Teacher aid bills okayed

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) - Gov. Hugh Carey Wednesday said he would sign three bills into law that would appropriate more than a quarter of a billion dollars for the public schools.

One of the measures will allow a teacher to "buy" up to three additional years of pension credit if they retire by age 62. The other will allow one of the measures will inappropriately change the average salary he will be able to collect for each year of service before she was awarded a pension.

The new law would replace the one that is effective in 1977 by providing for the state's schedule of the average salary.

The third measure will increase the annual contribution of the state's school system.

The bills were sponsored by Assemblyman Richard J. grated, D-Manhattan, and Matthew Murphy, D-Long Island.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.

New York City's public schools, including Rochester, have been running a deficit for several years.

Both measures are expected to become law immediately.