

ATHLETICS TAKE SECOND GAME, 6-2

HOMERS DO DAMAGE AT START

COCHRANE AND WATKINS HIT HARD; EARNSHAW FACES RHEM.

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The lineup for today: Philadelphia: Douthitt, cf; Adams, 3b; Cochrane, 2b; Simmons, 1f; Miller, rf; Haas, cf; Boley, ss; Earnshaw, p.

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The excitement, glamor and official dignity attached to the world's series opening battle were replaced today by the matter-of-fact prelude to just a ball game as the Athletics trotted out to warm up for their attempt to make it two straight over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The prospects of a somewhat warmer and more comfortable day brought out another capacity crowd of nearly 33,000 and a right handed pitching duel between George Earnshaw and Charles Flinn Rhem, the somewhat erratic but nevertheless brilliant speedball tosser of the Red Birds.

Fans took a curious and special interest in the performance of Rhem, because he figured in a sensational story of being "kidnaped" the night before he was to have pitched against Brooklyn in a crucial series several weeks ago and forced to imbibe intoxicating beverages.

High spirited as a result of their first game triumph, the world's champion A's dashed out on the field under the leadership of Capt. Eddie Collins shortly after noon and began knocking the ball to all corners of the lot as well as outside the park.

Doubt as to Mack's pitching selection was apparently dissipated when Earnshaw took part in the batting practice and manifested every symptom of being about to take on the enemy. George Walberg, big left hander, also engaged in the work-out, but the probability was that Earnshaw would start and be relieved, if necessary, by Walberg.

Although President Hoover had gone on his way to Ohio after witnessing the opening game, the presidential box remained draped in its special burlap.

HOOVER WILL SPEAK TONIGHT AT CLEVELAND

President to Be Heard By Bankers; Parade, Reception on the Schedule.

Hoover Special Train, Enroute to Cleveland, Oct. 2.—(AP)—President Hoover arrived in Ohio today ready to pick up the business end of his 3,000-mile speaking tour through the mid-west, east and south, after witnessing for the second time in successive years a world's series baseball game.

Refreshed after his trip across Pennsylvania the president had a hearty breakfast and then read newspaper accounts of the initial Philadelphia victory before preparing for the busyround of activity laid out for him today in Cleveland, where tonight he will make the first of four addresses in the next five days before the merican Bankers' Association.

While the speech was not to be made before around 8:30 p. m., east-coast standard time, the special train carrying Mr. Hoover and his party was due in the Buckeye metropolis around noon. The intervening eight hours or more were set aside for an almost uninterrupted reception program.

Word reached the Hoover train that a big crowd awaited his arrival at the Euclid Avenue station on the outskirts of the city. A parade, with a band and military detachment, awaited to escort the chief executive and his wife nearly four miles to their hotel, a reminder of his campaign days of two years ago.

Mrs. Hoover was enroute to join the president at Bedford, Ohio, from Indiana, where, as honorary president, she has been attending the annual meeting of the National Girls' Scout organization. A luncheon in her honor had been planned in Cleveland at the women's City Club, while the president dined at the Cleveland Hotel as the honor guest of Cleveland business men and delegates to the bankers' convention.

An automobile ride through the city and nearby environs and a quiet private dinner at their hotel were the only other arrangements made for the Hoovers before the president addressed the bankers at the public auditorium, where six years ago Calvin Coolidge and the late Senator La Follette were nominated for the presidency.

SERIES' WEATHER

Philadelphia, Oct. 2.—(AP)—"Fair and continued cool" was the weatherman's offering to the baseball fans today as the world champion Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals prepared to battle in the second game of the World Series.

A temperature of 54 at 7 a. m. indicated the same low temperature of yesterday will mark today's game. A bright and warming sun, however, somewhat offset the snappy autumn breezes that swept around Shibe Park, chilling the long line waiting for bleacher tickets.

THE GAME BY INNINGS

First Inning: Cardinals: Douthitt lifted a high fly to Dykes who caught it near the pitcher's mound. Adams flied to Simmons who ran a few feet to make the catch. Frisch hit over Simmons' head for two bases. It was Frisch's 43rd world series hit, a world record. Bottomley flied to Haas who made a running catch in center.

Second Inning: Cardinals: Haas flied a fly to Bishop in short center. Watkins drove the ball over the right field wall for a home run, the first circuit smash for the National Leaguers. Mancuso beat out a hit to shortstop. Boley got the ball with one hand but had no chance to get him. Gilbert singled to center. Mancuso talking third. The ball bounded over Bishop's head. Rhem struck out. Douthitt popped to Bishop, hitting the ball on the handle of his bat.

