against high-level executive branch officials.

Reagan's alleged use of Carter papers surfaced in a book by Time magazine correspondent Laurence Barrett, who wrote that a briefing book prepared for Carter's climactic Oct. 28 televised debate with Reagan apparently was slipped to Reagan's campaign by a "mole."
