CROWDED HOSPITALS

These familiar words should be familiar to every citizen of Great Neck, for the gross Central Hospital is overcrowded. In eight months this hospital has been found necessary to meet the demand for its facilities. The hospital was never intended before the Federal Government was built. The D. S. Molloy, commissioner of hospitals, emphasized the fact that it is a problem that is going to create an additional one. The hospital’s capacity has been increased to 250 beds, but much more is necessary to meet the demand.

Major Lammers is responsible for this inadequate construction of a new 500-bed hospital located in the general area of Flushing. Major Lammers insists that this project has been approved by the council, and that the city is not responsible for it. In addition, the city is not responsible for the cost of the hospital.

Many private hospitals are operating without capacity, indicating that the demand for hospital beds is great. But no one in the need for more hospital beds is as great as that in Queens, where the population is over 500,000.

Hospitalization and the medical treatment for illness is a problem that is creating an additional one. It may be that the present difficulty is that 1,000,000 of the 1,200,000 of the population is in the city of Flushing. While the National Health Council has made recommendations for a local hospital, it is necessary that the city and the county cooperate in this project.

The problem is not only one of hospital beds but also of qualified doctors. In the city of Flushing, there are only 150 doctors, and many of them are over 60 years of age. It is necessary that the city and the county cooperate in this project.

The problem also lies in the problem of urbanization. In the center of the city, the population is over 100,000, and there are too many hospitals in the city. With many physicians working in the city, it is necessary that the city and the county cooperate in this project.
