IS A HARVEST HAND

Declares Doctor Stough in a Big Prayer Meeting.

THREE STAGES IN CAMPAIGN

And Auburn Is Now Passing from First to Second and from Second to Third.

The Stough evangelistic party varied the usual programme for Monday, which is rest day with them, and last evening held a meeting at the Tabernacle.

The service of last evening was in the nature of a prayer meeting and a testimonial service. Many interesting and very helpful testimonies were given.

Doctor Stough explained in a few short words that he was not to be given the glory for this meeting; that it had not been for the ministers and for people who had been praying for a revival for years, and for God, that he would not be here; that he was just here as a harvest hand.

One of the ministers told how he had received a blessing by just wearing the campaign button. Doctor Stough said there were many things that have encouraged him.

He then asked for requests for prayers and the response was immediate. Some asked for daughters, some sons, brothers and sisters, husbands, and others asked for Sunday School scholars, certain young men and women in whom they were interested.

At the request of the ladies at the Saturday afternoon service for women only, Doctor Stough was asked to continue his lecture of that afternoon, on the subject Mysteries of Motherhood, on Wednesday afternoon.

Thursday afternoon is Sunset Service at the Tabernacle at which the old people are the guests. Mrs. Emma Wallace, chairman, who has charge of this committee, wishes more automobiles or carriages placed at her disposal for the taking of these old folks to and from the Tabernacle.

The programme for tonight: 7:15—Song service at the Tabernacle under direction of Professor Spooner.

7:30—Evangelistic services, Sons of St. George attend in a body. Sermon by Doctor Stough.

The programme for Wednesday: 8:00 to 9:30—Neighborhood prayer meetings.

2:30—Sermon by Doctor Stough at the Tabernacle to women only.

7:15—Song service conducted by Professor Spooner.

7:30—Evangelistic services, Labor Union, organizations, W. C. T. U., Ladies Aid, and Missionaries and other women's societies attend in a body. Sennett and Skaneateles will also send delegations. Sermon by Doctor Stough.

FOR CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Answer Is Made to Some Remarks of Doctor Stough.

Editor of the Citizen: No doubt many people in your city were greatly interested in the recent evangelistic campaign as reported at length in the columns of the Citizen. Just why the gentleman whose remarks were quoted went out of his way to criticize Christian Science in such a broadcast manner remains unexplained.

remarks are wholly unwarranted and show a limited and mistaken sense on this subject.

Christian Science distinguishes between the absolute fact that God is omnipotent and the relative necessity which confronts mortals of proving this fact in thought and deed. It is one thing to realize that sin has no power to influence or control him whose thoughts are based upon the truth of being, and it is quite another to believe that one is at liberty to indulge in evil without being punished thereby.

It does not appear that there is such a wide difference between the standpoint of Christian Science as stated above and that of the evangelist, but Christian Science goes one step further and accepts as demonstrable truth that since God is all-powerful, evil is to be overcome as a fallacy and not as another power or law, and this statement is susceptible of proof.

many years and do not believe it is as bad as you say, and some of us are losing confidence in what you say. We are forced to believe that you do not have competent proof in your pockets to verify the charges you have made, and that you are acting on hearsay testimony, which testimony is not competent to warrant a conviction in any case.

"In speaking of Auburn you say, if cordily quoted in the Citizen: 'You have 500 prostitutes, according to one of your prominent men.' This statement is certainly a slander upon the women of Auburn, and no man who has a just regard for womanhood, in my opinion, would make a statement of that kind unless he had absolute proof with which to sustain that statement. I say this statement is false and cowardly, because the women are unable to defend themselves from the charge. Do you realize you are dragging him out at least one out of every 80 women in Auburn as a harlot? I brand this slander as a cowardly lie, and as you apparently father his assertion you are in duty bound to retract this statement and apologize to the women of Auburn, as publicly as the statement was made, or you are in duty bound to submit proof to substantiate this assertion. There are no doubt houses of ill-fame, gambling houses and saloons, where the public morals are being violated in this city, that goes without saying, because those things exist in all cities.

"I call upon you to submit your proof to the proper county and city authorities or to a suitable committee of clergymen or laymen for investigation composed of such men as Doctor Hoyt of the Theological Seminary, Doctor Palmer of the Central Presbyterian Church, Doctor Richardson, C. P. Mosher, Daniel Egan, Charles G. Adams, Thomas M. Osborne, Frank E. Swift and W. S. Downer, and I assure you that no fair committee can be selected that will not receive my hearty assistance in cleaning up Auburn. GEORGE B. TURNER.

