'HEAD OF FAMILY' IS DEFINED BY THE TAX COLLECTORS

Some Auburn people are puzzling their heads to know just exactly what the government means when it says in the new Revenue Law that "the head of a family" is entitled to $2,000 exemption. They do not know just what the "head of a family" means.

The Treasury Department has just issued a decision in which this definition is given: The head of a family is "a person who actually supports one or more individuals connected by him or her by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or adoption, or whose relation is based on some moral or legal obligation."

That one is not a citizen does not relieve him from the obligation of filing an income tax return; in fact, the tax is more burdensome to the alien than to American citizens.

A citizen is a person born or naturalized in the United States, a citizen of any other country, or a citizen of the United States whose domicile is in the United States who has therein his principal business and who is therein permanently occupied or employed even though his domicile is without the United States, is held to be a citizen of the United States.

The Income Tax Laws cover every citizen in the United States as well as Alaska, Hawaii, and the District of Columbia.

Gross incomes mean the gains, profits and incomes for the full calendar year or by the fiscal year, as a taxpayer keeps his accounts.

Income from dividends are free from all normal taxes and this is a very important matter for schedule makers to keep in mind. The reason for this is that corporations pay a six per cent. corporation tax to the government. But income from dividends must be reported. Dividends after passing the $20,000 mark become amenable to the surtax under the law of September 1, 1916.

Merchants in preparing their schedules should understand that payments for merchandise under the installment plan count as income; that merchants may also make claims for deductions for the hire of clerks and other employees, for the cost of light, fuel, etc., freight, delivery wagons, trucks, etc., but not for the cost of goods. Wages to minor children cannot be deducted.

A physician is allowed deductions for medicines used for the operation and repair of automobile in which he makes calls, subscriptions to medical journals and even for expenses resulting from his attendance at medical conventions. He can also deduct the cost of fuel and light for office, for water and for office rent even if using a room in property owned by him, although the rent paid would have to be reported as income so that no benefit accrues.

THE SANDMAN STORY FOR TONIGHT

MR. FOX AND THE RED PAINT.

Mr. Fox was having a hard time getting food, as the farmers all around were prepared for his visits.

But one night Mr. Fox waited until he saw one farmer safely in the house, and remembering that he had seen the barn window open and a board put up for the cat to crawl upon, Mr. Fox walked up the board and jumped in through the window.

Mr. Fox struck on something that hurt him, and over he rolled, the dreadful thing rolling with him.

He jumped up and found he was all sticky and moist. "Oh! I am bleeding. I know I am killed," he groaned.

But in spite of his pain Mr. Fox made a jump for the window, and, aching with pain, he ran and never stopped until he reached home.

Down on the floor he fell with a groan and cried out: "I am dying; I am dying! Help! Help!"

His cries reached Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum, way down the path, and they came running as fast as they could.

When they saw Mr. Fox on the floor and rolling in the red, sticky stuff, they thought he was terribly hurt, so they ran for Mr. Rabbit.

Mr. Rabbit ran for Doctor Crow, and when he came he said he was sure Mr. Fox's time was short, and if he wished to make a will he had better do so at once.

"I should like your house," said Doctor Crow.

Mr. Coon said he would take the contents of Mr. Fox's pantry for his share, and Mr. Possum said he would take Mr. Fox's clothes for his, and as Mr. Fox was growing weaker every minute he need not bother to write a will; they would help themselves.

Mr. Fox watched them take his food and clothes, and he forgot all about the red, sticky stuff all over him and his pain.

"Can't you wait until I am dead?" he asked, sitting up and glaring at Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum in a most angry manner.

"What is the use of waiting?" said Doctor Crow. "You are most dead now."

"I don't feel so much pain as I did," said Mr. Fox, "and before I die I should like to know where I am buried."

Mr. Owl was passing, and hearing the dispute, he stepped in. "What is the trouble?" he asked.

"Mr. Fox has been hurt and is dying," said Doctor Crow.

Doctor Crow won't tell me where I am buried," said Mr. Fox, "and he and Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum made my will and took my food and clothes. Doctor Crow is going to take my house."

"You are pretty strong for a dying creature," said Mr. Owl. "What is this red stuff all over you?"

"It is blood; he is bleeding to death," said Dr. Crow.

"It looks to me very much like red paint," said Mr. Owl. "Where have you been?"

