British reported, but asserted their forces were in a position to nip the movement of any reinforcements to the defenders of Tobruk.

Italy's Losses 150,000

Already the British were declared to have rendered 94,000 Italian troops "ineffective" in the battle of North Africa, including the Bardia prisoners and those captured or killed there and at Sidi Barrani.

Combined British and Greek estimates placed Italy's losses at some 150,000 men—captured, killed, wounded or missing—in Africa and Greece.

The speed and power of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's mechanized cavalry constitute such a threat that the Italians must withdraw from Tobruk at once if they hope to make a stand at Bengasi, British military circles said.

An attempt to defend Tobruk, may result in a major disaster for the Italian arms, these circles said.

U. S. Reopens Case Against 'Red'

New Orleans, Jan. 8 (AP)—The Government today reopened the widely publicized Joseph George Strecker "Communist" case, once linked with efforts to deport Harry Bridges, California labor leader.

Strecker, saved from deportation as a Communist by the Supreme Court in 1939, was arrested yesterday in Hot Springs, Ark., and sent to New Orleans, where immigration officials said he might still be returned to his native Austria under the 1940 alien act.

Eugene Kessler, director of immigration and naturalization for the New Orleans district, said: "He will be given an administrative hearing here on charges that as an alien he is a member of the Communist party, which advocates overthrow of our existing Government by force and violence, and therefore subject to deportation."

C. A. Stanfield, Strecker's attorney, said in Little Rock he believed the revived action was based on a section of the 1940 alien act providing that any alien who at any time had been a member of the Communist party, was subject to deportation.

Congress Drafting Aid to Britain Plan

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP)—Speaker Rayburn reported after a conference with Secretaries Hull and Morgenthau today that "progress is being made" in forming a plan for expanded aid to Britain and hinted that legislation involved might be considered by House and Senate at the same time.

Other sources, including Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) said an extra $10,000,000,000 armament program was under study.

"There's going to be just as little time lost as possible," Rayburn said. "The House is going to consider it with all expedition because it is vitally essential that we aid the democracies speed is of the essence."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted unanimously to invite Secretary Hull and other heads of executive departments to give the committee confidential reports of world conditions as they affect American policy.

Signori, bishops, archbishops and members of various religious orders was omitted. Instead the participants in the processional assembled behind the altar and proceeded directly to their pews.

A packed cathedral witnessed the solemn spectacle to which the array of brilliant contrasting colors in the robes of the high clergy and members of religious orders gave an effect of regal splendor.

Bishop Molloy Present

Among the 10 archbishops and 57 bishops present were Bishop Thomas E. Molloy, Auxiliary Bishop of Raymond A. Kearney of Brooklyn, among the prominent Catholic laymen, including many papal chamberlains and papal knights, were former Governor Alfred E. Smith, former Mayor John P. O'Brien, George MacDonald, the lone papal marquis of New York, and his son, Byrnes MacDonald, secretary to Mayor LaGuardia.

Others in the gathering of approximately 5,000 invited guests were Rear Admiral Clark H. Woodward, commandant of the 3d Naval District and the Brooklyn Navy Yard; Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commander of the first army, and former Ambassador to Britain Joseph Kennedy.

Prominent laymen at the consecration ceremony also included Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine, Fire Commissioner John J. McElligott and Postmaster General Frank Walker.

Archbishop Spellman was the consecrator and the co-consecrators were the Most Rev. Stephen J. Donahue, titular bishop of Medea and auxiliary bishop of New York, and the Most Rev. John F. O'Hara, titular bishop of Milasa and auxiliary bishop of the army and navy.

New Bishop Praised

A special program of music was rendered by the Seminary Choir of Cathedral College, directed by the Rev. Daniel P. O'Sullivan and Prof. Pietro Joni, honorary organist to the Vatican.

The Rt. Rev. Mons. Robert F. Keegan, secretary of the archbishop for charities, preached the sermon, congratulating the new auxiliary bishop on his promotion to the "sublime dignity of the episcopate" and pledging "our fervent prayers and our fullest co-operation for a fruitful episcopate."

