Knights of Columbus Will Dedicate New Headquarters This Week

The Knights of Columbus from all parts of the United States and Canada will gather in New Haven this week to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Knights of Columbus. The festivities will include a grand parade and a dedication ceremony for the new Headquarters building. The event will be highlighted by the installation of the new Grand Knight and the presentation of awards to outstanding members.

President William J. McNulty will be the guest of honor at the dedication ceremony, which will be held at the new Headquarters building on Thursday, October 5th. The ceremony will begin at 10:00 AM with a Mass celebrated by Cardinal Spellman, followed by a procession to the building.

Later in the day, there will be a reception for members and guests, and an evening banquet at the New Haven Hilton Hotel. The evening will conclude with a fireworks display over the city.

The Knights of Columbus was founded in 1882 by William J. McGivney, a Catholic priest in New Haven, Connecticut. The organization was created to support Catholic men and their families and to promote Catholic values and traditions.

Today, the Knights of Columbus is one of the largest fraternities in the world, with over 2.5 million members in 12,000 councils in the United States and Canada. The organization is known for its charitable and community service efforts, and it has a long history of supporting Catholic education, youth programs, and other important causes.

The 100th anniversary of the Knights of Columbus is being celebrated with a variety of events throughout the country. In New Haven, the week will be highlighted by the dedication of the new Headquarters building, which will serve as the organization's national headquarters for many years to come.