Mr. Fox told him all about his accident in the barn, and Mr. Owl began to laugh. "You probably fell into a pail of red paint. Mr. Fox, I don't believe you are hurt a bit."

Mr. Fox was pretty mad, and he drove Dr. Crow out of the house in a hurry.

Dr. Crow stopped to tell Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum that Mr. Fox was not going to die; that he was very much alive and very likely would come for his food and clothes very soon.

Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum ran away from that part of the forest with Mr. Fox's belongings and were never seen afterward.

How to be Happy.

Happiness is not only a condition of the mind but more often a condition of the body. You may learn something from the experience of Mrs. William Trout, N. I did so and my appetite improved and I gained rapidly in health. Two bottles of them restored me to my former good health." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH TO USE ITS PARISH HALL FOR WORSHIP

Because of difficulty experienced in securing coal and a desire to do their part in conserving the nation's fuel supply, the members of the vestry of St. John's Episcopal Church have decided that it will be for the best interests of the parish to have services in the Sunday School rooms at the Parish Hall each Sunday during January, February and March.

The new plan was put into operation yesterday. The rector, Rev. Ralph Bray, announced that services will be held at the usual hours each Sunday, as follows: 8 a. m., holy communion, 11 a. m., holy communion and sermon on the first and third Sundays of each month; morning prayer, litany and sermon on other Sundays; evening prayer and special intercessions at 7:30. Sunday School will meet as usual at 9:45 each Sunday morning.

A temporary altar has been erected in the Parish Hall and arrangements made for seating the vested choir near the altar. The piano will take the place of the organ while the services are held in the Parish Hall. Ushers will be in attendance at all services and everyone will be welcome, the vestry announces.

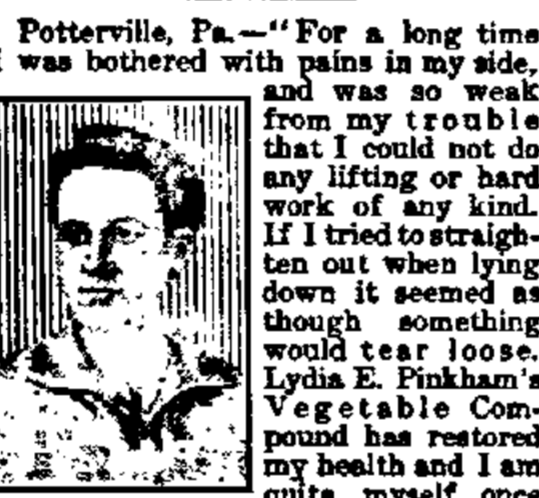

An illustrated mission lecture on Mexico and Brazil was given last evening, after a short service by the rector. The slides shown included maps of Mexico, the Palace of Aeteleneque, the pyramid of the sun, Chapultepec Castle, the Cathedral, Christ Church and St. Andrew's Church. Portions of the Mexican land shoun has been visited by Rev. Allan Burleson, a brother of the late rector of St. John's. Rev. Allan Burleson gave up his private school for boys to become a missionary of the Episcopal Church in Mexico several years ago.

St. John's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Robert Marland, 3 Elm Street.

Choir rehearsal will be held in the Parish Hall Thursday evening.

HORSE KICKS OVER LANTERN AND BARN BURNS TO GROUND

Moravia, Jan. 7.—A barn belonging to Erastus Sherman, located a short distance East of this village was burned to the ground Saturday night, with a loss of several hundred dollars, partly covered by insurance.

The cause of the fire was a lantern which was on the floor of the barn and was kicked over into the hay mow by one of the horses. Mr. Sherman shouted for help but his wife was the only one who came to his assistance. He managed to save the three horses. Two cows and a calf were burned to death. A large amount of hay and other articles of value were destroyed.

Attracted by the flames, many volunteers rushed up and worked in temperature a little above zero to save other buildings and succeeded in keeping the fire from the house.

The ceremony took place at 2 o'clock, Rev. H. V. Odell, pastor of the Genoa Baptist Church officiating. The ring service was used. The bride and groom were dressed in white. The bride wore a gown of blue silk, with silver chiffon trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss Mabel Mastin, sister of the groom, who was attired in white and carried pink roses. Franklin Bailey of Cortland acted as best man.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Mastin will be surprised to hear the news as it was kept quiet until Saturday night. They will reside at the home of the bride for the present.