He praised Bishop McIntyre as an "humble, God-fearing, zealous, hard-working priest" who would "carry all these splendid qualities of mind and heart into his exalted office."

200 Policemen on Duty

A detail of about 200 policemen assigned to the cathedral stood themselves with little to do when the procession was moved indoors. All were dismissed but about 40, half remaining outside the cathedral to keep traffic moving and the rest being stationed at various points inside.

Following the consecration ceremony members of the hierarchy attended a private luncheon at the Hotel Biltmore, where Bishop Molloy delivered an address on "Our Country." Other speakers included Archbishop Spellman and Mons. Donahue.

CIO to Strike At Plane Plant

750 engaged in an undisclosed amount of Government work, Ranger, smallest of the four, has a total of 390 men handling the filling of $7,500,000 of defense contracts.

It was revealed by officials of the Ranger firm that many of the 240 shop workers involved in the strike crisis, particularly those of German extraction, had been investigated by the FBI and that no recently-naturalized expatriates of Germany, except those resident here for many years, had been hired.

The plant, working on two shifts, one from 7:45 a.m. to 5:45 p.m. and the other from 7:45 p.m. to 6:15 a.m., now produces 76 air-cooled, in-line engines a month, sending them to the Fairchild Aviation Division at Hagerstown, Md., for installation into training planes for the Army.

Duncan B. Cox, general manager, hopes to step up production by the end of this year to 250 of the present six-cylinder and 40 12-cylinder engines a month, an expansion which would require the employment of about 750 additional shop workers, most of whom would benefit by the union's chief wage demand.

The new workers, it was pointed out, would include from 70 to 75 percent unskilled hands, for whom the union is demanding an increase of from 50 to 57½ cents an hour after the first two months, and the right after three months of service to be reclassified for inclusion in a higher wage bracket.

Firm Says Scale Is Fair

The company, noting that the plant is too small to warrant the introduction of a training school for beginners, contends that their initial operations cost the firm a large sum in ruined material and that therefore the existing wage scale is fair and equitable to all concerned.

Suffolk County and Farmingdale officials were to confer today with executives of the Ranger and Republic concerns on the closing of Conklin St., which passes near both factories, to guard against sabotage. Spokesmen of Local 681 have attributed the action to a desire to discourage organization of the aviation workers and to prevent picketing in the event of a strike. The Farmingdale Board of Trade has protested against the detour made necessary by the shutdown and threatened to apply for an injunction in Riverhead.

7 Jersey Officials Called In Campaign Spending Quiz

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP)—Seven New Jersey political and Government officials were called before the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee today to wind up public hearings that opened in New Jersey prior to the November election.

"These hearings must of necessity be brief because this committee must complete its final report to the Senate before Jan. 30," Chairman Gillette (D., Ia.) said.

Neary Hits 'Pressure' For Naming of Woman

Charges Bar Group Has Specific Person In Mind—Denies Need of Feminine Aide

Special to the Brooklyn Eagle

Mineola, Jan. 8.—District Attorney Edward J. Neary of Nassau County, firing the latest salvo in the battle with the Nassau County Women's Bar Association over his failure to appoint a woman Assistant District Attorney, charged today that the association had formed "a high-pressure group" but he refused to be stampeded.

He said that the association had a specific woman in mind for the post, of whose identity he was aware, although he refused to divulge it.

"There's no necessity for the naming of a woman," he stated, and went on to point out that Kings County has 31 assistant district attorneys and only one woman deputy assistant; Queens, 18, and no women; New York County, 70, and only two women, and Bronx County, 21, and no women.

He claimed that the association had no more right than any racial, religious or other type of high-pressure group to organize for the appointment of a specific person.

Meanwhile, the organization pressed its fight in a letter received by Mr. Neary today in which it pointed out that "women comprise a large portion of the taxpayers and of the population of Nassau County, and they are entitled to recognition and consideration."

Mr. Mary B. Maloney, president of the group, emphasized that the members did not object to the recent appointment as assistant of Moxey A. Rigby, Negro attorney, "as an individual," adding that the issue is "the appointment of an additional male to the staff."
