WE'LL VOTE BY MACHINES AS IN OTHER YEARS

Any doubt that may have existed as to Auburn voting by machines next month as usual seems to be removed by the following dispatch from Albany: "Voting machines may be used in this state at the election this Fall notwithstanding the fact that there are eight tickets in the field and most of the machines contain only seven columns. This was decided today at a conference between Secretary of State Hugo and representatives of the attorney general's office, the State Voting Machine Commission and the corporation which owns virtually all the machines in the state. "The present Election Law does not require voting by party columns, it was explained, and under a recent ruling by the attorney general, a candidate's name can appear on the machine only once even if he is endorsed by several parties. In order to preserve the party vote additional levers under the name of a candidate thus indorsed will afford opportunity for voters to indicate which party they favor."

FILTRATION IDEA ENDORSED BY MINISTERS

Plans for the All-Auburn Church Campaign were laid out and received by the ministers and laymen from every Protestant church in the city this noon at the special meeting of the Ministerial Association held at the Women's Union. Matters concerning the Church Mobilization Day were also considered, and the association went on record as unanimously endorsing the movement to secure a filtration plant for the city. An invitation had been received from the Ad Club that the Ministerial Association should take advantage of the lectures given by Frank Stockdale in the week beginning November 20. The club has arranged the lectures so that one on Church Advertising shall be given for the benefit of the ministers. This invitation was accepted with thanks and a committee was appointed to see that all the ministers in the city, those from the Seminary and adjoining towns shall attend. That committee consists of Rev. L. N. Sirrell, Rev. H. M. Cary, Rev. Bruce E. Pierce.

Every Sunday School in the city is to observe Rally Day on October 15, and in observance of this, a circular or leaflet has been gotten out which will be distributed. The idea of the rally is to promote efficiency for the individual Sunday School, and five points are to be considered: Attendance of officers and teachers, attendance of pupils, attendance of church members, attendance of those persons gained through the Visitation Day in June, and attendance of Sunday School pupils in church. On that day a conference of the superintendents will be held with the Executive Committee at 4 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. and reports from each school will be handed in. As there were 3,400 children in line in the Sunday School parade four years ago, the aim for this day is 4,000. Church Mobilization Day will be held on October 29, and the churches have ordered banners which will be placed in front of the church, saying: "This church is cooperating with the All-Auburn Church Campaign."

MARRIAGE MAY END A TANGLE WITH THE LAW

Judge Ray in Federal Court May Find Hymen's Altar the Way to Dispose of Case—Court Over to Monday.

Dan Cupid flitted into a foreign atmosphere yesterday when he found his way inside the four walls of the Federal Court room and played upon the heart strings of the prosecuting attorneys and even, it appears, worked subtle influence upon Judge George W. Ray and as a result Edward J. Novak of Plattsburg, charged with a violation of the Mann Act, and pretty Annie Sweestarksa may be wed. Annie, just past 16, hopes that it will all end just way and young Novak, the defendant, hopes that it will end that way.

It is a romantic affair that reads like a thrilling fiction story of love and adventure with the hand of the law trying to intercept the work of Cupid and in the end love may laugh at locks and locksmiths, for the crime against Novak is a serious one and there are men in the Federal Prison at Albany who have been convicted of similar offenses. The case has a human side of blind young love, but all is well that ends well and this promises to end well.

Novak, the defendant, was arraigned yesterday afternoon charged with a violation of the immigration laws and also with bringing a woman from Canada to the United States for immoral purposes, the alleged crime having taken place August 24.

Heard Young Man First. Novak was represented by counsel, B. F. Feinberg of Plattsburg, who was there to plead for him, but Judge Ray preferred to hear the story from the young man first.

Attorney Feinberg first entered a plea of guilty for his client, but when questioned by Judge Ray, the young man declared that he did not bring the woman into the country for immoral purposes and this complicated matters. Judge Ray said that he would not accept a plea of guilty from counsel when the young man stood before him and denied his guilt and he proceeded to question him to get to the bottom of the story first hand.

Novak said that he had formerly lived in Montreal, Canada, and had met the girl there. He had then gone to New York where he worked at his trade, that of a fur cutter, earning $30 a week during the Summer and $40 a week in the Winter.

Mother Objected to Marriage. The girl came to him last Spring and for several months they had lived on a flat and kept house. He wanted to marry the girl, he said, but his mother objected.

Last Summer the girl wanted to go back to Canada to visit her people and she left him. Later on she wanted to come back to him and Novak went to her and was bringing her across the border at Rouse's Point on a motorcycle when they were stopped by immigration officers and apprehended.

District Attorney Dennis B. Lucey explained the government's side of the case. He said that the girl was only 16 years old and for the past two years had not borne a good reputation. He said that the young couple had lived in furnished rooms in New York where they had cohabited together.