Northern soldier is chosen to find out, if possible, the plans of the Southern army. He goes to the Southern general's home. While hiding in the barn he sees a Southern officer making advances to the General's pretty daughter. She repulses him and he attacks her. The young spy impetuously rushes to the girl's assistance. He knocks her assailant senseless. When she sees him in his Northern uniform, she accuses him of being a spy, but when she hears someone approaching, an uncontrollable feeling is awakened in her and she persuades him to hide himself in the loft of the barn. Her father and other soldiers appear and she tells them the spy has gone. Upon regaining consciousness, the officer who attacked the girl tells his men to make a thorough search of the barn for the spy. The girl, who has brought food to her protector, hears the men coming, drags him out of the barn into the house and hides him in the fireplace of the library, in which the General and his officers have left the maps and plans of their intended attack upon the Northern forces.

After the girl has left the room, he comes from his hiding-place, takes the plans and places them in the boom of his shirt; stepping back into the fireplace again. The girl brings him a Confederate's uniform, which he dons and makes his escape.

One of the best comedies produced in a long while is The Simple Life. A thrilling Western drama, Red Wing and the Pale Face, and a good song by Fred Parmelee complete the fine bill.

The Cornell.

Large audiences were again in evidence at the Cornell last evening where they are showing the best in motion pictures. Tonight will be another big one at the Cornell. St. Perkins opens up his country store after the performances and 10 valuable and useful articles will be passed out to the lucky ticket holders. Everyone purchasing a ticket will receive a coupon entitling him to a chance on the drawing. Among the feature pictures to be shown this evening is one by the Rex Company, Paul and Virginia, a two reel illustration of once popular romance. The hero and heroine, Paul and Virginia, are fine. It is one of the best offerings of the week. Wednesday will be double coupon day and Thursday and Friday there will be given away some very valuable Japanese chinaware, which is now on exhibition at the Cornell lobby. Friday night another big amateur contest takes place and some good unknown talent will be brought out. The entries are coming in rapidly.

The Hippodrome.

For several months, Thanhouseer has been engaged in filmatizing one of the well known popular novels each month. This departure has been a distinct success and has opened a new field for the silent drama that was quickly seized upon by the other manufacturers. However, as in everything else, Thanhouseer easily leads the crowd in this work. This month he has taken as the subject to be illustrated Aurora Flood, probably the most popular of all the novels written by Mrs. Braddon. The picture is in two reels and will be featured at the Hippodrome tomorrow. This feature will be first run. There will also be a Majestic comedy split, with two good pictures, Cupid on the Job and His Dress Suit, besides another picture to be announced. Today the bill is an extremely clever one, including The Winning of Helen, a Majestic; The Raffle, Solax; At Liberty—Good Press Agent, Thanhouseer, and The Ten of Diamonds, Nestor.

IN THE PLAYHOUSES.

Burtia Grand.

No happier or better pleased audiences ever assembled in the Burtia Grand to witness a vaudeville entertainment than the audiences of yesterday. It would be very hard indeed to surpass the present bill. Every act is a big one and each one strives hard for first honors. The people were most generous in their applause and that alone makes the actors work harder and the shows go better.

Carson and Brown, one of the best opening acts that possibly can be secured, received double recalls. Leo Murphy made a fine appearance and made a big hit in Auburn audiences seem to enjoy stories, jokes and funny sayings, and his songs in which he mentions several local affairs brought down the house. It can be said without the least hesitation that the sketch of Charles Howe & Co., is a sure winner. Mr. Howe's character work reminds one strongly of David Warfield. His voice and acting one minute causes hearty laughter, the next minute tears. The plot of the sketch is a good one and the two stars, Carson and Brown, are well enough known now in Auburn not to need any further introduction. The blackface work of Mathews is identical to the work of Al. Johnson. The comedy work is very funny and the last half of the act with its beautiful "drop" represents a gorgeous first part. Miss Armstrong being the interlocutor and Mathews, as he says himself, the whole show, convulsed the audience with laughter for a straight 15 minutes. The closing act, Mother Goose in Stageland, with the eight people and special scenery, with Old Mother Hubbard and the several other characters makes things lively for the balance of the evening with clever singing and dancing and snappy dialogue, the act deserved all the applause it received. The closing of the act, a shadowgraph curtain, showing the curtain jumping up to the ceiling and then falling down again, is a scream.

Both pictures shown are causing considerable comment and are said by many to be the best ever seen in the city. The first, a comedy picture, Just Married, delighted the people. The last picture, The Beast at Bay, should be seen by all.

Motion World.

Large audiences attended Motion World. The Sharon Sisters more than made good at every performance. They certainly have a pretty act with neat costumes and their ability as quick change artists is worthy of praise. The pictures are very fine for today, the feature being, On the Line of Peril. A young