Third Inning: Cardinals: Adams lifted a fly to Miller in short right. Frisch hit a hard smash to Boley who tumbled it and charged with the first error of the series. Earnshaw threw to first but Frisch was awake. Bottomley hit a foul back of first. Bishop got under the ball but dropped it. No error was charged. Bottomley struck out. Frisch stole second and went on to third when Cochrane's throw bounded to center field. Cochrane was charged with an error. Hall three, low. Strike one, called. Haas hit a foul near third but Dykes fell down as he was about to get under it and could not get his hands on it. Haas struck out.

Fourth Inning: Cardinals: Bishop rolled to Bottomley and was out unassisted. Dykes struck out. Cochrane hit a bouncer to Frisch who fumbled it. It was an error. Cochrane scored on Simmons' double against the right field wall on which Watkins tried to make a shoestring catch. Foxx walked. Rhem tried to make him hit a bad ball and then threw the fourth one wide. Simmons scored on Miller's single to left when the throw to the plate got away from Mancuso. Foxx went to third and Miller to second. The error was charged to Rhem. Haas lined to Douthitt.

Two runs, two hits, two errors, two left.

NEARLY THREE BILLIONS A YEAR SPENT ON DRINK

Huge Sum for Intoxicants in U. S. Estimated By Body Against Dry Amend.

Washington, Oct. 2.—(AP)—American drinkers, on the estimate of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, are spending $2,548,000,000 a year for their intoxicants under prohibition.

This figure, the association said, while not claimed to be infallible, was based on an 18 months study of production of materials used in manufacturing spirits, wines and beers, deducting the estimated amounts used in a legitimate industry. It calculated average retail prices of 50 cents a gallon for beer, $2.30 for wine and $11 for spirits.

The drink bill, it maintained, exceeds the most liberal estimate of what we would have been spending if the Eighteenth Amendment had never been enacted.

"We believe that $2,500,000,000, exclusive of revenue," the association added, "is a generous estimate of what we would have been spending today if there were no prohibition."

The estimate of materials entering production, it said, were taken from trade and official sources and covered hops, grapes, corn sugar, cane and beet sugar, molasses, corn meal, grain mash and illicitly diverted alcohol. Bootleg prices in 30 unnamed communities were taken into account, but top prices were not applied to the total.

The thirty men who made up a student body are now teachers. Two were chosen from each of the 12 administrative districts and they are now back in the field to conduct schools of their own. The six others are being held in reserve to act as substitutes when needed.

DRYS STILL HUNT FOR CANDIDATE

GRANGE HEAD TO SUP-PLANT CARROLL, SAYS WORLD.

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A report that the "dry" nomination for governor would be offered to Fred W. Freestone of Interlaken, master of the New York State Grange, was published today in the Evening World.

The paper said the decision to offer the nomination to Mr. Freestone also would gain the support of the Frank B. Gannett newspapers, support of which has been sought for Mr. Carroll.

Fred A. Victor, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, was in Albany today on a tour of upstate cities. His office did not know whether he would go to Interlaken to discuss matters with Mr. Freestone.

The Grange head told the Evening World by long distance telephone "there are so many different angles to think out" that he could not say now whether he would accept the nomination. "But it is a real honor," he said, "to have been thought of in a cause like this."

Professor Carroll was "reluctantly" designated as the independent candidate of the Republican dries at a meeting here on Monday, after nomination of Charles H. Tuttle and the incorporation of a wet plank in the platform by the Republican state convention.

Albany, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Fred A. Victor, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said today that he knew nothing of any movement on the part of the "dry" leaders to tender an independent gubernatorial nomination to Fred W. Freestone, master of the New York State Grange.

"I do not know anything about it," Mr. Victor said, "except that I had a telephone call from a New York newspaper last night saying it had such a story and asking me for confirmation. I told the paper it would have to confirm the story itself as I did not know anything about it."

VESUVIUS IN ERUPTION, POPULACE KEEPS VIGIL

Naples, Italy, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Inhabitants for miles around gathered on neighboring hills today to watch Vesuvius, transformed into a fountain of fire and lava by an unheralded eruption.

With its crater shifted 60 feet, the volcano shot rocks and lava 300 feet into the air. There were two fountains of lava, the molten fluid being cast in flaming streams into the sky.