This led to the admission by the young man and the revealing of his story. Conference With the Court. The girl was brought here Monday and locked up at the County Jail where she is being held as a witness. Judge Ray said that he desired to talk with the girl and she was produced and he held the conference with her in chambers.

The result of that conference was not made known. Annie, however, told a reporter that she hoped the judge would let them get married and that he would get the consent of her parents for her and that steps had been taken to that end. This was corroborated by Novak.

Both of the young people said that they wanted to get married and that they hoped the ties of matrimony would end their troubles.

"I hope they hurry and get the papers back from Canada so we can get married," she said. "I am awfully sick of staying in jail. It's a hell place. I have been in jail six weeks at Plattsburg and a week here and I don't want to stay in here any longer than I have to now. When we get married everything will be all right."

Court took a recess shortly before noon until 2 o'clock Monday.

For Stealing Cartridge Shells. Frank Knoeske, indicted charged with stealing government property at the State Reservation at Plattsburg, specifically $7.50 worth of uncharged cartridge shells, was arraigned on the charge this morning and pleaded guilty.

His case was one that Judge Ray is giving much consideration. Knoeske is a married man with four children. He had been a soldier and at the time of the arrest was out of the service, but employed by the Quartermaster's Department at Plattsburg.

He stated that the empty shells that he had taken had been picked up from the ground after target practice and that he did not suppose that he had been doing anything wrong. In fact, he had talked with an officer at the barracks about the empty shells and while the officer had refused to grant him permission to pick them up and keep them, Knoeske had understood that it would be all right.

Judge Ray said that he did not want to send a hard working man with a family to prison and as Knoeske did not have any money, he said that he would defer sentence until the December Term of Court.

Spiced Morning Session. Attorney John Kellas and his document, "Exhibit M" which figured in the Hedges case, popped up in court this morning and spiced the morning session.

Attorney Kellas made application to Judge Ray to go back the document which he was required to produce before the Grand Jury and which is in the custody of the court. The application was made on the ground that it had not been offered in evidence at the trial of Hedges in Syracuse. This was argued by Attorney Kellas with considerable ardor until Judge Ray pointed out to him that he was in error.

This brought forth a statement from Attorney Kellas that the document had not been offered in evidence at the trial and as proof of the statement he referred to the minutes of a stenographer employed by himself at the trial.

Judge Ray stated, however, that the document bore his mark of having been offered in evidence whereupon Attorney Kellas stated that he had not even been given a chance to offer it in evidence.

This was a rather startling statement from the attorney and Judge Ray promptly said things to the attorney that ended further argument on the application. He told Attorney Kellas that he had substantially charged the court with having marked the papers wrong and was trying to show it through the minutes of his own stenographer, something that the judge did not countenance. Attorney Kellas did not get possession of his document.

The Syracuse Candle Case. The trial of the patent infringement action brought by Edward J. Knapp against The Will & Baumer Company of Syracuse, was brought to a close yesterday afternoon. Last evening Judge Ray heard the attorneys sum up and will take briefs in the case.

Last evening the case of Charles P. Thompson of Hartford, Conn., indicted by the April Grand Jury on the charge of smuggling four Chinese into the country, was taken up by Judge Ray. Thompson is represented by Attorney Robert J. Burrill. No disposition has been made of the case as yet.

With nothing for them to do, Judge Ray resumed all of the petit jurors early this morning until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Several of them didn't seem to understand just what they were expected to do and the judge had to make it plain to them that they didn't have to remain in the court room.

May Run to November. It was predicted today that there would be enough work to keep the term running all of this month and possibly into November. Just how long the Grand Jury will be in session is not known, but it is believed that it will require another week to finish up the work that will be presented to it.

The case against the Sargol Company of Binghamton is set down for trial at this term of court, but will not be taken up until after election, it is said.

BURGLARS GOT NOTHING AT THE M'INTOSH HOME

A maid telephoning to the sheriff's office in plain view of two would-be burglars is believed to have frightened them away from the home of Jack McIntosh on the George H. Nye estate at Melrose, early last evening, and prevented the thieves from carrying out an evident plot to rob the house.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh were away for the evening at the home of Mrs. McIntosh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Eldred, where a dinner was being served in honor of the return from the border of Nelson B. Eldred Jr.

The house was left in charge of a maid and shortly before 8 o'clock she was startled by a noise at a rear window and upon looking out, saw two men disappear in the darkness. The girl was frightened and shortly went to a telephone in another room where she called up Mr. McIntosh by telephone to inquire if he expected visitors and upon being informed that he did not, her apprehensions increased.

She was still at the telephone when she heard a noise at a side door and a moment later one of the small panes of glass was broken just above the lock. It was then that it is believed that the burglars saw her at the telephone and became frightened, hurrying away.

