Orphanage May Become High School

NEW USE SEEN FOR BUILDINGS OF ST. JOSEPH'S

Flushing Property Off Market As Proposal Is Studied.

Committee of the St. Joseph Orphanage at Flushing, according to the treasurer of the Catholic high school, has been under consideration by church officials for several months and was recently recommended to the board for acceptance. The proposal involves the conversion of the orphanage into a Catholic high school, which would accommodate approximately 800 students. This idea was brought about by the increasing number of students who are from Flushing.

In excess of 400 students, many of whom are from Flushing, are now living in the buildings. Twenty-seven members of the Order of St. Joseph are now living in the buildings. The average typist, by actual count, is forty years old.

The idea of converting the buildings to a high school has gained popularity among the community. The average typist, forty years old, was interviewed and said that she is in favor of the idea.

The idea of converting the buildings into a high school has also gained popularity among the community. The average typist, forty years old, was interviewed and said that she is in favor of the idea.

But Flushing May Fight to Save Neighboring Historic Trees.

The decision to convert the buildings into a high school has also gained popularity among the community. The average typist, forty years old, was interviewed and said that she is in favor of the idea.

Nobody Loves King Neptune, It Seems

The decision to convert the buildings into a high school has also gained popularity among the community. The average typist, forty years old, was interviewed and said that she is in favor of the idea.

POLICEMEN GUARD CHURCH MEETING

Forms Of Government Debated In Flushing.

Policemen marched in front of the First Congregational Church in Flushing last night to assist in the discussion of various forms of government. The discussion was the result of a request by the church committee to the police department to provide assistance.

There was no trouble but the meeting was interrupted by a loud noise coming from the church, which had to be silenced before the meeting could be resumed. The police were stationed at the door of the church and were able to keep a watch on the crowd.

The meeting was attended by a large number of people, including many members of the community. The police were on duty throughout the meeting, and the church committee was pleased with their assistance.

GERTZ PICK YOUR COLORS

Gerts accessories are dyed to match exactly!

Jamaica Avenue at 23rd Street, Jamaica, N.Y.

WASHINGTON - The U.S. Department of Agriculture yesterday authorized the sale of surplus pork to private individuals. The authorization is for a period of 30 days, during which time the pork may be sold at a price not to exceed 75 cents per pound.

The authorization was issued in response to a request by the Department of Agriculture, which said that the pork is needed to reduce the surplus and to make available to the public a supply of meat.

The pork is to be sold at auction, and the price is to be determined by the bidder. The sale is to be held in a number of locations throughout the country. The pork is to be inspected and graded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Relief slash aim of economy bloc

WASHINGTON (U.P.) - Economy bloc leaders are expected to meet today to discuss the possibility of cutting the relief budget. The meeting is being held to determine whether the relief budget can be reduced without affecting the welfare of the poor.

The meeting is being held in response to a request by the Department of Agriculture, which said that the relief budget is too high and that it is needed to reduce the surplus of pork.

The relief budget is to be reduced by 10 per cent. The meeting is being held to determine whether the relief budget can be reduced without affecting the welfare of the poor.

The meeting is being held in response to a request by the Department of Agriculture, which said that the relief budget is too high and that it is needed to reduce the surplus of pork.

The meeting is being held in response to a request by the Department of Agriculture, which said that the relief budget is too high and that it is needed to reduce the surplus of pork.