The director of the Vesuvius Observatory said that there was no danger from the lava flow, but inhabitants thereabout continued their vigil. Vesuvius has been semi-active since early in the summer. In mid-July the volcano spread a great stream of lava over the entire Western zone of the crater, not, however, spilling it over the edge.

Two of the dead were women, a 15th tenant of the building which was a rooming house for French and Belgian residents of New York, had not come home last night and was not in the place when it collapsed.

Within a few minutes after the crash, which reverberated through the winding streets of the neighborhood, police and firemen were lifting the dead and injured from the debris. A dressing station, hurriedly established in a nearby firehouse, gave first aid before the victims were taken to a hospital a few blocks away.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney and District Attorney Crain were on the spot shortly after police arrived. Their preliminary examination indicated the collapse was caused by undermining of the foundations during the demolition of four buildings adjoining the rooming house.

No precautions had been taken by the wreckers to protect the building. It was said, although neighbors had reported several days ago that the walls appeared to be sagging. The district attorney, after questioning some of the neighbors, ordered the arrest of all officials of the Fein Wrecking Company, which had razed the four buildings.

5 PERSONS KILLED, 7 INJURED

A GREENWICH VILLAGE ROOMING HOUSE IN CRASH AT NIGHT.

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The sagging foundations of a Greenwich Village rooming house collapsed with a roar early today and the timbers crashed in upon 12 sleeping tenants, killing five and seriously injuring seven.

The first person carried out of the wreckage was Mrs. Marie Sarrows, 70, the landlady. Her arm had been broken and she had possible internal injuries, but she was able to tell police she had been dressing when the crash came. All her roomers, she said, were abed.

Then in quick succession police recovered the bodies of Frank Bourdon, Carlo Tornaghi and an unidentified man. The injured included Edgar Aulino, Emil Fouet, Frank Nongas, Mark Ueber and George Dando.

Last of all was discovered the unconscious form of Margaret Cortaide the landlady's granddaughter. She died before reaching the hospital. Mrs. Everist Cortaide, her mother, was found dead at about the same time, under a heavy beam.

A tenant in a house across from 15 Greenwich Street, the address of the wrecked building, gave the police an account of the collapse.

He was in bed but awake, looking across the street, he said, when he heard a low rumbling which mounted to a roar. Then slowly the roof of the rooming house slid to one side and in another moment the entire building tumbled. As it fell the splintering beams cracked sharply and windows were flung up in neighboring buildings as awakened sleepers looked out.

The district attorney said he would question members of the wrecking concern today.

TOADS SUFFER NO ILL EFFECTS FROM EATING

Fast, Believed to Have Lasted Over 300 Years, Broken; Age Dispute Arises.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Three small toads apparently suffered no pang of indigestion today after partaking of what archaeologists believed was their first meal in more than 300 years.

The toads, found near Clare, Okla., by J. B. Thornburn, state historical society curator, while excavating in an Indian mound, were fed flies yesterday. They were not eager for food, apparently, after their fast of undetermined length, but ate when food was placed in their mouths.

Dr. Frank Brooks, biologist at Oklahoma City University, expressed no opinion as to how long the toads had been buried or as to whether they could live if buried 300 years. Thornburn, however, was vigorous in defense of his estimate.

Washington, Oct. 2.—(AP)—To the same category as "pick up a toad and you'll get warts," or "step on a toad and it's sure to rain," scientists of the Museum of Natural History today assigned the story of three Oklahoma toads said to have lived in a state of suspended animation for three or four centuries.

"Just another of those old toad traditions," said Doris M. Cochrane and Dr. Remington Kellogg, toad experts.

They agreed the three toads found in the Oklahoma Indian Mound probably were a species of "Bufo Compactilis," the burrowing toad, or "Scapicopus Couchii," the spade foot toad, both occurring often in Oklahoma.

HINDENBURG IS 83 YEARS TODAY

Berlin, Oct. 2.—(AP)—President Paul Von Hindenburg was 83 years old today. Hale and hearty, he attends to his numerous duties with military precision, leads an absolutely regular life, and disposes of his leisure moments as left over for his family, relatives and friends.

Few people, perhaps honestly, believed that the grand old man of Germany could live through five years of a seven year burdensome presidential term. A few months at the executive palace will finish him," was heard on every side after his election in the Spring of 1925. But Hindenburg has fooled them all. He has proved a statesman of outstanding qualities; he has traveled more than his predecessor, Friedrich Ebert, dared to travel during the uncertain post-revolution period.

President Macbado in a private meeting during the night with the speaker of the House of Representatives and the president of the Senate, notified them of his intention to call Congress together, and of the request he would make of the body.