The sheriff's office was immediately notified and Sheriff S. L. Dewey and Deputy Sheriff Thomas M. Walker hurried to the scene where they made an examination of the premises and searched for two hours for the thieves, but without results. The maid was unable to give the officers a good description of the men and as they left no clues that might lead to their identity, the hunt had to be abandoned.

In Probate Court. Petition was filed by Albert M. Pries of Auburn for the proof of the will of his father and mother, Hans H. and Sophie Pries. Citation was issued to November 17. In both wills the petitioner is named as sole executor. Mr. Pries died in Aurelius in June, 1910, but the instruments were never offered for probate. The mother died last June. The estate of the father is valued at $1,550 and that of the mother at $1,450.

Petition was filed for the proof of will of John K. Wheat late of the town of Venice, by George M. Whyte, named in the will as executor. Citation was issued to October 17. The estate is valued at $2,000 personal property.

Petition and account was filed for the settlement of the accounts of William B. Greenfield as executor of the estate of Cella L. Cady, late of the town of Moravia. The account charges the executor with $2,212.40 and credits him with the sum of $408.30, leaving a balance of $1,804.10. Citation was issued to November 8.

Petition was filed for the proof of will of Frances June Walker, late of the town of Moravia, by William W. McCarren, named as executor in the will. The estate consists of real and personal property valued at $1,500.

bad and recommended that the city be compelled to close the plant. This matter reached the engineer's office just about the time that Mayor Koon had installed a new city engineer in Thomas B. Bergan, formerly connected with the Engineering Department in Schenectady. The new official read the letter that the plants would have to be closed, immediately he made an inspection and the state official's letter was corroborated. Then he wrote to the department telling the officials of the work he intended and asking them to suspend the order. This was granted.

Some Prettily Cold Work. Then Mr. Bergan began to work on the plant. It wasn't very easy on those cold winter days and it was Spring before he could get really started. He found the machinery in bad shape. This plant was a little different than any he had seen before, so he had to study it carefully before taking any action. He studied and secured approval to hire a man to take care of both plants, spending half time at each so that they would be kept up in shape.

After working many days on the plant he finally discovered the differences in the machinery. And then began his work to get it to work right. He finally succeeded. Then the water which had been flowing into the outlet in black streams came out as white and as clean as any. Now any one who wishes to verify the statement and see what a fine plant has been made out of that which a year ago the State Department of Health threatened to condemn can see for themselves at the plant. When the city engineer first told how well the plant was working without narrating his own labor many doubted his word but on seeing the workings all were forced to admit that Bergan was right.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT WORKS FINELY NOW

City Engineer Bergan Had a Laborious Job but He Removed All Cause of Objections by State Officials.

The sewage disposal plant in the western part of the city for the Fourth, Fifth and Seventh Ward sewers is today working very well and will not have to be abandoned as the State Department of Health threatened a year ago, following an inspection. The sheds are cleaned out and the walls are not overrun with refuse giving a dirty smell and making it disagreeable even for people to drive by on the road. Even the water which was so black and containing all kinds of slime and refuse is clean, and carries only the smallest particles. No longer do the people who pass the outlet criticize the city for its lack of care of the disposal plants and instead they are singing praises for the way it is carried out of the city. The same can be said of the First, Sixth and Tenth Ward plant.

For some reason or other the proper care was not taken of the buildings and the beds through which the water operates. The walls at the entrance of the sewage into the plant were overrun with refuse, the receiving pipe having become clogged and not thoroughly cleaned. This led to this refuse spreading to the four beds of stone which cover pipes through to a large cement basin where the sewage is cleaned.

Defects Went Unremedied. The machinery in the different pipes leading to the beds became clogged, which added further trouble, and no effort, at least no successful effort was made to remedy these defects. For seven years the four beds had not been operated successfully. One of the beds is still so clogged up that it is not used, but the other three take care of the matter all right and the fourth will be remedied shortly. The inspectors of the State Department of Health found conditions very

WILSON CALLS TIME ON WOMEN'S POLITICAL SCRAP

Chicago, Oct. 6.—President Wilson paid a brief visit to Chicago today en route from Omaha, Neb., to Long Branch, N. J., where he will speak to independent voters tomorrow. An old time "home interest" debate between women over politics was heard by the president this morning when his train stopped for a few minutes at Malta. His host of the women wore sunbonnets. "I like you, but I am going to vote for Hughes," said one woman to the president. Immediately all of the other women began a verbal onslaught on her. "Aren't you ashamed of yourself," one woman cried. "You know Wilson is the best man," declared another. "Ladies! Ladies!" exclaimed the president. "It's very embarrassing to me to be present at this debate!"
